

Spring Week Proceeds Finance USG Scholarships

In addition to providing students with entertainment, the Spring Week activities also provide money for the Undergraduate Student Government scholarship fund. Students fail to realize this function of Spring Week, according to Spring Week Chairman Dick Lippin.

The profits from Spring Week are added to a principal which has been invested by the Board of Trustees. The amount available for scholarships each year comes from the interest which has developed from the invested principal along with traffic fines from that year.

Application Requirements

Applicants must be needy, full-time students, who have an all-University average of at least 2.50.

"Students who have made important contributions through their campus activities will be considered foremost among the applicants," according to Ralph N. Kreckler, director of student aid. In this way, Kreckler said, students who have made an attempt to improve the campus life will receive recognition.

A committee composed of the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, the president and vice president of USG, and the director of student aid screen the applicants and make the awards.

Loan Fund

In addition to the scholarships, a loan fund has also been provided. The loans provide emergency assistance to students who are in immediate need of money. Upperclassmen are considered first for these loans, Kreckler said.

Students interested in USG scholarships who have already applied for regular University scholarships should inform the office of Student Aid that they wish to be considered.

Interested students who have not completed applications are urged to do so immediately. Forms are available in the Office of Student Aid, Nittany 32. In addition, a parents confidential statement must be completed and sent to the College Scholarship Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

Jones Appointed Resident Executive By Business College

J. V. Jones, vice president and general manager in charge of building, industry, and defense products operations of the Armstrong Cork Co., Lancaster, will serve as business executive residence at the University's College of Business Administration during the Spring Term.

He is the second business executive to occupy this position. Jones will teach an advanced policy seminar in administration for graduate students in collaboration with Max D. Richards, professor and head of the department of management. He will also teach undergraduate courses in public relations and administrative strategy.

Student groups will have an opportunity to discuss management topics with him, and faculty members from the departments of marketing, management, and accounting will have opportunities to discuss current business problems facing top management.

Overall Coordination The policy seminar focuses on problems of overall coordination of operations in the firm and analysis of strategies for the most effective achievement of corporate goals.

Jones' company has made available financial, organizational, planning, and control data to serve as the basis for lectures and discussion. These materials will be analyzed in the classroom to provide students with insights into the practical problems and methods of coordinating the parts of the business as a whole.

Jones joined the Armstrong Cork Company in 1936 following his graduation from the University of Chicago. He was based in the Chicago District until 1940, when he became manager of the Acoustical Department of the Company's home office in Lancaster.

After serving successively as manager of the Lumber Dealer Products Department and sales manager of the Building Products Division he became vice president and Operations General Manager in 1963. He was elected a director of the company in 1966. A native of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, Jones became a citizen of the United States at an early age when his parents moved to Cleveland, O.

The Business Executive in Residence program was initiated in the Fall Term 1966 to give outstanding business firms and their leaders an opportunity to contribute their talent and experience to education for business leadership and to give students an opportunity for personal contact and dialogue with practical business leaders.

The program, according to Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration, not only enriches the educational experience of students but also will ultimately benefit business.

The University program has been developed with the aid of the Visiting Council of the College of Business Administration, a group of management leaders who have been serving as advisers on the future development of the College. James H. Binn, senior vice president of the Armstrong Cork Company, is a member of the Council.

Raps Committee Resolution

Long Promises Fight Against Dodd Censure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long pledged Friday to fight censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd. He said half of the Senate ethics committee members couldn't stand the investigation of the Connecticut Senator went through.

The ethics committee composed of three Democrats and three Republicans unanimously recommended Thursday that a Dodd be censured for diverting at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal use and for double billing for travel expenses.

The committee's proposed resolution of censure says that Dodd's conduct "is contrary to accepted morals, derogates from the public trust expected of a senator, and tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

Long, the assistant Democratic leader in the Senate told a reporter that as far as he is concerned Dodd "has done nothing to deserve censure."

Long said he will "vote and fight" against censuring Dodd who asserted that he has done nothing wrong and that his conscience is clear.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., is chairman of the ethics committee.

The vice chairman is Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah. The other members are Sens.

Pattee To Exhibit Microfilm

Examples from the microfilm collection of the Pattee Library at the University have been placed on exhibit in the stair hall on the second floor of the library to help students and faculty become better acquainted with one of the major research tools at their disposal in Pattee.

The scope and depth of the collection can only be suggested in the exhibit, for in addition to technical, scientific and thesis materials available only in microformat, the libraries maintain their entire collection of newspapers on microfilm, discarding paper issues as soon as the film is received.

The collection also contains micro-reproductions of enormous collections or rare and out-of-print book materials represented in such bibliographies as Charles Evans Bibliography of American Imprints and the Short Title Catalogs of Wing, Pollard and Redgrave.

The libraries are also making important acquisitions in the area of micro-reproduction of important manuscript collections, such as the Presidential Papers at the Library of Congress and the Papers of the Adams Family. Much of this material is available in no other format.

