SCOTT SKARZYNSKI, (84) hampered by a shoulder injury this year, hauled in his first pass of the season last week for a 21-yard gain with Bob Nagle (41) on hand for any needed blocking. Penn State (1-1) faces Iowa tomorrow at 1:30 in Beaver Stadium.

Lions set for big Hawkeyes tomorrow

Defense can't rest against Iowa

By MARK SIMENSON

"The Defense Never Rests."
The title of lawyer F. Lee Bailey's bestseller could tell the story of tomorrow's intersectional clash between Iowa and Penn State.

The Hawkeyes march into Beaver Stadium as the biggest team to face the Lions this year. Nobody is expecting a repeat of the 44-14 thrashing the Lions handed out last season.

The Iowa running attack, aided by a massive line that averages 245 pounds, grounded out 313 yards in a 19-11 win over Oregon State last weekend.

"Iowa used a Power-I and just blew people out of there with that big offensive line," said State assistant coach J. T. White, who scouted the Hawkeyes.

Defensive tackle Jim Heller, who is no dwarf at 6-3, 240, is expecting a tough game in between the two lines.

"We're going to have to play a whole different type of game," Heller said after practice yesterday.

"We have to get off on the ball or their line will push us all over the field," the Lion co-captain said.

Heller, along with tackle Randy Crowder and defensive ends Bruce Bannon and Dave Graf will be out to neutralize the Iowa line and make the tackle if they can.

In the State defensive setup, most of the tackling is left to the headhunting linebackers. John Skorupan leads the team in tackles with 21, 19 of which were unassisted. Skorupan, named the AP Lineman of the Week after his stellar performance against Navy last week, is joined by linebackers Jim Laslavic, Ed O'Neil and Larry Ludwig. The senior Ludwig is second to Skorupan in solo tackles.

If Iowa sticks to grinding it out with four or five-yard runs, the Lion secondary won't see too much action from quarterback Kyle Skogman.

Halfbacks Buddy Ellis and Steve Stille and safety Greg Ducatte complete the Lion 11.

The offense, after shaky first half against Tennessee and Navy, will be out to eliminate the costly turnovers and light up the scoreboard. Directing the offense is senior John Hufnagel, who is starting his 20th game as a Nittany Lion.

The lanky Hufnagel has hit on 22 of 43 passes for 324 yards and two touchdowns. He can choose from any one of five receivers on the field at a time to throw to. Each position is loaded with talent.

Sophomore tight end Dan Natale has been Huffy's favorite target so far. Natale has seven receptions for 93 yards and one touchdown. Flanker Jim Scott is next in line with four catches for 136 yards and one TD.

Tailbacks Gary Hayman (4 catches, 23 yards) and John Cappelletti (2 catches, 17 yards) to pick up extra yardage by running pass patterns.

Natale and senior Bob Richtenbach are starting at tight end with Gary Debes and Dave Bland ready to spell the first stringers. Flanker Scott Skarzynski has recovered from a shoulder injury and caught a 21-yarder against Navy.

On the offensive line the Lions will be using Phil LaPorta and Craig Lyle at the tackle spots with Carl Schaukowitz and Mark Markovich as guards. Rick Brown will start things rolling by centering the ball to Hufnagel.

Running backs Cappelletti and Hayman are expected to provide most of the ground attack. Cappelletti has gained 139 yards in 39 attempts and Hayman has 16 carries for 87 yards. Bob Nagle will get in his bumps and bruises at fullback. Senior Carl Cayette is recovering from a case of food poisoning and it is doubtful he will play.

Al Vitiello will boot the point after touchdowns and field goals with John Reihner handling the kickoff chores. Brian Masella will do the punting

Penn State vs Iowa

KICKOFF TIME — 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Beaver Stadium.

ESTIMATED ATTENDANCE — 57,000 (57,538 capacity)

RADIO-TV COVERAGE — Radio: WMAJ-AM beginning at 1:15 p.m. Television: Penn State delayed Television Network (taped) — to be shown tomorrow at 11 p.m. and Tuesday at 7 p.m.

1971 RECORDS — Penn State, 1-1 (lost to Tennessee, 28-21; defeated Navy, 21-20. Iowa, 1-1 (lost to Ohio State, 21-0; defeated Oregon State 19-11).

SIZE — Edge to Iowa on offensive line that averages 6-3, 245 pounds, led by tackles John Muller (6-3, 255) and Craig Darling (6-4, 245). Penn State defensive line has slight edge.

SPEED — Few speedsters on either squad but both have breakaway threats, Hayman for Penn State and Iowa's Harris. Lion flanker Jimmy Scott runs a 9.4 100-yard dash.

SCORING THREATS — Penn State: Hufnagel to receivers Natale, Scott, and Rickenbach. Hufnagel, Cappelletti, and Hayman on ground. Hayman on punt and kickoff returns. Vitiello on extra points and field goals up to 40 yards.

Iowa: Skogman to Rollins, Harris or White. Holmes and Harris on the ground. Kokolus on extra points and field goals.

PREDICTION — Penn State may pick on Hawkeyes' green secondary through the air. Iowa will grind it out on the ground. Lion offense should finally gell. Estimated Score — Penn State 31, Iowa 20. —GS

Paterno bugged with fans

Penn State's fans, a rather silent gathering during the Lions' win over Navy last week in Beaver Stadium, haven't been getting any compliments from coach Joe Paterno lately.

"I thought we would have a much more excited crowd

IM golf, bowling

Entries for the University Men's Intramural Bowling and Golf-Medal Tournaments must be turned in at the Intramural Office, 206 Rec. Bldg., by 4:30 p.m. Thursday, October 5.

5-man bowling competition will be offered in the dormitory, fraternity, independent, and graduate divisions, while golf-medal is for undergraduate men only. Bowling competition will begin October 11.

The qualifying round for fraternities in the 36 hole golf-medal tourney, will be held October 7, while independent and dorm men will try to qualify October 14. A score of 85 is needed to qualify for the final round, which will be held on October 15.

last week with the game being the home opener and all," Paterno said Wednesday night on WPSX-TV's "TV Quarterbacks" show. "It was like in high school playing before 300 people."

The show, hosted by Fran Fisher and Jim Tarman, often asks Paterno questions written in from viewers across the state. A Penn State fan in Pottsville wanted to know if the score was going to be 60-6 tomorrow. Naturally, in Penn State's favor.

"60-6?" Paterno repeated, somewhat surprised by the prediction. "If he thinks it's going to be 60-6 I had better get myself a bullet-proof vest, because somebody's going to be shooting at me.

"Too many people come to a game wondering how big a score we're going to run up," Paterno said. "I never doubted we weren't going to beat Navy. If the people were disappointed, I don't care. We're going to enjoy every win whether we win by one point or a bunch.

"I think our kids are entitled to a lot more enthusiasm," he said. "The fans have been getting themselves in the frame of mind for a slaughter. We're going to have our share of tough football games. We're going to have one Saturday."
