

Republicans Seek Bid; 8 Candidates Compete

Eight area republicans will seek their party's nominations for the 34th State Senatorial District and the 77th State House of Representatives District in the May 20 primaries.

Candidates for the House are J. Alvin Hawbaker, Clifford A. Johnston, Walter M. Swoope, F. Kenneth Ulp, Robert L. Woodring and James B. Reese.

A local real estate broker and builder, Hawbaker has served in many professional organizations in an executive capacity. Hawbaker is the past president of the Central Counties Home Builders Association, the Pennsylvania Home Builders Association, the Centre County Board of Realtors and the Williamsport Chapter of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

State College Resident
State College resident F. Kenneth Ulp is a highway construction company vice president who is active in community affairs. Ulp, 65, is a member of the county planning commission and the State College Area Community Fund. A participant in Boy Scout programs, Ulp received the organization's Silver Beaver Award in 1962.

Ulp is a past president of the American Society of Highway Engineers and the local Rotary Club and a member of the Elks and Masonic organizations.

Bellefonte florist Robert L. Woodring, 42, is active in local government and service activities. Woodring currently is a member of the Central Planning Council of the Pennsylvania Crime Commission. He is also a past president of the Bellefonte Chamber of Commerce.

Jaycee Treasurer
A member of the local Jaycees, Woodring served as state treasurer of the group. He participated in the Bellefonte YMCA Building Fund Drive and the Centre County Community Fund and served as the Exalted Ruler of the Elks.

Political Ancestry
Walter M. Swoope, also a Philipsburg attorney, is attempting to follow a long line of ancestors who served in public offices, dating back to his great-grandfather, an early representative.

Swoope, 61, has practiced law for more than 30 years. He is a member of the Clearfield County and Philipsburg Historical Societies and is director of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society.

James B. Reese, a Houtzdale businessman, was not available for comment.

Candidates for House nomination include Eugene M. Fulmer and Albert F. Williams.

Fulmer has held the 77th District seat in the House for the last 10 years. The 53-year-old representative is also a State College public relations consultant.

Fulmer is currently assigned to the House Appropriations and Health and Welfare Committees. As a member of the Appropriations Committee, he aided in solving the University's recent financial crisis.

Williams, a local insurance agent, owns an insurance company and teaches introductory insurance courses at the University. He has headed several professional groups, including the Life Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania Insurance Agents and the Centre County Life Underwriters. In addition to being a past Exalted Ruler of the Elks, Williams belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Masonic Orders.

University Lecturer
In addition to his business interests, Hawbaker, 55, lectures at the University on real estate and appraising. He has taught day courses for two years and also teaches night classes. Hawbaker served as president and district governor of the Lions Club.

Philipsburg Mayor Clifford A. Johnston also is seeking the Republican nod. The 64-year-old attorney, who did not campaign for his office, won the majority on a write-in vote.

Johnston was an accountant before beginning his law practice in 1958. His other experience includes serving as an executive on the Philipsburg School Board.

Students To Be Counted in Census

University students will be accounted for in the 1970 census in the same manner as residents of State College Borough.

Students living in downtown apartments, on-campus fraternities, Graduate Circle, Apartments on East View Terrace will be contacted by a census enumerator just before the census of the borough will be.

The University will provide census officials with a master list of all students living in a campus residence hall. The list will include the student's name, sex, and birthdate.

A census enumerator will distribute, through the cooperation of the residence hall assistants, a short question form for students in each residence hall to fill out.

The form will ask a student's marital status, nationality, race or color. The forms will be returned to the residence hall assistant, who will in turn return them to the enumerator.

In addition, every 25 to 30 students in a residence hall will be asked to fill out a longer form for a more detailed sampling of the University student body.

Students in residence halls are not expected to be contacted about the census until the last 10 days of the month when the master list will be completed.

Ernest T. Campbell, pastor of Riverside Church, New York City, will speak on "The Invisible Kingdom of God," 11 a.m. tomorrow at University Chapel Service in the Music Building Recital Hall.

Pastor at Riverside since September, 1968, Campbell held a pastorate at the First Presbyterian Church at Ann Arbor, Mich.

A frequent speaker on college campuses for religious emphasis programs, he has also preached at many other churches and in 1965 was Preacher of the Year to the National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C.

In New York, he has been active in many programs in race and labor relations, housing and justice.

The Bellefonte After-School Program will hold its orientation session at 1:30 today in the Human Development Living Center for all who are interested in working individually or in groups with children from low-income families in the Bellefonte area. Male students and those who have cars are urged to attend.

The public is invited to attend the Third Annual Keystone Invitational Drill Meet sponsored by the Fifth Regimental Headquarters of the National Society of Pershing Rifles today in the Ice Pavilion.

Basic platoon and individual drill competition begins at 8:30 a.m. Formal Opening ceremonies are at 12:30 p.m. followed by trick drill competition. Closing ceremonies and presentation of awards will begin at 4:30 p.m. Teams representing universities from Ohio and Pennsylvania will participate. There will be no admission charge.

Alpha Phi Omega sorority will sponsor a spring clean up of Stone Valley at 10 this morning.

Joan A. Steitz, who has been working recently as a post-doctoral student at the Medical Research Council Laboratory of Molecular Biology at Cambridge, England, will be the speaker at a biophysics colloquium at 4 p.m. Tuesday in 111 Boucke.

Mrs. Steitz, who received her doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard University, will discuss "R17 Binding Sites and the Control of Polypeptide Chain Initiation."

She will be describing her research having to do with primary sequence determination of the initiation sites for the proteins specified by the virus RNA.

There will be a Peace Corps presentation for all those interested in the Corps at 7 p.m. Tuesday in 151 Willard.

The Graduate Newman Club will sponsor a social at 8 p.m. tomorrow at 531 W. Fairmont Ave.

State Department Cautions Travelers About Drug Usage

Narcotics Warning Issued

The State Department has cautioned Americans traveling abroad about the serious consequences which may result from their arrest by foreign governments for possession of illegal drugs.

The announcement was made in view of a marked increase in such arrests reported by the United States consular officers.

There were 142 Americans under detention on drug charges in 20 foreign countries in February 1969 but by last February the total had risen to 404—the largest number of Americans held for narcotics violations on record.

Majority — Under 30

Young Americans under 30 who are now traveling abroad represent the greater number of Americans arrested in foreign countries on drug charges. Most of them are unaware of the grave potential consequences of violating foreign drug laws and of the limited capability of the U.S. government to assist them if they are arrested overseas.

The penalties for narcotics violations in most countries are severe. The charge is usually based on the quantity of narcotics involved. Possession of more than about a pound results in a minimum of six years plus a heavy fine in some countries. Trafficking in drugs evokes a penalty of 10 years to life in other countries.

In some countries prison conditions are primitive. Many contain rats and vermin, insufficient heat and food and the absence of sanitary facilities. In other countries pretrial confinement of those charged can be prolonged to a year without bail. Language difficulties also can compound the problem.

Increased Drug Arrests

The increase in arrests of Americans abroad on drug charges is in part the result of intensified efforts by the U.S. government working internationally to suppress the illicit trade in narcotics and marijuana. It also is related to the increase in illegal drug use in this country and in attempts to smuggle narcotics and marijuana past customs officials.

Americans traveling abroad are subject to the laws of the country they are visiting and are not protected by U.S. laws. The U.S. government only can attempt to ensure that an American prisoner is treated as well as the natives of the country in which he is arrested.

When a U.S. citizen is arrested abroad, U.S. consular officials move as quickly as possible to protect the citizen's rights, but the laws of the country where the arrest takes place determine what those rights are.
