

'SuperMud' shown

The 6th Annual Ceramic Arts Conference will be held today and tomorrow along with the "SuperMud '72" exhibit in the Edwin W. Zoller Gallery at the Visual Arts Building.

According to James Stephenson, assistant professor of art, "The exhibition and ceramics conference together provide an insight into the latest trends being developed within the field of ceramics all over the country."

The conference includes students, faculty and private potters from 17 states as far away as Texas and Wisconsin who come together for seminars and lectures.

Guest lecturers this year include Jun Kaneko, of the University of New Hampshire; Jeff Schlanger, an artist from New Rochelle, New York, and Patty Bauer, of the University of Washington in Seattle.

The "Supermud '72" show was put together by Jan Eckardt, master of fine arts degree candidate in ceramics. Featured is work by students and faculty from Penn State, Chicago Art Institute, Kansas City Art Institute, Edinboro State College, Tyler School of Art and the University of Wisconsin.

The exhibit includes everything from traditional and utilitarian pottery to more experimental forms such as unfired clay.

"Supermud '72" provides an excellent opportunity for students to exhibit their work. Too often students are excluded from most regional or national exhibits," Stephenson said.

The exhibit is open to the public and ends Sunday
