

Bannon only Lion named to All-Stars

Bruce Bannon, a fifth-round draft choice of the New York Jets, was the only Penn Stater named Saturday to the 50-member collegiate squad which will face the Miami Dolphins in mid-summer.

A defensive end during the regular season, Bannon was selected as a linebacker for the 40th All-Star Football Game, scheduled for Friday night, July 27 in Chicago's Soldier Field.

Southern California coach John McKay, making his debut in the annual all-star classic, named five players from his own national champion team, four from second-ranked Oklahoma, and three each from Nebraska, Purdue and Michigan.

McKay selected the biggest physical all-star squad ever in the hopes of breaking a nine-game losing streak against the champions of the National Football League. Among 31 All-Stars weighing 220 or more are defensive linemen Dave Butz of Purdue, 280, John Matuszak of Tampa, 270 and offensive lineman John Hannah of Alabama, 270.

Louisiana State's Bert Jones heads the quarterbacks named, which also included Joe Ferguson of Arkansas and Ty Paine of Washington State. Running backs include Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt, Purdue's Otis Armstrong, Southern Cal's Sam Cunningham and Nebraska's Bill Olds.

Olds' teammate, Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, will be unavailable because of his recent signing with Montreal in the Canadian League, which starts play early in July.

PSU brightens playoff position

The Lion baseballers swept two Saturday games and advanced to the semifinals before rain forced a weeks delay in the completion of the NCAA District 2 baseball playoffs.

The tournament, which Penn State now is favored to win, and which will determine the district's representative in the College World Series next month, will continue next Saturday with Temple meeting Buffalo and the winner then facing Penn State.

Temple and Buffalo now have 1-1 marks in the double-elimination tournament while the Lions have a perfect 2-0 record after taking Seton Hall 5-3 and Buffalo 3-1.

Freshman righty ace Mitch Lukevics picked up his sixth win on the season by traveling the distance against Seton Hall, scattering six hits and allowing only one earned run. Lukevics went into the contest as the nation's strikeout leader based on wiffs per frame. While he picked up only four strikeouts on the afternoon, Lion coach Chuck Medlar said Lukevics had good control and had his usual fast stuff and curve working.

The Lions scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh on a double by second baseman Greg Vogel, an infield out and a wild pitch by losing Seton Hall pitcher Joe Flannery.

Before the game, a helicopter was enlisted to help dry the field which was still damp from Friday's rain.

After the Seton Hall victory leftyhander Brian Masella picked up a five-hit decision over Buffalo. The Lion sophomore struck out 11 as Penn State pushed its record to 18-5.

"Masella had a real good moving fastball," Medlar said. "He pitched tough in a real tough ball game."

Masella was given a three-run lead to work with after the third inning. The key to that frame was a triple to right center by Lion centerfielder Denny DeWitt with two men on. Shortstop Jerry Micsky then singled him home.

The Lion hurler was also aided by a good defensive play by Vogel. In the seventh with nobody out, Vogel chased down a short fly that helped Penn State avoid a no-out, first-and-third occupied situation. The Lions' second baseman hustled after the Texas leaguer and, according to Medlar, made a great play, diving for the snag.

Temple opened the tournament Thursday with a win over Buffalo in a slight drizzle. Penn State was then scheduled to take on Seton Hall but the game was moved to Friday after the drizzle became a downpour.

However the rains continued Friday with no letup and started up again right after Saturday's games. Sunday, Temple and Buffalo began their showdown for the right to take on Penn State. But the rains came again and cancelled the contest after three innings.

"We'll play it by ear now," Medlar said. "We wanted to finish up the tournament over the weekend because we had the momentum going for us. I don't think the team will lose it, though."

STOLEN BASES — Penn State's scheduled contest with Navy today has been cancelled due to Beaver Field, which was diagnosed yesterday as unplayable. The game will not be rescheduled as Navy has no more open dates.
