

Weather Forecast:
Cloudy,
Rain

The Daily

Collegian

WDFM Wins
--See Page 2

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 65, No. 44

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 25, 1964

SIX CENTS

Coronation Of Queen Set for HUB

The WDFM Transmitter Fund drive, which ends for the term at 5 p.m. today, will climax tonight with the crowning of "Miss WDFM" at the Junk Machine Jammy in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

The WDFM Transmitter Fund drive, which ends for the term at 5 p.m. today, will climax tonight with the crowning of "Miss WDFM" at the Junk Machine Jammy in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Kenneth Hershberger, station manager of WDFM, will crown the queen at approximately 10 p.m., and will introduce her court.

Nine University coeds are competing for the title.

Voting for the contestants will continue until 5 p.m. today, with every 10-cent donation for the fund worth one vote.

Robert Williams, chairman of the queen competition, announced again last night that voting is "extremely close" and any contestant has a chance for victory.

Contributors for the fund or for the queen candidates may be delivered to The Daily Collegian office, basement of Sackett, or donated at the WDFM booth opposite the Hetzel Union assembly room.

'65 Class To Select PSU Gift

Members of the Class of 1965 will select their class gift to the University during winter registration Jan. 5-6, Bruce Trotman, senior class president, announced last night.

All seniors will be eligible to vote on the gift, which this year will total about $7,600, Trotman said.

Final selection of voting choices will not be made until tomorrow, but two of the choices are expected to be partial payment toward a new WDFM transmitter and erection of a University information booth on Pollock Road at N. Atherton Street.

"There has been much speculation that the class gift will go toward the WDFM transmitter, but the decision will be made by seniors at registration," Trotman said.

The information booth, originally planned by the University administration, has been redesigned to be within the scope of available finances in the class gift fund.

Trotman also announced that no collections for class gifts will be made at winter registration, but that such donations will again be received at registration for spring term.

Rain Predicted For Afternoon

Occasional rain is expected to begin today and continue tonight. It will be cloudy today and tonight, and the high will be about 46 degrees.

Tonight's low will be near 38.

Tomorrow should be partly cloudy and cool with a high of 44. Friday should be slightly colder.

the world: nov. 25

Congo Rebels Kill 15

In fast-moving developments in The Congo yesterday, 15 persons, including two Americans, were massacred in a public square, and airborne troops swiftly captured the rebel capital of Stanleyville.

Flown in U.S. planes, 383 Belgian paratroopers parachuted onto the Stanleyville airport and claimed its capture in four minutes. With rescue only minutes away, 15 white hostages were mowed down by machine gun fire in Patrice Lumumba Square.

Among the reported dead were Dr. Paul Carlson, an American medical missionary, and Phyllis Rine, another American missionary. Carlson had been sentenced to die as a spy last week but hurried international negotiations staved off the execution.

Another fatality in Tuesday's conflicts was George Clay, African Affairs Editor for NBC News, who was killed in the advance of Congolese troops. U. S. State Department sources said an estimated 15 to 20 were slaughtered in the square and 15 more were shot down at an airport hotel. The State Department said it will demand that the Congo rebel leaders answer for the deaths of the two Americans. "The rebels apparently escaped from Stanleyville. By last evening, some 800 rescued hostages had been flown to safety in Leopoldville."

Anti-Poverty War Underway

Lions Nix Bowl Offers

Penn State's football team voted last night to refuse any invitations to post-season bowl games.

The voting took place in a closed-doors meeting of the players following a team dinner at the Nittany Lion Inn. No coaches were present during the balloting.

The Lions, who staged the best comeback in Penn State history, finished with a 6-4 record after losing their first three games. Included in that sparkling comeback were lopsided victories over Ohio State (27-0), then ranked second in the nation, and arch-rival Pitt (28-0) in the finale last Saturday.

Several bowl committees, including representatives from the Sun, Liberty and Gator Bowls, had expressed interest in State during the past week. University officials reportedly rejected unofficial feelers from the Sun and Liberty Bowls, but up to last night a bid to the Gator Bowl was a very strong possibility.

