Vogel takes advantage of break

By JEFF YOUNG
Collegian Sports Writer

He wears number one, and although he says it has no meaning, freshman Greg Vogel has been exactly that at second base and in the lineup for the Nittany Lion baseballers.

Vogel, who hails from Cherryville, Pa., was handed the second base job when Pete Warchal, last year's regular, suffered an ankle fracture in an early exhibition game. Never having played second before, he has responded with good defense and is presently batting .345 as the team's leadoff hitter, and stealing a few bases besides.

It's most important that I get on base, whether it's by a hit or a walk."

The adjustment faced by freshmen in collegiate athletics has not been too bad for Vogel. "I was coached by an ex-pro in high school who gave me a real good background, and I played in a semi-pro league in the summers, where there are a lot of college players and the pitching is close to what I'm facing here," he said.

After playing shortstop in high school, the switch to second base hasn't been too difficult either, although

Vogel remarked, "I've got to be quicker with my hands in order to play better."

One might think that Vogel's big break came when Warchal was injured, but Coach Chuck Medlar doesn't see it that way.

"Of course you have to start with last year's regulars," Medlar said, "but it could've been either one of them. Greg's hustling, he's always thinking baseball, he plays good defense, and with his good speed, he makes a great leadoff hitter."

"Next year Warchal will be back 100 per cent, and I wouldn't want to think about what will happen then," continued Medlar. "But I can't see platooning them."

Of course, there are other things for a Penn State freshman to do besides play baseball. "Classes have been a really big adjustment for me, but I like Penn State and I'm glad I came here, even though I could've gone somewhere else," he said.

Vogel's big dream, of course, is to play in the major leagues. At the rate he's going, it might not be a dream for long.

Phils Benched by Cincinnati

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnny Bench drove in four runs with his sixth home run and a double and Pete Rose knocked in the other three with a pair of singles to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-1 National League baseball victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night.

The Reds led 1-0 on Bench's first-inning double when Darrel Chaney started the fifth with a single off rookie Dick Ruthven. Denis Menke beat out an infield hit and when Ruthven threw wild over first, Chaney wound up at third and Menke at second. After Billingham struck out, Rose delivered a two-run single.

The Reds added four insurance runs off Jim Lonborg in the eighth on a hit batsman, sacrifice, run-scoring single by Rose and Bench's three-run homer.

Lacrossers face 'psyched' Bisons

If the lacrosse team were to stop in Lewistown, chances are Bucknell wouldn't roll out the welcome mats for it. Penn State found a place on the Bisons' grudge list last year when it ran up the score, pursuing two scoring records.

The match isn't in Lewistown, though, but the Lions will have their hands full today when they host the Bisons at Jeffrey Field at 3:30 p.m.

"The way we treated them last year, they'll be pretty psyched," defenseman Kevin Campbell said last night before practice.

What the Lions did last year was to increase a 13-3 lead at the end of the third quarter to a 19-6 total, tying the team scoring mark and breaking the individual scoring total.

Jimmy Trenz, the former attackman who took half the Lions' goal production with him this year when he transferred to Cornell, collected nine goals in the rout.

This year coach Dick Pencek has gone to a team style of play with varying results. Against a tough Syracuse ten, State tallied a dozen goals, but lost 16-13 in overtime. Last week at Lehigh it managed only six goals, winning 6-5.

In hopes of hyping the offense, Pencek switched his top point maker, Karl Hurtzig, from attack to midfield. Against Lehigh Hurtzig still passed off for a pair of assists for his former position behind the net.

Freshman Tim McGuire completed his scoring for the year with seven points. He broke his hand in practice Monday.

Russian lauds Jerry, Ernie; knocks Wilt

BALTIMORE (AP) — The language barrier remains, but the Americanization of Russian basketball Coach Vladimir Kandrashin continues.

At a news conference yesterday in Baltimore, last stop for the Soviet team on a six-game tour of the United States, Kandrashin sounded like any number of American coaches:

flash who has been one of the chief reasons the U.S. takes a 4-1 lead into tonight's final game of the series.

— And, like coaches the world over, Kandrashin claimed he was misquoted, made a "not whether you won or lost that counts" observation, and issued the Russian equivalent of "no comment."

The Soviets, intent on studying American techniques, have been watching the National Basketball Association playoffs whenever possible.

Through an interpreter, Kandrashin said he had been impressed by West and "Number 15," presumably Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

As for Chamberlain, when the Russian coach was asked to amplify a published report that he had criticized the Lakers' center, he claimed he had been misunderstood by the press.

He contended Chamberlain who took just three shots in Sunday's playoff game, was "very skillful and strong," but added diplomatically:

"He does not seem to be having his best games. He can play much better."

Kandrashin described the series as "a good experience for us," and said he would have welcomed some opposition from American pro players.
