

Viet Allies End Summit Talks

The signing of the documents was the final formal act of the summit meeting.

As host president, Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines signed first. He then passed copies around to be signed simultaneously by President Johnson, Prime Minister Harold Holt of Australia, Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake of New Zealand, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand, President Chung Hee Park of South Korea and two South Vietnamese, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and the Saigon strong man, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Marcos, wearing the embroidered Philippine shirt that is the national costume, asked if any leaders wanted to comment. Thieu did, in a brief speech of thanks of his allies. Marcos made a last statement hailing the allied unity expressed in the documents. There were handshakes all around by smiling leaders and the Manila summit of 1966 was at an end.

Even back at the Manila Hotel were President and Mrs. Johnson and all the Pacific government chiefs stayed, the note was a happy one. A threatened demonstration, such as the one by 2,000 students in that area the night before, failed to materialize.

The only demonstrators were about 20 youngsters bearing signs praising the summit-teers.

The leaders introduced their communique with a basic statement of policy picturing their nations as "united in determination that the freedom of South Vietnam be secured, in their resolve for peace and in other deep concern for the future of Asia and the Pacific."

United Purpose.

After promising to continue military effort as long as necessary to end aggression, it added:

"At the same time our united purpose is peace, peace in South Vietnam and the rest of Asia and the Pacific. Our sole demand on the leaders of North Vietnam is that they abandon their aggression. We are prepared to pursue any avenue which could lead to a secure and just peace, whether through discussion and negotiation or through reciprocal actions by both sides to reduce the violence."

A large section of the final communique was devoted to South Vietnam's internal affairs: its progress with the military effort, its "pacification and revolutionary development" programs and its efforts toward economic stability and political evolution.

The Vietnamese government, said the communique, while noting significant military progress against the Communist insurrection, also found that "movement of forces from North Vietnam continues at a high rate and that firm military action and free world support continue to be required to meet the threat."

The Saigon leaders announced their government was preparing a "program of national reconciliation" which would open all doors to Vietnamese "misled or coerced into casting their lots with the Viet Cong." The program would bring them back to participate as free men in national life under amnesty and other measures."

Vietnamese Elections

The Vietnamese leaders said they would begin holding elections at village and hamlet levels at the beginning of next year and plan national elections by next fall.

Regarding the division of Vietnam into north and south, brought about by the 1954 Geneva Conference after France was defeated in Indochina, the Saigon leaders said this division, "however unfortunate and regrettable," would be observed until unification is achieved by "the free choice of all Vietnamese."

Ron Carter Trio To Perform Free This Weekend

Three of Miles Davis' sidemen, comprising the Ron Carter Trio, will deliver the first free Jazz Club Concert of the term at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Hetzel Union Ballroom.

The trio played with the incomparable Davis during the late '50's, when the pet were billed as the Miles Davis Quartet.

Ron Carter plays bass, Wayne Shorter is on sax and Tony Williams on drums. Williams gained fame as the jazz world's "21-year-old wonder" when he was only 17.

Students Get ROTC Positions

Two University students, James L. Wolfe (10th-agronomy-Verona) and Bruce E. Macomber (10th-meteorology-Hingham, Mass.) have been assigned new offices in the Air Force ROTC.

Cadet Colonel Wolfe has assumed command of the Cadet Wing of Detachment 720. Coming through the ranks over the past years as a basic and advanced cadet, Wolfe has received awards in the Drill Team and the Scabbard and Blade. He is also a member of the Arnold Air Society and the Agronomy Club.

Macomber has been named new Information Staff Officer. He is actively involved in the student movement of University reform, previously as co-chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee for Student Freedom and currently as co-editor of Student-Faculty Dialogue. He is president of the Methodist Student Movement at the University and has just been elected Undergraduate Student Government town congressman.

Both Wolfe and Macomber are recipients of the Chicago Tribune Award for outstanding cadet achievement and leadership capacity.

'Spectrum' To Go On Sale in HUB

This year's first issue of "Spectrum," the College of Engineering and Science publication, will go on sale tomorrow and Friday on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building and in the Engineering Library.

The main topic of this month's issue is lasers and atomic power in the Commonwealth. In addition, there is a photographic essay on "The Great Race-Registration."

The magazine sells for 25 cents. Subscription holders are reminded to bring their cards when picking up their copies.

Jawbone Tapes LP

By BETH GOLDER
Collegian Staff Writer

The "Sounds of the Jawbone" will be on record being taped by RCA this weekend at the Jawbone, Larry Trettin, Jawbone coordinator, said the 33 1/2 longplay record will hopefully be available a week before winter break.

The coffee house's patrons should recognize all of the record's performers. "The Jaw" has featured Mike Bouman (10th-art-Levittown) and Connie Woodring (10th-journalism-Easton) many times. Other performers, who will all use original work, are Larry Brown (7th-English-Phila.), Sherry Erhard (7th-English-Erie), Jeanne (Grube) Fera (7th-English-Emporium), Jerry Marince (10th-B.A.-Erie), John North (10th-mathematics-Lewistown) and Dan Shaffer (12th-political-science-York).