Florida State, ranked tenth nationally, already has accepted a bid as the Gator Bowl's team. Auburn (6-3) and Georgia Tech (7-2) also were under consideration, but Tech made an announcement earlier this week similar to that made by Penn State last evening.

Spectrum Ends Publication; Editor Cites Interest Lag

By JOYCE McKEEVER

Another Penn State magazine is dying.

After 55 years of continuous publication, The Spectrum, published by students of engineering, chemistry, physics and Mineral Industries has discontinued publication.

The decision was made Monday by the magazine's managing board and its adviser, Donald S. Pearson, professor of electrical engineering.

Editor James Sloughly cited lack of student interest as the main reason for Spectrum's discontinuance. This year's subscriptions were so low, he said, that the editors saw no reason for publication.

All students who did subscribe for this year's issues will receive a refund through the material and the magazine wasn't selling.

"The magazine's University charter, however, has not been revoked. Funds will still be available for a number of years, Sloughly said.

Always in Trouble Willis Conover, Spectrum magazine editor, noted that the name was changed to The Spectrum "has always been in trouble." The publishing has Fred Waehlchli in 1962. Spectrum achieved financial solvency.

The growing lack of interest in Spectrum over the years has been a result of the increasing deemphasis of student activities, Conover noted. "Since the magazine is manned by technical students, there seems to be more emphasis on academic achievement," he said.

Last year's skeleton staff had a good financial standing, according to Conover. He noted that the advertising was particularly good since many companies were willing to advertise in a student engineering publication.

"We had a good publication," Sloughly said, "but the magazine always came out late because we didn't have enough material and the magazine wasn't selling."

61 Amalgamation In 1961, The Penn State engineer incorporated the publications of the Colleges of Mineral Industries and Science to gain a wider audience and the name was changed to The Spectrum. Under the editorship of Fred Waehlchli in 1962, Spec-

Soprano To Perform Holiday Concert Tickets Remain

Tickets are still available for the Artists Series holiday offering, a recital by mezzo-soprano Teresa Berganza, at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab.

Miss Berganza comes to the university with many performances to her credit, and much approval from music critics for the quality of her voice.

Her American recital debut in the Harvard Square series (November, 1962) was hailed by the Boston Herald as "a concert of crystalline loveliness. Miss Berganza's voice is exceedingly pure, tonally ravishing and achieves profound communication."

'Few Equals' The New York Herald Tribune critic was enthusiastic about her New York debut three days later. "Miss Berganza's recital was of such staggering beauty and refinement, of such incredible accomplishment that one's objectivity dims before the dazzling impact of her artistry. . . Berganza can do no wrong and she has few equals in sheer personal magnetism."

With the piano accompaniment of her husband, Felix Lavilla, Miss Berganza's recital will feature a number of familiar selections, as well as a group of modern Spanish songs.

The program will be as follows: "Piango, gemo sospiro" Antonio Vivaldi, "Alleluia" by Henry Purcell, "La zingara" by Gaetano Donizetti, a selection from "Semiramide" by Gioacchino Rossini.

"Claire de Lune" by Claude Debussy, "Chanson Espagnole" by Maurice Ravel, "Sans feu ni lieu" by Darius Milhaud, "Lune d'Avril" by Francis Poulenc, "Jesus de Nazareth" by Joaquin Nin, "Mananila de San Juran" by Jesus Guridi, "Aquel sombrero de monte" by Fernando Obradors, "Canciones populares espanolas" by Lavilla, and three songs by Manuel de Falla: "Seguidilla Murciana," "Jota," and "Polo."

Pie-Eatin' Jammy Applications Set

Campus groups planning to participate in the WDFM Pie-Eatin' Jammy, to be held Jan. 10 by Delta Chi fraternity and Kappa Delta sorority, are reminded that applications are now available at the Hetzel Union desk and must be returned there by Dec. 7.

