

All hi-fi dealers tell you they sell the "very best" in high fidelity equipment. But with us there's good reason: We determine what the "very best" is with our Component Evaluation Program, a series of tests on the reliability, performance, and value of candidate components. Stereo manufacturers are constantly updating their current products and introducing new ones.

WES has found it to be in its own interest, as well as yours, to keep close to new developments. We feel much safer in our recommendation of certain brands when we have checked them thoroughly ourselves. It allows us to double-check manufacturer performance claims, and helps us decide which components are especially good for the price. We're constantly evaluating all stereo components on the market to help you make the best selection— high performance and highly reliable equipment at the best price possible. Then we back up our selection with the finest dealer warranty in the industry. It's a fifteen point service guarantee that protects your purchase in every possible way. You cannot make a mistake when you buy from