Film sheet transparencies in several sizes (known as microfiche) are also part of the collection. The library prefers to acquire transparent microfor-mat, which can be easily reproduced in the library in page-size, eye visible copies by using a reader-printer.

A microfilm collection is essential to a research library, not only for unique items unavailable in any other format, but as a means of combating the tremendous storage problems facing libraries. A dozen drawers of microfilm can hold the equivalent of 20,000 or more volumes on stack shelves. They also represent a saving of time and effort for the user.

With a little instruction, library patrons find microfilm materials easy to use. Microfilm readers are located adjacent to storage facilities in the micro arm collections, as well as a collection of guides and indexes supplemental to the general reference collection.

Reference personnel are available to assist in locating needed microform materials.

Greek Militarists Parade Top Prisoners for Newsmen

ATHENS (AP) — With a show of confidence in the iron grip it imposed on Greece a week ago, the military regime paraded its top political prisoners before newsmen yesterday.

Outside Greece, meanwhile, widespread demonstrations were staged against the militarist government.

A reliable diplomatic source in Athens said the United States and British governments have indicated at least acceptance of the militarists who have embraced young King Constantine as their ally.

The source noted that both British and the United States have officially acknowledged appointment of a new foreign minister, Paul Economou Gouras.

The United States and Britain traditional allies and helpers of Greece, were not required to recognize the new regime in Greece because the countries' ambassadors are officially accredited to 26-year-old King Constantine II and not to any specific government.

Coppolino Given Life for Murder

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — After a trial unprecedented in legal history, Dr. Carl Coppolino was convicted yesterday of second degree murder of his pretty young wife, Carmela, and immediately sentenced to life imprisonment.

A 12-man jury deliberating less than four hours, found the slender 34-year-old anesthesiologist guilty of a charge never before made—murder by injection of the paralyzing drug succinylcholine.

Pale and dazed, the dark-haired, hawk-nosed Coppolino stood speechless while Circuit Judge Lynn Silvertooth intoned the sentence of prison "for the remainder of your natural life." in the small, hot courtroom.

Bailey To Appeal

Equally stunned, Coppolino's celebrated chief counsel, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, shouted that the verdict was "a flat compromise between guilt and innocence" and predicted that it would be thrown out on appeal. Bailey, who rocketed to fame when he gained a new trial that freed Dr. Sam Sheppard, had predicted when the jury retired Thursday night that it would be back shortly with a verdict of innocence.

A champagne party had been planned at the Buccaneer Motel where the defense group held forth during the four-week trial. The face of Coppolino's attractive new wife, Mary, turned ashen as the verdict was read by the court clerk. Dressed in a cool white dress, Mary sat silently in a front row seat just beyond the bar from her husband.

For Mary's money, the state charged, Coppolino hatched the plot to kill his first wife with a drug that was thought to be undetectable after death. The drug never before had been identified as the agent in a homicide case.

The verdict climaxed the dapper Coppolino's second courtroom battle for his life in five months. He was acquitted last December in New Jersey on a charge that he suf-

House Battle On Education Bill Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a House showdown still at least a week off, Republican and Democratic leaders exchanged verbal assaults yesterday in the increasingly political row over extension of federal education aid.

Both sides predicted victory and charged their opponents with more concern over politics than over education.

The Johnson administration is employing outright misrepresentation" of GOP proposals because it fears a Republican victory would see a pattern for the 90th Congress. GOP leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich, and Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., told a news conference.

They said the GOP proposal to give states the major role in deciding allocation of federal education funds seeks to reduce both the danger of federal control and "the endless red tape which is strangling local school boards in their dealings with the vast bureaucracy in Washington."

Democratic leader Carl B. Albert of Oklahoma at a news conference less than an hour later called the GOP proposal "a piecemeal effort to round up votes—a political bill, not an educational bill."

The big issue is the Republican proposal to give the money to the states and let them decide how it should be spent in local school districts. The decisions now are made by the federal Office of Education.

located retired Army Col. William E. Farber, husband of his mistress Marjorie.

Marjorie, whose visit to authorities led to both murder charges and who was described by the defense as "a woman scorned," was at her home in Sarasota when the news came. "I have sympathy," she said "for Dr. Coppolino's parents and his children. But please keep in mind that my husband is dead. My children have no father because of this man's actions."

She had testified that Coppolino put her in a hypnotic trance, made her his love slave, and she stood by helplessly and watched while he killed her husband.

USG Lecture Series Expands

The Undergraduate Student Government Legal Awareness Committee announced Thursday night that it has decided to continue and expand its lecture series on the University disciplinary system.

The decision was reached after Assistant Chairman H. Neil Zimmerman reported that all was going well. He said that he "found the response more than enthusiastic."

The series began last week in Bethlehem House of Tender Hall and continued in other houses in East and Pollock Halls. In addition to a lecture and question and answer period, the presentation includes the showing of "The College Age — Slowing Down and Growing Up," an award winning film on last spring's apartment visitation demonstration.