A two dollar entrance fee is charged, and all proceeds from the combination event will go to the WDFM Transmitter Fund.

Communist Gain in Italy

Italian Premier Aldo Moro's government was threatened in weekend elections as the Italian Communist Party gained its largest share ever of popular votes. Voting tabulations show Moro's controversial left-center government confronted with a possible crisis of confidence. The likelihood is now strong of increased attacks from the Communist on the left and free-enterprising Liberal party on the right. Italian political observers are puzzling over the reasons for the steady gains of Communism in that country of booming prosperity. Most experts believe that most voters voted against the rich, entrenched bureaucracy.

King Reschedules Talk for January

The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., clergyman and civil rights leader, has rescheduled his previously postponed address at the University, and will appear at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 21 in Recreation Building.

The address, sponsored by the Artists and Lecture Series, had originally been scheduled for last night, but was postponed two weeks ago because of the Rev. Mr. King's illness.

SENSE Plans Demonstration Against Taylor

Thirty members of SENSE, Students for Peace, will demonstrate from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today at the corner of College Avenue and S. Allen Street to protest U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's expected recommendation to extend the war in South Viet Nam.

SENSE representative Jacob Heyman said a booth will be set up at the corner and literature concerning the organization will be distributed to passersby.

Taylor is scheduled to meet in Washington with President Johnson this week and is expected to propose a general expansion of the Viet Nam war. He is said to favor the use of bombs on several areas of the troubled Far East.

King Reschedules Talk for January

The address, sponsored by the Artists and Lecture Series, had originally been scheduled for last night, but was postponed two weeks ago because of the Rev. Mr. King's illness.

'Tis A Sorry Plot

University to bring culture to the campuses. Pictured from left to right are Robin Anslinger, Jo Sbarbaro, and Dale Livingston.

COMPLETE WITH COSTUME, the Penn State Singers will travel to three Commonwealth Campuses to present the operetta "The Maid as Mistress" by Pergolesi. The tour is part of a program initiated by the

See related story page four.

Western Pennsylvania Power Company officials used a circuit breaker to turn off the power and Alpha firemen checked the Municipal Building roof for possible fire. None was discovered, however.

A power company employee said he thought the short circuit originated when an automobile hit one of the electric poles in the alley, causing secondary circuits to swing against each other bringing about a short.

He added that the company has not yet determined the actual cause of the mishap.

Sparks jumped along the wires between two poles, but did not spread farther than one block. A West Penn employee estimated it would be approximately one hour before normal power could be restored.

The broken circuit caused a loss of electricity in all buildings from Fraser to South Burrows Streets and between College and Beaver Avenues.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks (BPOE) Building on South Burrows Street and Koch Funeral Home were without electricity.

Both buildings had over one hundred people in them when the short circuit occurred.

Party Heads Argue Possible Merger

By LAURIE DEVINE

There exists the "strong possibility" that Campus and Liberal parties will temporarily merge for winter term elections of the Undergraduate Student Government.

This statement was jointly issued last night by James Conahan, Campus Party chairman, Philip Goldsmith, Campus Party vice chairman and Brian Sherwood, Liberal Party chairman.

Statement Pending According to Goldsmith, the leaders will be "working out the details" today and will "possibly" be ready to issue a positive statement on the issue later today.

Gary Legon, chairman of University Party, said late last night the possibility of merger is "simply hearsay and in the eyes of many cheap propaganda more designed to further certain political purposes."

"I can assure you that there exists an ever stronger possibility that the complete rank and file of Liberal Party, with the exception of the party chairman, Brian Sherwood, will either join University Party during the winter term or collaborate completely with it. This has been learned on the authority of the vice chairman of Liberal Party, Benjamin Novak."

Elections will be held Jan. 18-20 to fill the 10 USG Congress seats from the individual living areas which were reapportioned earlier this term under the new constitution. Freshman class president will also be elected at this time.

Conahan termed the proposed merger "a temporary measure to present the strongest possible ticket to the voters in the election."

