

Volcano Featured Events Planned For Emex '68

By ALLAN YODER
Collegian Staff Writer
The College of Earth and Mineral Sciences exposition, will open May 24, 25 and 26, to all students, faculty and townspeople.
The exposition will begin Friday night, May 24, with a short talk by Charles L. Schwan, dean of the college. After that, a jammy will be held in the parking lot behind Diez. Featuring the Rock Bottom, the jammy will run from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. The jammy is free and open to everyone.

Exhibits will begin Saturday, May 25. An oil well will be dug on the Mineral Industries Building lawn with a drilling rig which is an exact replica of the cable tool rig first used in Pennsylvania in the early 1870's. Free samples of recently drilled Pennsylvania oil will also be given away.
The University's resident glass blower, John Daly, will also give demonstrations at 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, May 25 and 26.

Choirs To Sing Saturday

The combined Pennsylvania State University, Chapel and Concert Choirs will give their 20th annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, in Schwab. The work to be performed is "Israel in Egypt" by George Frideric Handel. Raymond Brown, director of Choral Music, will conduct the choir which will be joined by the University Symphony Orchestra.
Over 150 singers, divided into a double chorus, will be used for the Handel concert.

The oratorio, "Israel in Egypt," is a tour-de-force of choral writing, says Brown, associate professor of music. Many of the double choruses show an Italian influence of antiphonal effects, echos and highly ornamented cadences. There are also several huge numbers with trumpets and timpani which reflect the English love of royal pomp and pageantry.
Soprano Lorraine Gorrel, instructor in music, will sing the part of "Miriam the Prophetess" and the soprano arias. Rita Row Meyers will sing the alto arias and the duets with William Lewis, tenor.
Admission will be by complimentary ticket only. Tickets are available at 212 Eisenhower Chapel.

Mowry Elected ICCB President

Richard Mowry, president of the College of the Liberal Arts Student Council, was elected president of the Inter-College Council Board last night. He defeated the acting ICCB representative to the Undergraduate Student Government, Don Shall.

William Watson, president of the College of Human Development Student Council, was elected vice president, topping Tom Worgul of the College of Science Student Council.
In other business, the ICCB unanimously approved a motion by Shall which read, "The Inter-College Council Board recommends to all faculty members that all absences from fourth period Wednesday, May 15 be excused. Furthermore, if any other candidate for the Presidency of the United States should appear on campus, similar action should be taken."

In response to the Business Council's question concerning the status of Sue Turner of the College of Engineering Student Council, who walked out of a previous ICCB meeting, Thomas Kidd, adviser to the ICCB and field secretary to the Alumni Association said, "It is the responsibility of Miss Turner to represent her student council, if that is what her council's constitution requires her to do, or take the necessary steps to resign that post." Shall, who had reportedly talked to Miss Turner, maintained that she had no intention of pulling the Engineering council out of ICCB. Miss Turner and her vice president were not at the meeting.

President-elect Mowry urged all councils to prepare a course-evaluation guide, similar to that prepared by his council and the Business Council, to be published under ICCB auspices.

Madhatters To Vie Tonight for Prizes

The Madhatters contest will take place at 7:30 tonight in Recreation Building in conjunction with Spring Week '68 festivities. All hats to be placed in competition must be at Rec Hall by 6 p.m.

Each hat will be evaluated on quality of construction, adherence to theme, and originality. In accordance with the Spring Week theme of "Hilarious History," the hats will be judged in three categories — past, present, and future.
Points will be awarded to the top three winners in each category. First-place will receive 150 points, and second and third place winners will be awarded 125 and 100 points respectively. These points will be totaled with those received in other Spring Week events to determine the over-all champion.
The five Miss Penn State finalists will be present to describe the hats, and the judging will be done by Mrs. Joan Perkins, Sy Barrish, and Yar G. Chomicky. Co-chairmen for the competition are Unn Jernstad, Earl Segal, and Cathy Carmella.
A meeting for the Spring Week carnival will be held at 5 p.m. today. All groups participating in the carnival must present a detailed list of all expenses connected with the carnival itself.

Chess Winners Picked

Erich Marshand, professor of mathematics at the University of Rochester, took first place in the fourth annual Penn State Open Chess tournament held this weekend at the Hetzel Union Building.
Marshand, a chess master, also won last year's event.
Second place in the contest went to Dan Boyk, a graduate of the University of Michigan, while third place was won by Richard Parisseau, an electronics engineer at the Johnsville Naval Air Development Center, Hatboro.
Orrin Frink, professor of mathematics at the University, won the Class A trophy and also placed fourth. Carl Dett-rich, research engineer at HRB Singer, took the Class B trophy; Frank Noel, and Michael Ehredt, both students at the Altoona Campus, took the Class A trophy and the unrated trophy, respectively.

USG President Hints At Increase in Tuition

By DENNIS STIMELING
Collegian USG Reporter

The hint of a possible tuition increase at the University this summer was raised again last night by James Womer, president of the Undergraduate Student Government.
In his first WDEM press conference Womer said, "It is my own opinion that our tuition will be raised between $50 and $100 this summer."

Womer said that the state legislators in Harrisburg are "all playing a big game" with the prospect of a tuition increase. "The legislators are insisting that they will not raise our tuition, but Gov. Shafer is forcing them to, while the governor is saying that the legislature must balance the budget," Womer said. He summed up the situation saying, "Everyone in Harrisburg is just passing the buck."

Motivate Students
In order to fight against the possible tuition hike, Womer said that USG will attempt to motivate students in a new protest program. This would include a series of letters to the legislators.

