Terps' Krouse Still Seeking First Victory Over Speidel

By IRA MILLER
Assistant Sports Editor

Maryland's Sully Krouse gets his last shot at beating Charlie Speidel this weekend and you can be sure he'll be pulling out all the stops.

The volatile and outspoken Krouse has been Maryland's wrestling coach since it became a major sport there 16 years ago, and in that time the Terps have dominated the Atlantic Coast Conference like they own it—but they have never beaten Penn State and Speidel.

And this Saturday at College Park marks Krouse's last chance to beat the crafty Lion coach because this is Speidel's final season. In 13 previous meetings, State has won 12 and one ended in a tie.

48-0 in ACC

While Maryland has been having its troubles with State, the Terps have been piling up an almost unbelievable mark in the ACC. They have won every conference tournament and sport a 48-0 record against conference competition. And last year they had ACC champs in nine of the 10 weight classes.

But still Krouse, 94-42-3 overall, seeks his first win over State. Last year he almost exploded when a last-period pin by Ed Pohland in the final bout snatched victory

MARTY STRAYER

State.

In the Terps' two previous outings this season, they flattened North Carolina State, 32-0, and tripped Virginia, 21-10. They also placed third, behind Navy and Syracuse, in the Coast Guard Invitational Tournament last month.

Only one man in the Maryland lineup that will face State has tasted defeat this season—167-pounder Nelson Aurand. All the rest will go into the meet undefeated.

Bob Kopnisky, a junior from Shaler High School in Pittsburgh who wrestles at 157, is the Terps' top performer. He's 2-0 this year, was 7-1 last year and so far this season was runner-up in the Wilkes tournament (for the second straight year) and champion in the Coast Guard tourney.

Aurand, Wikander Second Maryland took two other high places besides Kopnisky's first in the Coast Guard tourney. Aurand and heavyweights Gary Wikander were both runners-up.

Wikander and 177-pounder Marshall Dauberman will be the only seniors in the Terp lineup. The rest of it shows Tom Schleicher at 123; Gary Langer at 130; John Henderson at 137; Frank Heffer at 147; Kopnisky at 157 and Aurand at 167. Not one of the Terp starters is a native of Maryland; all except Wikander and Langer are from Pennsylvania.

The State lineup will, of necessity, show at least two changes with Lee Wolfe and Joe Erasmus the likely candidates to replace Tom Balent and Dick Dewalt.

Strayer Only Unbeaten

With 80% of the season still ahead of them, the Lions have just one unbeaten wrestler left, 167-pounder Marty Strayer. Strayer shows a 1-0-1 mark to date with a tie against Michigan and win over Lehigh.

Navy appears to have taken command of a strong Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association race, at least for now.

The Middies beat Hofstra and Cornell in their first two outings and won't be really tested again until they battle Syracuse Feb. 1.

The Orangemen, defending Eastern champs, are 1-1, with the loss to Lehigh and will help Pitt open its season Saturday.

Visitors Have Outstanding Ballplayer In Ricardo Duarte; Winless on Tour

By JAMES BUKATA, Sports Editor

The Peru Olympic basketball team will appear at Rec Hall tonight in an exhibition contest against Penn State and it will have in the lineup one of the better foreign basketball players in the world today.

He is Ricardo Duarte, one of three brothers that will see plenty of action tonight. Duarte is a 6-7 forward who possesses a deadly outside shot and is big and strong enough to score inside.

Most observers who have seen him play say that he could start for any U.S. collegiate team and be a big star. He is averaging over 31 points a game against all competition and scored 27 against Pitt Tuesday night in a losing cause.

During a tour of the United States in 1961, Duarte averaged close to 30 points a game.

3 Duartes to Start

He will have two other brothers in the lineup to lend him support.

His older brother Enrique (6-3) will play the other forward while a younger brother Raul (6-8) will jump center.

Rounding out the starting lineup for the Peruvians will be Oscar Sevilla, a 6-2 guard and Antonio Sangio.

This will be the third game the Peru squad will play during a 12-game tour of the United States. The team lost to Oglethorpe, 89-66 Monday evening and fell before Pitt, 91-69.

In the game against the Panthers, the Peruvians held a 54-48 lead with a little over 11 minutes remaining. However Pitt went into a full court press and proceeded to score 26 straight points to put the game on ice.

McGregor Coach

Coaching the Peru team is Jim McGregor, a veteran when it comes to handling foreign teams. Before taking over the reigns in Peru, McGregor, a former college coach at Whitworth College, coached the national teams of Italy, Greece, Turkey, Austria and Sweden.

In two years he has brought the Peru team from fifth to second in South America and has coached the team to an Olympic berth next October in Japan. Only Brazil continues to hold the upper hand over the Peruvians.

Others on the squad are Juan Cardenas, Thomas Sangio, Faco Guzman, Francisco Saldarriaga, Oscar Benalcazar, Manuel Vigo, Jorge Vargas, Manuel Valerio and Simon Paredes.

Meanwhile, Lion coach John Egli said he will use the game to prepare the team for its important encounter with Pitt Saturday night and to give some of the reserves experience.

"We're not going out there to lose the game," Egli said. "The boys need the work too because we haven't played since Dec. 30."

The Lions will start Ron Avillion and Ray Saunders at the forwards, Carver Clinton and Bobby Donato and Bob Weiss at the guards.

In addition Egli said that Tom Malinchak, Terry Hoover, Jim Reed, Jerry Roseboro, Chuck Marin and Don Stepanausky will see plenty of action.

"I think we're going to have a real tough game on our hands," Egli said. "They are big and rough and remember some of these ballplayers have played together for a number of years."

The game will mark the only chance Lions fans will have to see the squad until late January when it hosts Lehigh.

Royal, Edwards Named Top Collegiate Coaches

NEW YORK (AP)—Likable young Darrell Royal of Texas and the man who almost hired him, Bill Edwards of Wittenberg, shared the honors yesterday as the 1963 college football Coaches of the Year.

Royal, whose Texas Longhorns swept through an all-winning season and were named the national championship team, gained the major college coaching award while Edwards won the small college award for the second straight year.

The two were selected at the annual convention of the American Football Coaches Association.

Their selections highlighted yesterday's session of the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention, which also produced these developments:

• The NCAA amended its constitution to broaden its purpose and scope, an amendment which Executive Director Walter Byers candidly admitted was aimed at the Amateur Athletic Union.

• The general convention rejected a proposal to drop its ban against summer basketball programs, but approved an amendment which would exempt the Superior League of Puerto Rico from the restriction.

• The convention also approved measures calling for regional football championships on the small college level, a small college national swimming championship, and setting up the machinery for a national collegiate indoor track and field championships.
