

Cagers Meet Mystery Fruit

By RON KOLB
Assistant Sports Editor

Coach John Egli was sitting at practice the other day, trying to digest the 65-94 Navy loss last Saturday at Annapolis. He thought didn't set well in his stomach. He had counted on winning the last six games of the season, and now he had to start counting on winning the last five.

Eventually, he was asked how good the Carnegie-Mellon basketball team was, and instead of quoting the shooting percentages of every player and the type of offense and defense it used, Egli gave an honest reply.

"I looked them up in the NCAA results the other day," he said, "but I couldn't find them anywhere. I just don't know anything about them."

Neither does anyone else. School press releases have ceased to circulate. The last one came about a week ago when the Tartans were getting ready to break a four-game losing streak, preparing for a contest with Adelbert College of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland. And no one knows if they broke it.

It's conceivable that many people don't even know where the school is located. Such perplexity is understandable, since it was known as Carnegie Institute of Technology a year ago. Since then they've merged with Mellon Institute, so that the new consolidation now bears a name that could be mistaken for a polyneesian fruit.

Carnegie plays its games in the 1,500-seat Skibo Gym, a shoe box compared to some of the other arenas Penn State has visited. Actually, the Pittsburgh school doesn't need giant facilities, since the only team of major importance to face the Tartans all year is Penn State.

Records Similar
As close as anyone can figure, Carnegie's record is about 7-8, the same log that Penn State possesses. However, that's about as far as similarity goes between the two squads.

The Tartans find their most interesting competition against such mini-schools as Grove City, Thiel, University of Rochester, Case Tech, Geneva, Wooster, St. Vincent, Waynesburg, Westminster and Allegheny. Pitt is also on the schedule, but it shouldn't be. Two weeks ago the Panthers laughed through a 40-point win.

But the fact that the Lions are giants on a schedule of midgets is just the reason Egli worries about games like tonight's 8:15 contest.

"A win by Carnegie would make their season a complete success," he said. "When you're not looking, they can snake-bite you. We have to go up there with real determination if we want to win."

Of course, the coach would be crazy to say that any game is in the bag. Egli felt his team was rather complacent about the Navy game too, until the Middies decided to win one for the home crowd.

"Our players have gotten a bit self-satisfied, almost apathetic toward the game," Egli added. "But I keep telling them that any team that beats Temple and Syracuse should beat anyone else. We should win all the rest of our games."

To fall to a team like Carnegie would take a wave of complacency that is next to total slumber. Despite the letdown at Annapolis, State is too good a team to be overrun by a patsy. They've come a long way since Bucknell clouted them early in the year.

Probably no one is pulling for State more than the forgotten Lions—the reserves. It's been months since anyone beyond the top seven players have touched a ball during regulation play. The opportunity is here to run up a big score early, giving the second string a chance to write home about the shots they just missed and the hard-nosed battles they waged.

It's Up to Them
That part of the evening is up to numbers 1 through 7. Jeff Persson continues his team leadership in both scoring (18 points a game) and rebounding (13) as he seems to mellow with age. Tom Daley (13.8) is second in scoring while Bill Young (11.4) follows the captain in rebounds. Bill Stansfield (12.2, 100) and Jim Linden (7.7, 46) will round out the top five. Again, reserves Galen Godeby (8.0, 90) and Gregg Hamilton (7.0, 14) provide first-line bench strength.

Carnegie's lone pride is 6-5 Mark Lang, who averages about 17 points per game in the pivot and hauls down about 14 rebounds each time out. Beyond Lang, the Tartans are weak. Forwards John Meister and Barry Hummel are both only 6-2, while guards Neil Houser and Leigh DeHuff barely reach 6-0.

State is now 7-8, and they'd like nothing better than to finish the year 12-8. At least Egli would like to finish his career that way. As for the players themselves, he's not so sure. He said he thinks some of them believe the season's over right now.

But how can they pass up one slice at the Carnegie Mellon, Pittsburgh's answer to the Polynesian Papaya?

Graves, posters, tickets and programs.

Choreographing the 11 numbers in the show will be Cecelia Recklau, Sally Bronstein, Kathy German, Mary Buechler, Lynn Mueller, Kathy Meyer, Sue McLaughlin.

Rachel Currier, Jacqueline Bernier, Sue Smeltz, Janet Brown, Judy Van Toshi, Kathy Gallagher, Margie Gohn and Linda Clements.

Game on WDFM

Tonight's Penn State-Carnegie Mellon basketball game will be broadcast live on WDFM, 91.1 FM, beginning at 8:05. Sports Directors Ron Kolb and Jerry Geist will handle the play-by-play.

Swimmers Visit Home of Terps

Tonight the Penn State swimmers will be up against one of the top teams in the nation as they face the University of Maryland, at College Park.

The Terrapins have three defending Atlantic Coast Conference champions and one championship relay team. Phil Denkevitz won two events in the 1965 ACC meet and has returned this year to bolster the team.

Among their nine lettermen are three who have a good chance of placing in the NCAA championships. Dave Heim, a junior freestyler, holds the varsity record in 1000-yard freestyle with a 10:40.9. He was the top freestyler from the East in last year's national championships. Heim also holds the NCAA freshman record in the 500-yard freestyle.

Most Versatile

Doug Springer has been called the most versatile swimmer in Maryland history. His 2:02.0 is a varsity record in the 200-yard individual medley and he holds the 200-yard breaststroke record with a 2:17.3. Springer is considered a possible finalist in the nationals.

Maryland started intercollegiate swimming in 1956, and since then has captured three ACC championships and tied for three more. In eleven seasons, coach Bill Campbell has led the Terrapins to 104 victories and 27 defeats.

