

Lions Face Two On Trip South

By JOHN LAPACE Collegian Sports Writer

With a 13-day layoff to prepare for a two-meet road-trip to the Washington, D.C. area, where the Nittany Lion tennis squad faces Georgetown tomorrow and unbeaten Maryland Sunday, coach Holmes Cathrall got very little done due to the weather and now finds himself in a desperate search for a panacea.

Cathrall's need for a cure-all developed during the two-week layoff, when a rash of injuries swept through his squad. The injuries have jeopardized the status of State's outstanding senior captain, Mario Obando. The Costa Rican, who is suffering from tendonitis, is the only Lion whose starting role is doubtful because of the injuries, but his absence Sunday when the Lions face the top Eastern team, Maryland, would be a crippling blow to the Lions' hopes.

Forearm Trouble

Obando's ailment is in no way connected with "tennis elbow," and he should be back in top form shortly. He's suffering from inflammation and soreness of the muscles of his forearm.

Neal Kramer, State's number two netman, is suffering from a stiff neck, but Cathrall expects to have him in the lineup this weekend. Kramer will be faced with the task of taking up the slack that Obando's absence might create.

Cathrall also lists Tom DeHuff on his temporary disabled list with a bruised shoulder. Previously, Jeff Kaplan, who broke into the starting line at Navy, had injured his hand, requiring six to eight stitches, but the injury didn't affect his play and he will retain his spot in Cathrall's front line.

State's netmen run into a situation of freshmen eligibility again. Although State had no freshmen trouble with West Virginia in varsity competition—the Lions won 9-0—Cathrall points to the fact that unbeaten Maryland has four of the best fresh players in the East on its squad.

Knew Strength

"We knew Maryland would be tough at the beginning of the season, and they have certainly lived up to their billing," Cathrall said. "They are unbeaten and one of the strongest teams in the East. We'll have our hands full on Saturday with Georgetown. They're always tough due mainly to their proximity to a good supply of local talent."

Cathrall, who was still looking for his cure-all yesterday afternoon, hopes to have his complete lineup ready for action this weekend. The formula which has brought the Lions four wins against two setbacks this season consists of captain Obando, Kramer, Glenn Rupert, Kaplan, Tom Daley and DeHuff.

TENDONITIS TROUBLES make number one tennis man Mario Obando (above) a doubtful starter in this weekend's two matches, against Georgetown and Maryland. Injuries have bothered several netmen during the long layoff since the last match, but Holmes Cathrall's squad (4-2) should be fit enough to give both Southern opponents sufficient competition.

Jurgensen, Two Others Testify in Federal Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and a Washington Redskins teammate were subpoenaed to testify in a federal grand jury investigation of gambling, the club said Thursday.

Subpoenas for Jurgensen, guard Vince Promuto and Baltimore defensive end Andy Stynchula were made public when the subpoenas were dropped by authorities in federal court in suburban Alexandria, Va.

Stynchula was subpoenaed to testify in a federal grand jury investigation of gambling, the club said Thursday. Subpoenas for Jurgensen, guard Vince Promuto and Baltimore defensive end Andy Stynchula were made public when the subpoenas were dropped by authorities in federal court in suburban Alexandria, Va.

Dark Wants New Pinch-Hit Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—In a show of concern about "nerve" batting averages, Alvin Dark suggests a permanent pinch-hitter for the pitcher.

The idea isn't new. People have been talking about similar changes for years. Nothing happened. Probably nothing will happen this time.

The manager of the Cleveland Indians has no selfish motive. He just wants to prolong the careers of baseball's superstars, a vanishing breed.

Extra Years

"I think the idea would keep men like Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Al Kaline and Hank Aaron in baseball for a few extra years," said Dark.

"Baseball needs to keep those fellows in the game. When the time comes that they can't play regularly, this would be a perfect solution."

If Dark's proposal were to be adopted, no pitcher would bat. A specific player would be designated to bat in the pitcher's spot in the order on a given day.

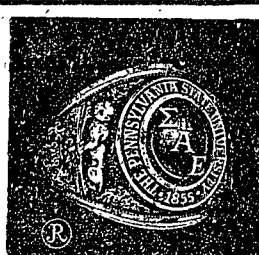

Permanent Pinch-Hitter

"Supposing you list the pitcher in the No. 4 spot in your order," said Dark. "When the New York Yankee pitcher is due up, Mickey Mantle would bat. Even if they took Mickey out for a pinch runner, he still would bat every time the pitcher was scheduled. In this way, a fan could go to the park knowing he would see Mantle bat four or five times every day."

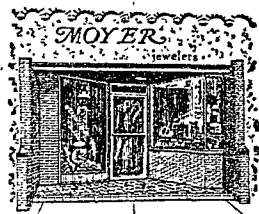

"I am just using Mantle as an example, of course. He isn't ready for that yet. First base has helped prolong his career. He should be able to play first for years."

In National League action yesterday, Rocky Colavito, Bob Bailey and Zoilo Versalles smashed home runs in support of Bill Singer's three-hit pitching as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0. Colavito's homer, his third in two days, highlighted a three-run eighth inning.

Versalles connected with the bases empty in the first inning while Bailey drove one into the center field seats with a runner aboard in the fourth. It was the first home run of the season for each player.
