

Peace Coalition To Show Films

The Coalition for a Day of Dialogue on Peace will begin tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. Its purpose will be to stimulate discussion in the academic community on the critical issues which face America today: the Vietnam war, the draft, racism and poverty, according to Arnold Bodner, Coalition spokesman.

The program will include panel discussions using pertinent films as catalysts for question-and-answer sessions between students and faculty. The first panel discussion will begin at 6:30 p.m. in 111 Forum where two films will be shown consecutively, free of charge. They are two war films, "The Battle of Culloden" and "16 in Webster Groves."

When these films end, there will be a panel discussion in the same room on the Vietnam and draft issues. "The discussions will relate these issues to the students at Penn State," Bodner said.

Films About Racial Problems

Two other consecutive films will be shown at 7 p.m. in 105 Forum. They are "Harvest of Shame," a film dealing with the migrant worker problem narrated by Edward R. Murrow, and "Troubled Cities," a racial film produced by National Educational Television. When these films end, a faculty discussion on racism and poverty will begin. The audience will be invited to participate in this as well as the other discussion.

These programs will be sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government in conjunction with the Coalition for a Day of Dialogue on Peace.

Members of the Coalition include Town Independent Men; the Freedom Union; Wesley Fellowship; Al DiBernardo, chairman of the Student Peace Forum; the USG Legal Awareness Committee; Jon Fox; Students for a Democratic Society; Steve Gersen; Rich Tobin; Goodman Proposal.

Jeff Long; Pam and Bruce Cambler; the United Campus Ministerial Wells-Kadie; members of the Faculty Peace Forum; Guido Neri, assistant professor of philosophy; Daniel Walden, assistant professor of history; Alan Trachtenburg, associate professor of English; James Petras, assistant professor of political science; Alphonso Lingis, associate professor of philosophy and the Lutheran Students Association.

Try To Bring Issues Here

Al DiBernardo said that these films and dialogues will try to bring the issues to Penn State groups. "This will give the students a chance to learn about these issues and how they relate to the students," he said. The Coalition will provide speakers on these issues in the future to residence halls, fraternities or other interested groups upon request.

Big-name speakers will not be featured as originally intended. Bodner explained that most of the suggested speakers are booked solid for the next six months and could not come on such short notice. The speakers that could come desired a minimum fee of from $300 to $1,000, more than the Coalition's budget can afford, according to Bodner.

DiBernardo said the Student Peace Forum, an outgrowth of the Faculty Peace Forum, performs functions similar to the Coalition. Its office, 103 E. Beaver Ave., is now open to all interested students and faculty members. Its present activities include debate promotions, newsletter writing and draft counseling.

TIM Aims at Increased Communication

'Town Table' Established

The Town Independent Men and the Undergraduate Student Government have recently established a booth called "town table" on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building.

According to Terry Klasky, USG town Congressman and TIM vice president, the booth will be a center for "increasing communication with town men and in trying to get them to realize what is going on."

The booth serves several purposes and is not restricted to independent town men. One project is dispensing information and applications to students interested in working on the USG commission system next year.

Applications are available at the town table for both potential communication members and for committee chairmanships.

"Gripe Sheet"

The table is also sponsoring "a gripe sheet," a form students can use to air complaints about student government or the University. Klasky said he hopes these "gripes" will be "registered constructively, in the interests of improvement."

"I especially hope these forms will be used in connection with the proposed tuition increase. We would like people who may be forced to drop out of the University because of such an increase to use these forms to document their case," Klasky added.

The most important aspect of the town table, at least to the town men, is its list of downtown apartments available for sub-letting during Summer Term.

Any student who has an apartment that will be available during the summer is invited to use the free bulletin board service located at the booth, Klasky said. Students interested in renting apartments for summer can check the list at the booth.

Klasky said that more than 50 students have already taken advantage of the free advertisement offer and that more are expected to do so when the booth opens today and Monday.

The TIM newsletter, "Town Talk," is also being distributed to students at the booth. The newsletter is prepared by the three USG town congressmen, Klasky, Skip Gross and Dave Vinikour.

Director Talks on 'Servant'

"The Servant of Two Masters" opens tonight at 8 at the Pavilion.

The cast commented: "It's an experience—seeing a Goldoni farce." "It's not something that's done very often." It projects the same kind of feeling as "Tom Jones." "It's a classic in theatre, along with Shakespeare and Moliere." "I find it's a lot of fun to do."

"The Servant" will play tonight, tomorrow, Saturday, and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The cast's reaction to the play can give you some idea of the spirit behind it," said Robert Reifensider, director and associate professor of theatre arts.

"There is appeal in the manner in which the actors present themselves to the audience," he said.

"First, they relate to the audience as they come on stage, change props, and address their remarks," he said. "Second, they relate to their roles in the plot through the utilization of the classic characters of the Italian Commedia dell'Arte, from which 'The Servant' was drawn."

Tickets are currently on sale at the Pavilion box office from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. on performance days and from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. during the week. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning 865-9543.

'Hot Line' Correction

The "Hot Line" question concerning the amount of sausage available in the dining halls was not placed by Al Thomas as reported in yesterday's Collegian.