He said the goal was to assemble hard-working leaders of academic excellence and high integrity.

The projected coalition would utilize leadership of both parties under the platform and ticket heading of Campus-Liberal.

All arrangements must be settled by Jan. 10 when the parties will hold their nominating conventions for the USG winter elections. Registration will be held Jan. 7 and 10. Even if the proposed merger is confirmed, Conahan stated that registration for Campus and Liberal parties will be separate.

Excels Named Conahan also announced the recent appointment of the party's executives: Goldsmith and Robert Lewis, vice-chairmen, Leslie Evans, secretary-treasurer, and Jon Dranov, party press secretary.

Conahan said those candidates from Campus party will be bound by a new party constitutional by-law which requires that all elected candidates be ratified by a public vote of confidence at the end of winter term. Unless over 50 per cent of those voting approve him, the candidate must resign.

The purpose of this measure, according to Conahan, is to increase the direct responsibility of the leaders to the students who elected them.

Spectators Watch As Sparks Fly

Green and yellow sparks flashed across Calder Street at 6:45 last night when a short circuit occurred in a power line on Fraser Street in front of the State College Municipal Building.

Western Pennsylvania Power Company officials used a circuit breaker to turn off the power and Alpha firemen checked the Municipal Building roof for possible fire. None was discovered, however.

A power company employee said he thought the short circuit originated when an automobile hit one of the electric poles in the alley, causing secondary circuits to swing against each other bringing about a short.

He added that the company has not yet determined the actual cause of the mishap.

Sparks jumped along the wires between two poles, but did not spread farther than one block. A West Penn employee estimated it would be approximately one hour before normal power could be restored.

The broken circuit caused a loss of electricity in all buildings from Fraser to South Burrows Streets and between College and Beaver Avenues.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks (BPOE) Building on South Burrows Street and Koch Funeral Home were without electricity.

Both buildings had over one hundred people in them when the short circuit occurred.

Resume Work On WPSX-TV Transmitter

After a week's delay, work on the WPSX-TV transmitter and tower, located in the Elliot State Park, seven miles north of Clearfield, work was interrupted last week when workers had to stay an extra week in Harrisburg, due to a malfunction in a new transmitter belonging to WIPF-TV, Channel 33, the Harrisburg-Hershey educational television station.

Workers returned today, however, and work on the WPSX-TV transmitter is being resumed.

The transmitter is expected to be completed by January 7, 1965.

Party Heads Argue Possible Merger

Interested in turkey hunting than dancing.

Decorating Fest In addition, West will have its annual Christmas decorating party tonight and all students are invited to help decorate the Waring lounge tree. Refreshments will be served.

Pollock will have an open house from 2-5 p.m. tomorrow. At this time male and female residents will be permitted to visit each other's living units.

Special Events

North will have its Christmas decorating party tomorrow evening immediately preceding the jammy.

Committees Set Term-End Fling

By JUNE FIEL

Another full schedule of events is on deck this week as the Hetzel Union Committees swing into the holiday spirit and wind up a successful term.

The Special Events Committee is featuring a Turkey Give-Away today. Committee members will be stationed at a table near an entrance to the Lion's Den keeping tabs of the approximate number of students passing by until the 1,000 mark is reached.

Then, according to Robert Katzenstein, general chairman of the HUB Committees, the three top prizes will be awarded. Student number 1,001 will receive first prize—a live turkey. However, possession of the gobble will be only on the condition that the winner take it to class next Wednesday.

Second prize, a filet mignon Thanksgiving Day dinner for two at the Nittany Lion Inn, will be given to student 1,002. Third place is a "big surprise," Katzenstein said.

The long-awaited Junk Machine Jammy will be held from 8:30 p.m. to 12 p.m. tonight in the HUB ballroom. The event, sponsored by the Social and Special Events Committees, will feature music by the Scoundrels. Admission is $25 and the proceeds will go to the WDFM transmitter fund.