The State philosophy for tonight's meet is to better the existing Lion records and forget about the score. The medley relay team, which set the school record against Syracuse last Saturday, will be out to cut down that time. With an eye for a big beginning and end, coach Lou MacNeill will have his best swimmers in the two relays. Both teams will be looking for their best times of the season.

Bill Moser will make his debut in the butterfly tonight as he goes after the record set by Jeff Eisenstadt last week. Moser usually is seen in the backstroke for the individual events, but is out to show that he has some versatility.

Erich Mehnert and Gene Weber will lead the Lion effort in the freestyle events. Mehnert in the distance swims and Weber in the relays and shorter individual freestyle events.

Filling out the State freestyle contingent are Jim Conrad and Jeff Pearson. This group makes the freestyle the strongest event for the young Lion squad.

Ron Manning will have to prove tonight that his 171.3 performance last Saturday was his real ability and not an accident. With a few more scores like that, he will be able to compete against most of the divers in the East. Maryland will counter in the diving with freshman Don Dolce; Ron Hoffman, a junior considered a possibility for the nationals; and junior Pat Wells who may be an ACC finalist. Any two of those three should be able to dominate the diving event.

On Two Boards

Bob Liken will appear on both the one and three meter boards and will be looking for a new record on the three meter.

The rest of the State lineup will remain as it was at Syracuse last week.

Elect Open for WRA Executives

Elections for four executive positions in the Women's Recreation Association begin today in women's residence halls and on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building. Voting will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the living areas and 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 3 to 5 p.m. in the HUB.

Barb DeWitt (9th-physical education-Huntingdon Valley) is the only candidate running for president. Miss DeWitt, who has a 3.67 All University average, is currently WRA treasurer, president of Lakonides (women's physical education honor society), and a member of the varsity field hockey and basketball teams.

Vying for the office of vice president are Elizabeth Caffo (5th-human development-Port Allegany) and Connie Neubold (5th-secondary education-Harrisburg).

Miss Caffo is a member of Naiads synchronized swim club and the competitive swimming club. She is also WRA sorority intramurals chairman and a participant in intramural volleyball.

Miss Neubold is a Junior Resident and has been a member of both varsity and intramural bowling and softball teams.

Three women are running for the position of WRA treasurer. They are Lorraine Abel (5th-physical education-Nazareth), Judy Beachler (3rd-physical education-Pittsburgh) and Linda Miller, a transfer student in liberal arts.

Donna Horrocks (8th-English-Ambler) and Karen Myers (5th-elementary education-State College) are running for secretary of WRA.

MORNINGS AT SEVEN...AND THERE'S NOTHING YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT

Any man who says morning is the best time of day is either a liar or a meadow lark.

There is only one way to make morning enjoyable: sleep till noon. Failing that, the very best you can do is to make morning tolerable. This, I am pleased to report, is possible if you will follow three simple rules:

1. Shave properly.
By shaving properly I mean shaving quietly. Don't use a blade that whines and complains. Morning being a time of clanger and anger, use a blade that neither clangs nor angers. Use a blade that makes no din on your chin, no squeak on your cheek, no howl on your jawl, no rip on your lip, no waves while it shaves. Use, in short, Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

I have been shaving for 71 years (not too impressive until one considers that I am 49 years old) and I am here to tell you that the quietest blade I know is Personna. I not only shave with Personna, but I also admire it. Old virtues reappear in Personna; old values are reborn. Personna is a modest blade, an undemanding blade. Personna does not rasp and tug, yelling, "Hey, lookit me!" No, sir, not Personna! Silently, respectfully, unobtrusively, Personna whisks your whiskers with nary a whisper. It shucks your soil and stubble without toil and trouble. Why, you hardly know it's there, this well-bred Personna blade, this paragon of punctilio.

Moreover, this crown of the blade-maker's art, this epitome of epidermal efficacy, is available both in Double-edge style and Injector style. Do your kisser a favor: get some.

2. Breakfast properly.
I assert that a Personna shave is the best of all possible shaves. But I do not assert that a Personna shave, bracing though it may be, is enough to prepare you for the hideous forenoon ahead. After shaving you must eat an ample breakfast.

Take, for example, the case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at V.M.I. Basil, knowing there was to be an inspection by the Commandant one morning, prepared by storing up energy. He recognized that coffee and juice would not sustain him, so he had a fitch of bacon, a clutch of eggs, a batch of bagels, a notch of ham, a bunch of butter, a swatch of grits, a hutch of honey, a patch of jelly, a thatch of jam, a twitch of pepper, and a pinch of salt.

The idea was right; the quantities, alas, were not. When the Commandant arrived, Basil, alas, was so torpid that he could not raise his bloated arm in a proper salute. He was, of course, immediately shot by a firing squad. Today, a perforated man, he earns a meagre living as a collander in Cleveland.

3. Read properly.
Always read the paper at breakfast. It inhibits bolting. But do not read the front page. That is full of bad, acid-making news. Read a more pleasant part of the paper—the Home and Garden section, for example.

For instance, in my local paper, The Westport Peasant, there is a delightful column called "Ask Harry Home-spun" which fairly bristles with bucolic wisdom and many an earthy chuckle. I quote some questions and answers:

- Q: I am thinking of buying some power tools. What should I get first?
A: Hospitalization.
- Q: How do you get rid of moles?
A: Pave the lawn.
- Q: What is the best way to put a wide car in a narrow garage?
A: Butter it.
- Q: What do you do for elm blight?
A: Salt water gargle and bed rest.
- Q: What can I do for dry hair?
A: Get a wet hat.

Personna's partner in shaving comfort is Burma-Shave, regular or menthol. Together, Personna and Burma-Shave make a considerable contribution toward forenoon survival.
