VOL. 64, No. 52

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE UNIVERSITY PARK, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY -14, 1964

FIVE CENTS

2nd Worst Storm Strikes College Area

'Blizzard'

Cripples

27.4 Inches of Snow, Bitter Cold Hit Area

By JOEL MYERS

A 27.4 inch snowfall, second heaviest in history, paralyzed central Pennsylvania yesterday, and strong winds threatened to hamper clean-up operations.

The mighty storm forced schools to close throughout the state and brought land and air travel to a

Classes To Meet Today Despite Heavy Snowfall

By MEL ZIEGLER

Despite high winds expected to pile up snow drifts of five to six feet by morning, University officials said yesterday classes probably will be held as usual today.

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the President said the final de-cision will be made before first period classes are scheduled to