The climax of phase one of the current fund drive will come tonight with the crowning of Miss WDFM at the jammy. Katzenstein said the winner will be presented with a half dozen roses as a compliment from the committees.

Students who are patients in Ritenour on Thanksgiving Day will be treated to parfaits by the Hospitality Committee.

Sally Bergman, chairman, said the parfaits will be distributed at the Hetzel Union desk during the afternoon. "We'd like to do our part to make the patients' Thanksgiving Day a little more pleasant," she noted.

Nickelodeon Nights No. 7

Essay Contest Entries Sent

Letters inviting International students to participate in an essay contest concerning U.S. relations were sent out in the mail yesterday and today by the International and National Affairs Committee of the Undergraduate Student Government.

The paper is to be a critical essay in which the students are asked to give their opinions of U.S. relations with their countries. It is hoped that many students who have wished to express their thoughts on this subject will take this opportunity to do so.

An award of $100 will be given to the student submitting the best essay. The committee will, in addition, publish a booklet containing the most interesting essays.

Judging of the essays will be done by a special committee of probably eight to ten people which is now being formed. A uniform criteria for the judging is also being established.

Essays are to be turned in at the Hetzel Union desk during the afternoon. "We'd like to do our part to make the patients' Thanksgiving Day a little more pleasant," she noted.

Nickelodeon Nights No. 7

Christmas Concert Scheduled

Guest soloist tenor David Dodds will sing the lead role in Benjamin Britten's cantata "St. Nicolas" in the University Chapel Choir's annual Christmas concert at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 4 in Schwab.

The chapel choir, the Alard String Quartet, members of the Meditation Chapel Choir, the University Symphony Orchestra, the Blue Band and the Brass Ensemble will combine talents under the direction of Mrs. Willa Taylor.

The score of "St. Nicolas," premiered in 1948, calls for one soloist, mixed and treble choirs, percussion, organ and audience participation.

St. Nicolas, or more universally known in his disguise of Santa Claus, was the patron saint of seamen, children and travelers. The libretto by Eric Crozier describes legendary incidents in the life of Nicolas, who died early in the fourth century.

Guest tenor Dodds is a graduate of the University of Kansas and winner of the American Opera Auditions of 1961. He has sung opera in Milan, Italy, and with the Santa Fe Opera Company, and has appeared as soloist with the New York Pro Musica, the Abbey Singers and the Riverside Chamber Singers.

Joining him in featured roles are sopranos Richard Avey, Allen Avey and John Mullin; members of the Pleasant Gap Methodist Church Junior Choir portraying the roles of "Timothy, Mary and John" three lads whom Nicolas miraculously restores to life.

Preceding the cantata, the choir, the string orchestra and University organist Leonard Raver will present selections from Geminiani, Sweetelick, d'Aquin and Schutz.

SENSE Plans Demonstration Against Taylor

Thirty members of SENSE, Students for Peace, will demonstrate from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today at the corner of College Avenue and S. Allen Street to protest U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's expected recommendation to extend the war in South Viet Nam.

SENSE representative Jacob Heyman said a booth will be set up at the corner and literature concerning the organization will be distributed to passersby.

Taylor is scheduled to meet in Washington with President Johnson this week and is expected to propose a general expansion of the Viet Nam war. He is said to favor the use of bombs on several areas of the troubled Far East.

King Reschedules Talk for January

The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., clergyman and civil rights leader, has rescheduled his previously postponed address at the University, and will appear at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 21 in Recreation Building.

The address, sponsored by the Artists and Lecture Series, had originally been scheduled for last night, but was postponed two weeks ago because of the Rev. Mr. King's illness.

'Tis A Sorry Plot

University to bring culture to the campuses. Pictured from left to right are Robin Anslinger, Jo Sbarbaro, and Dale Livingston.

COMPLETE WITH COSTUME, the Penn State Singers will travel to three Commonwealth Campuses to present the operetta "The Maid as Mistress" by Pergolesi. The tour is part of a program initiated by the

See related story page four.

-Collegian Photo by Ken Franklin