

Stanford-- Penn State

Penn State — Tom Shuman (12) is not an established quarterback. But in this game he is important to watch since, as successor to John Huftnagel, he may be the key to Penn State's chances this fall. Just how well can he run a team? John Cappelletti (22) is the strong tailback, who was practically all of Penn State's ground attack a year ago. Randy Crowder (53) is one of the East's finest defensive tackles. Paterno seems to come up with top men for that spot regularly. Ed O'Neil (87) is one of the most experienced of the Lions' linebackers. They always seem to have good athletes there, also.

Best Teams and Players

Stanford — 1971 (9-3, defeated Michigan, 13-12, in the Rose Bowl, Jeff Siemon LB), 1970 (9-3, defeated Ohio State, 27-17, in Rose Bowl, Jim Plunkett QB, won Heisman Trophy), 1951 (9-2, lost to Illinois, 40-7, in Rose Bowl, Gary Kerkorian QB, Bill McColl E), 1940 (10-0-1, defeated Nebraska, 21-13, in Rose Bowl, Frank Albert QB), 1926 (10-0-1, tied Alabama, 7-7, in Rose Bowl, Ted Skipkey E).

Penn State — 1972 (10-2, lost to Oklahoma, 14-0, in Sugar Bowl, John Huftnagel QB, John Skorupan LB), 1971 (11-1, defeated Texas, 30-6, in Cotton Bowl, Lydell Mitchell HB, Charlie Zapiec LB), 1969 (10-0, defeated Missouri, 10-3, in Orange Bowl, Mike Reid DT, Dennis Onkotz LB), 1968 (10-0, defeated Kansas, 15-14, in Orange Bowl, Ted Kwalick TE, Dennis Onkotz LB).

Coaches and Records

Stanford — Jack Christiansen (Colorado State '51) has a 6-5 record in one year as head coach at Stanford. He served five years as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League and then five years as an assistant coach at Stanford before becoming the Cardinals' top man last year.

Penn State — Joe Paterno (Brown '50) registered a 63-13-1 record in seven years as head coach at Penn State. Was named coach of the year for 1968 and has led five of his seven Penn State teams into bowl games, losing only one.

Notes

Since this is opening game of the year for both teams it amounts to a shakedown for each. Joe Paterno feels his strong offense will find its true value early "because this front four on the Stanford defense is big and excellent." ... On the other hand, Jack Christiansen has expressed the feeling that here and now Mike Boryla will find out if he has good receivers. Most of Boryla's fine pass catchers of 1972 have graduated ... Boryla is the son of Vince Boryla, former player and coach of the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association ... When Joe Paterno turned down a $1.3 million offer last January to coach the New England Patriots of the NFL, the Penn State student body was excited. Here was a man, who acted out just what he said. So the seniors invited Paterno to be their commencement speaker last June and in that address, rare for a college head coach, Paterno said such things as: "You will be victims of the system if you fail to execute your responsibilities to yourself and to your fellow human beings; success without honor is an unseasoned dish, it will satisfy your hunger but it won't taste good." ... Saying he was probably the only speaker at a commencement last spring who would not discuss Watergate, Paterno did say, "I'd like to know, how could the President know so little about Watergate in 1973 and so much about college football in 1969?"

Stanford running back John Winesberry: The team's outstanding sophomore two years ago and should be a big factor in 1973.

Penn State running back John Cappelletti: The strong tailback who was practically all of Penn State's ground attack a year ago.