Womer also spoke on student demonstrations and the possibility of "having a Columbia here." He said, "If 100 people are determined to hold a Columbia here, I would rate their chances as fairly good. They could seize and hold a classroom building for a few hours or possibly a day," Womer said Boucke, Sackett and Hammond Buildings are possible sites for such a demonstration.
Establish Committee

At last week's meeting, the USG Congress established a committee to investigate the connection of the University with the Institute for Defense Analyses, which participates in weapons research for the Department of Defense.

Last night Womer said that the committee, under the leadership of USG Vice President Ted Thompson, is trying to determine how much information is available on IDA, and is studying all such data.

The committee will present its findings and possibly present a resolution to USG at tomorrow's meeting. "Our major quest is to examine the role of the University community in connection with organized military research," Womer said.

"We can not ignore the moral viewpoint of IDA," Womer said, "but our major concern is an evaluation of values in a University setting."
Attempt to Establish Forum
Womer said that USG will attempt to establish a University forum on the IDA issue. "We will have to research the IDA issue more thoroughly," he said.

"It is my own opinion that the University Administration knows exactly what it will do in the case of a disruptive demonstration," Womer said.

"They have a plan which they feel would be effective." He said that such a plan would probably include calling local and state police to the scene within a very short time.

Womer expressed surprise that the topic of the University's Ordnance Research Laboratory was not brought up for protest with or instead of IDA. He said, "With the classified and sophisticated electronics work done there, it is a more obvious example of military work done right on the campus."

On USG business, Womer said that the student government will investigate the possibility of forming a type of Civil Rights Commission at the University. Its purpose would be "to investigate any civil rights complaints within the area of State College."
Against Speaker's Bureau
Womer dismissed the idea of establishing a USG speaker's bureau to travel to high schools to acquaint black students with the University situation. Womer said, "We do not have the necessary manpower for such a program."

Womer talked about the changes he hopes to bring to student government during the next year. He said, "Our major problem will be with the Administration, not with the student body." He expressed the opinion that University students are not apathetic.

"Apathy is a misused word often employed by pseudo student leaders as a rationalization for their own failure to motivate students." He said, "Many students are not apathetic; they just feel student government is irrelevant to their personal lives." Womer said that USG will be investigating ways to motivate student interest and support in the coming year.

Discipline System
Womer also discussed the topic of academic freedom at the University. He said one of the "major subjects of academic freedom deals with the University's discipline system which treats students as if they were children rather than adults."

Womer disagreed with the major role the Administration plays in making decisions for the University and the student body. He said, "The Administrators should all be janitors and the faculty and students should make policy decisions."

Creegan Speaks for SDS

USG Hears Report On IDA Activities

By DAVID NESTOR
Collegian USG Reporter

The Undergraduate Student Government committee investigating the Institute for Defense Analyses heard presentations from the two sides last night.

James Creegan, representing the Coalition against IDA, said that his organization wants USG to join with them. "We are asking your support. We think the USG can add weight to the movement," the plans of the Coalition include a rally on Old Main lawn Thursday with speakers from Columbia University and a mass petition Friday to President Eric Walker. "If he won't come out, we will go in," Creegan said.

The committee, headed by USG Vice President Ted Thompson, attempted to formulate a set of questions to present to President Walker Friday in the event that USG passes a proposal.

List of Questions
A list of proposed questions was presented to the committee dealing with such things as the benefit the University receives from its affiliation with IDA, whether either the University or the work of IDA would be hurt by severing relations and who the faculty is working for, and what they are doing.

Creegan presented documented proof of the actions of IDA. The purpose of IDA is to provide support for other defense agencies according to Creegan. Creegan expounded on some of these. The first of these is Project Agile, "the real think factory of counterinsurgency." The purpose of this project is the defense of Vietnam by determining the nature of problems, finding solutions and turning these solutions over to the proper channels.

Creegan stated that IDA is also involved in the suppression of rebellions in the ghettos of the U.S. This is allegedly accomplished through the militarizing of the police forces. "The ghetto rebellions are justifiable rebellions," Creegan said.

The committee will report to USG at their regular meeting Thursday night, Thursday afternoon the committee will meet with E. F. Osborn, vice president for research.

The representatives of the Coalition against IDA said that they are ready to pursue independent action if USG does not pass the desired proposal. Creegan said that their plans were set and that they were going through with them.

Sorority Fall Rush Registration

Wednesday, May 15th
203 H.U.B.
9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

All girls interested in rushing next fall must register at this time.

"In initiating "The Shelter" we propose that some forty students from various backgrounds be brought together for an experiment in community living. These students would be responsible for the maintenance and social-educational programming of the house. A room with bath on the main floor of the house will be reserved as a guest room for visitors who will contribute, from their current thought or action, to the intellectual life and social leadership of the house. The theme of our inquiry will be "the crisis of social and political revolution." All available resources of society concerned for human issues will be integrated into the exploration of our current crisis. The house will explore what the common life and thought together can offer in attempting to provide intimations of new directions toward social change as well as how the members themselves can personally participate in the process. By joining "The Shelter" one commits himself to an identity. He commits himself to a positive stance in the midst of the maelstrom. He becomes a member of a community of peers dedicated to the intellectual analysis of the current hang-ups and to service on task forces that might be formed to fulfill the needs and aims of the house. He will learn to respect himself and others for their basic humanity. Although our task is great, the opportunities for service and personal growth are boundless. Where there is no vision the people perish."

Applications are at the HUB desk.
