

Tuition Hike Fight Gains New Support

By RICHARD RAVITZ
Collegian News Editor

More than 2,000 students signed petitions in registration yesterday stating their opposition to any increase in tuition costs.

The tuition campaign has been organized by an independent group of students. Although the group is comprised of students belonging to the University chapter of Students for a Democratic Society, the signature drive is not an official project of the chapter.

One of the organizers, SDS member Norman Schwartz, said last night that the petitions marked the beginning of a concentrated effort to block a tuition increase under consideration at the State Capitol.

Students Concerned

Schwartz said the first day reception was a sign of the concern of many students about the tuition question. He added that many students, who differ in opinion on other issues, could unite in their opposition to a tuition rise.

Schwartz said "we want to make clear to USG and the State Legislature that we oppose any tuition rise." He said that his group was anxious to cooperate with Undergraduate Student Government and other interested student groups on the tuition problem.

Schwartz said he hopes 10,000 to 15,000 students sign the petitions which will be circulated throughout the registration period.

Statement Clear

Petitions have been sent to several residence halls, sororities and fraternities.

"Hopefully, several thousand students will sign this unambiguous statement to show the legislators where the students stand," Schwartz noted.

The petition states: "As you may be aware, sometime in the next few months the state legislature will be considering a tuition increase.

Presently, increases from $100 per year to doubling the present tuition have been proposed. Now is the time for all state students to make clear their position concerning this matter.

"We the undersigned students of the Pennsylvania State University," the statement concludes, believe that "under no circumstances should the State Legislature enact a tuition rise."

THE SOUL SURVIVORS

'Soul Survivors' Set For Rec Hall Jammy

The Association of Women Students and the University Union Board will present a jammy-concert with the Soul Survivors at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow night in Recreation Hall. Tickets are available for $1 on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building.

The concert kicks off HER Weekend (His Economic Relief), the first activity of Women's Week '68, which officially begins Wednesday. Coeds can buy their date's ticket for the concert.

The Soul Survivors are a group of six young musicians from New York who have an unusual story to tell about how their group was formed.

The three instrumentalists in the group, Joe Forgione, drummer; Paul Venturini, organ player; and Mike Burke, guitarist, originally were a separate group. The vocalists, Charles Ingui, Richard Ingui and Kenney Jeremiah also formed a group of their own.

Accidental Start

On March 19, 1966, the two groups were driving on the New Jersey Turnpike in opposite directions, each headed for separate engagements. The road was covered with a thick fog, but the two cars continued slowly on their ways.

As they approached the Newark exit, a third automobile, stalled on a ramp, blocked their way, and the two cars collided with each other.

The occupants of the two cars, unhurt, first met as they crawled from the debris. One of the first words someone said was, "How did we ever survive?" Later, after the cars were towed away, the two groups got together, and found they had common interests. After playing together, the two groups decided to merge.

TIM Schedules Jammy For Tonight in HUB

The Town Independent Men will present a registration jammy at 9 tonight in the Hetzel Union Building Ballroom. The Darker Side will provide the soul to step out after your day on the floor of Rec Hall.

At Penn State Since 1957

Funeral Services Held For Treasurer Donkin

Funeral services were held during term break for McKay Donkin, the University's vice president for finance and treasurer.

Donkin, 63, died Sunday, March 17, at his home, 777 W. Park Ave.

Prior to his appointment at Penn State in 1957, Donkin had served six years as special assistant to Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Donkin was a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo., where he received the degree of petroleum engineer in 1929. He completed graduate work in geology at the University of Texas and at Harvard University.

Entering government service in 1950, Donkin was a consultant in 1950-51 for the Research and Development Board. He served in 1951-52 as assistant to the commissioner, Atomic Energy Commission, becoming special assistant to Strauss.

He was married in 1935 to Agnes Denison McLean, who survives, along with two daughters, Carla S., wife of Donald C. Jenkins, of Bronxville, N.Y.; and Deborah, wife of William A. Wells, of King of Prussia, and a grandson, McKay Jenkins. Also surviving are two brothers, Vernon Donkin, New York, N.Y.; and Willis P. Donkin, Darien, Conn.

Donkin was a member of the Metropolitan Club, Washington, D.C., and Rolling Rock, Ligonier.

Funeral services, arranged by the Koch Funeral Home, were held at St. Andrews Episcopal Church, with the Reverend James B. Trost officiating. Interment was in Gravesville Cemetery, Spruce Creek, Pa.