Students do most of the folksinging at the Jawbone, as well as furnishing art work and manning the grill and the kitchen. However, Trettin, who has performed several times this term, will have one song on the record. John Haag, a well-known English professor, will also read some of his poetry.

At 6:30 tonight in Findlay lounge Connie Woodring, Sherry Erhard; Dan Shaffer, plus Larry and Debby Trettin, will provide a preview to "The Sounds of the Jawbone" as publicity for the record.

Trettin said that the performers are available for hour performances in living units or dormitory areas. Anyone interested should call the Jawbone. He also announced that the Lutheran Student Association, which sponsors the Jawbone, will sell the $4.00 records in the Hetzel Union Building if they are ready for sale this term.

"Expansion of consciousness" nights are another project of the Jawbone. Trettin emphasized that they are not "verbal LSD" but "another way to expand consciousness" through dialogue with faculty members.

The Jawbone is working in cooperation with the Thursday night Faculty-Student Dialogues. Its sessions will be held from eight to eleven on four Wednesday nights in November. On Nov. 2, Henry S. Albinski, associate professor of political science, will introduce the topic "Should America Be an Asian Policeman?" Other speakers this term are Romano Mastromattiel from the religious studies department, Chadwick Hansen, associate professor of English and Bruce Knox, assistant professor of solid state technology.

The dialogues give students a chance to talk with professors informally over a cup of coffee, according to Trettin. He said they are "an opportunity to speak to professors" without having "to worry about being graded on comments" and there is more opportunity to go into a topic than in the classroom.

There will be eight "Expansion of Consciousness" nights during winter term. One speaker will be Ernest Polard, the head of the biophysics department.

Committee Rebukes Bishop Pike For 'Irresponsible Utterances'

WHEELING, W.Va. (P) — Bishop James A. Pike of California was rebuked yesterday by a committee of the Protestant Episcopal Church House of Bishops, but the committee recommended against a heresy trial.

The ad hoc committee, appointed to study the possibility of a heresy trial against Bishop Pike, said in a statement delivered to the bishops that it was "deeply concerned with the irresponsibility revealed in many of his (Pike's) utterances."

The committee recommended, however, not to have a heresy trial because of the harm it might do to the church and because "the church has more important things to get on with."

Open Language

The committee also said, "The language of faith is frequently open to unimaginative and literalistic interpretation. There is constant need for reinterpretation and recasting, especially in a time of such rapid intellectual and social change as ours."

But the committee said the reinterpretation and recasting calls for "sensitive, pastoral care and for patience and reverent penetration." The committee said Bishop Pike has "too little of this patient and reverent penetration."

One of the members of the committee is the Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, bishop of South Florida, who initiated accusations of heresy against Bishop Pike.

Views on Virgin Birth

Bishop Louttit has accused Bishop Pike of espousing heretical views, primarily aimed at his published statements on the Virgin Birth and the Trinity.

Bishop Pike resigned the sial subjects and the proceeds may be donated to such groups as JOIN or SNCC.

It is anticipated that Paul Krasner, editor of the Realist, will speak at the University during winter term. Other fund-raising activities are also planned.

Local organizations in the residence halls will include student speakers who will discuss the purpose of SDS and try to gain wide-spread support. The cultural, social, or educational secretaries of each hall will be contacted to call meetings for this purpose.

The next SDS meeting will be held in coordination with a talk to be given by James E. Grant Jr. on Black Power at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Hillel Foundation.

Grant To Speak at Hillel, On 'Black Power, Whither'

"Black Power, Whither" will be the topic of discussion at the Hillel Foundation Nov. 1. James Grant, (graduate-biochemistry-State College) will lead discussion, according to Naomi Cohen (4th-social welfare-York), the discussion chairman.

In the next four weeks, new ideas and new programs are planned "to reach the most people," she said. Paul Friedman, a graduate student in speech, will analyze "American Jewish Life as Reflected in American Literature," Nov. 8.

The author of "The Wild Goat of Ein Gedi," Rabbi Herbert Weiner from South Orange, New Jersey, has agreed to discuss his book Nov. 15.

Aaron Druckman, a philosophy professor, will lead the discussion at the final program of the term. The meetings are at 8 p.m. Tuesdays. Refreshments will be provided.

Miss Cohen urged anyone with ideas for future programs to contact her. She said she hopes to create a feeling among students that "on Tuesday night, Hillel is the place to go."

Inspetcor, IFC Safety Council Begins Systematic Housing Check

by the end of the term and the houses can be repaired during Christmas vacation.

Faxon said that most of the houses' alumni associations didn't want to provide the necessary eight or 10 thousand dollars for the repairs unless they were "imperative repairs."

The fraternity houses represent the last public housing within the borough that will come under a housing code law. It will also be the first time that any borough official has ever inspected these houses, although three years ago a representative of the state government did come to State College to look over the fraternity houses.

"Housekeeping habits have shown a definite sign of improvement and I'm reasonably sure that they will keep it this way since for the most part the houses spent many hours cleaning their houses for the inspection and they wouldn't want that time to go to waste" Faxon said.

Both the IFC Safety Council, the borough, and Faxon want the inspections to continue on a yearly basis. Faxon said that he would like to inspect the houses right after fall registration, enabling him to finish by spring and devote the rest of the year to the borough residents.
