

Golfers turn tables on Terps; Kent State today

By GUY GUERRIERO
Collegian Sports Writer

"It's like Christmas all over again," John Krumrine said after the Penn State golf team defeated Maryland and remained unbeaten with five wins. It goes after number six against Kent State this afternoon.

The Lions had won 19 duel meets in a row since their loss to the Terrapins in 1971 and were anxiously awaiting a chance to turn the tables.

"We were all psyched for this one," captain Dan O'Neill said, "and all the guys came through."

No one came through any better than Krumrine as the Lions number three man fired a 74 to capture medalist honors.

"I was never more 'up' than I was today," Krumrine said. "Last night was the first time since high school I lost sleep over an upcoming match, and to have done badly would have burned me up."

Dan O'Neill who, when he isn't winning medalist honors, usually comes close, finished one stroke behind Krumrine at 75. O'Neill birdied the tree-lined 17th hole when he found his approach shot to the elevated green was not short as he expected, but ten inches from the cup.

"I hit an easy five and let it fly," O'Neill said. "It looked short and I was surprised to find it so close."

Rex Ferguson also helped the Lion effort with a strong 75 followed by Fred Von Bergen who again had his problems as he carded a 78.

Lion coach Joe Boyle, although pleased with his team's performance, said the season wasn't over.

"We still have some tough matches coming up," Boyle said. "Monday's contest with Kent State won't be a pushover."

"Today's win was a good one for us, however, we've been going down there (Maryland) and getting our brains beat out, so it's nice to win for a change. I am very pleased with the job our top guys have been doing thus far, if we get someone to back them up, we'll be o.k."

Maryland coach Dave Seigler expressed other thoughts about the 383-394 outcome.

"From what I've seen, Penn State has a good looking team, but we could have given them a stronger challenge," Seigler said. "(Chuck) Marucci and (Erick) Stevenson, my top golfers can play better than they did today."

"We've been traveling a lot lately and these guys haven't had much time to get in some practice or rest. They need some time to settle their game, but it isn't there."

Seigler will find his Terrapins aren't the only team faced with a tight playing schedule. After playing three matches last week, Joe Boyle's linksmen go again today against Kent State. The match is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. on the blue course.

Lukevics' fastballs overpower Rutgers

By RICK STARR
Assistant Sports Editor

Mother Nature extracted a revenge of sorts on baseball coach Chuck Medlar Saturday at Rutgers. All spring long Medlar has been complaining about the weather around this part of the country.

But Saturday the Lion nine finally got a nice sunny day for baseball and sure enough, Rutgers walked off with the first game of the doubleheader when a routine fly ball was lost in the sun.

The Scarlet Knights thus captured the first game 4-3 but Penn State rebounded to take the second 8-0.

Lion hurler Mitch Lukevics threw a tight one-hit job past Rutgers in his first start for Penn State and was backed up by an aggressive 12-hit attack that put across five runs in the first inning.

In that first frame second baseman Greg Vogel and center fielder Dennis DeWitt led off with back to back doubles. After a walk to shortstop Jerry Micsky, third baseman Don Stine and outfielder Rick Sherkel singled and scored on sacrifices by Kevin Burke and Art Ochs.

After that it was all Lukevics as the Lion freshman faced only 23 men in the seven-inning contest. The lone hit was a clean double by Rutgers center fielder Dick Williams to left center.

Lukevics used his curve and changeup to set up his overpowering fastball which was working well all afternoon. He also used his curve effectively, which he throws at two speeds.

Lukevics struck out nine and walked four while recording his second win. His first victory came in relief against William and Mary during the team's southern trip earlier this Spring.

Penn State had a chance to break the second game wide open in the second but Len Bartek's bases-loaded line smash was snagged by Scarlet Knight pitcher Steve Penn for an easy double play.

Medlar did quite a bit of substituting in the first contest, particularly at first. Bartek, a right handed hitter, opened the game at first due to the right handed opposition on the mound. From then on whenever Rutgers changed pitchers, Medlar changed first basemen. Bartek gave way to Ochs and Kevin Burke finished up the game at first.

Medlar also used three pitchers in the opening contest: Sherkel, Brian Massella and loser John Maier.

The game went back and forth in the early innings but in the fifth, Rutgers got out in front for good with two big tallies. Jeff Cabano led off the inning with a home run off Sherkel. Then after a single, Medlar went to the bull pen for relief help from Brian Massella. Massella only pitched to one batter, surrendering a single.

Maier was the third Lion of the inning to take the hill. He surrendered a routine fly ball to Sherkel in left but the Lion junior completely lost the ball in the sun, it fell in for what proved to be the winning run. Maier then got the final out.

"Maybe we just haven't seen enough sun," Medlar said.

The Lions gave it one final shot in the ninth when Stine nailed one 405 feet in dead center but the center fielder had just enough room to make the grab.