McKAY DONKIN
University Treasurer

WDFM To Provide Music 6 to 10 Weekday Mornings

Radio station WDFM-FM announced last night that it has scheduled four hours of daily morning air time for the Spring Term.

Gary Schwartz, program director, said that a "Top 40" format will be heard from 6 to 10 a.m. weekdays.

Two-minute news reports at 15-minute intervals will be included in the programming, along with sports and weather.

Schwartz said that John Schutrick and Dave Handler will serve as disc jockeys. The two announcers will accept requests and comments by mail and telephone.

Previously, WDFM had not scheduled programming for weekday mornings.

In other schedule changes, Schwartz said that Friday night and Saturday morning, part of the "Penn State Weekend," will be altered to "Top 40." These times had been popular and middle-of-the-road music.

Schwartz also said that WDFM's classical music program guide will continue to be available at the station.

To Work in Office

Piper Wins Award

A University senior from Ambridge was named top award winner yesterday in the annual James A. Finnegan Fellowship essay contest.

He is John R. Piper, a political science major. The award carries with it a six-week summer internship in a governmental or political office of his choice at a weekly salary of $125.

The foundation was created in memory of the late James A. Finnegan, influential Democrat who was secretary of the commonwealth at the time of his death in 1958. The foundation's purpose is to encourage college students to consider careers in government or politics.

In Schwab Ceremony

29 Receive Commissions

A commissioning program was held Saturday, March 23, in Schwab for 29 graduating seniors who qualified for commissions in the Armed Forces.

Reserve commissions as second lieutenants in the Army were awarded to 24 of the seniors, while three other men received similar commissions in the Air Force reserve. Two men qualified for regular commissions as ensigns in the U.S. Navy.

The men warranted their commissions after completing the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Delivering the commissioning address at the program was Ossian MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration. Col. William F. Lovell, professor of military science, administered the oath to the Army commission recipients while Lt. Col. Charles E. Barnett, professor of Air Force aerospace studies, administered the oath to the men receiving commissions in the Air Force.

Commissioned were: Army — John C. Mullen, Calvin T. Wishart, Joseph M. Roscol, John S. Botwright, Richard T. Worthington, Wayne Morges, Ronald E. Schaffer, Gary M. Buck, Clark H. Confer, James H. Mosteller, Howard M. Schultzberg, Edward H. Boyer, Philip I. Park, James C. Miller, John H. Yazquez, Steven F. Close, Roger M. Bauman, Joseph D. Soke, Arthur S. Krasnoff, Frederick W. Lamm, William H. McConnell, Michael T. Opie, Joseph W. Pleszkoch and John J. Wroblewski.

Air Force—Robert P. Barbarowicz, Robert G. Childs and Timothy J. Elder.

Navy—James A. Kilpatrick and William L. Rogers.

Back to college?

Sure. But back to our Sanitone drycleaning first.

Because we know how to put your school clothes, your best clothes, all your clothes in tip-top shape. You know, our Sanitone drycleaning makes your clothes look new again.

BALFURD'S CLEANERS
320 W. Beaver Ave.
State College, Pa.

"I was wrong about IBM. You can get into the mainstream here with a liberal arts degree"

"I used to think IBM was a place for engineers, scientists, and machines.

"But not for liberal arts graduates. And definitely not for American History majors, like me. (This is John Robohm, an IBM Marketing Representative specializing in banking.)

"Then I talked with an IBM interviewer. He explained that much of the work at IBM is solving problems. So if you have a logical mind, you could go into areas like programming or marketing. Both of which are in the heart of IBM's business.

"My job is helping banks use computers. Which isn't nearly as technical as it sounds. You deal with people a lot more than with machines.

"At first, the idea of sales appalled me. You know, you think of Willy Loman and so on. But marketing at IBM is entirely different. You're a problem solver. You have to come up with new solutions for every customer.

"I guess that's what makes the job so interesting. That and the level of people you deal with. I usually work directly with the president of the bank. You get a lot of responsibility in this job very soon after you start. And if you're good, your income goes along with it."

What John says covers only part of the IBM story. For more facts, visit your campus placement office. Or send an outline of your career interests and educational background to I. C. Pfeiffer, IBM Corporation, Dept. C, 100 South Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606. We're an equal opportunity employer.

