

AWS protests queen contest

Last year's controversy over selecting a Homecoming Queen now is being revived by the Association of Women Students, which is taking steps to eliminate the contest. AWS President Doreen Robotti has protested the contest to the University Union Board, which co-sponsors Homecoming with the Alumni Association.

Last year, under pressure from AWS, the Homecoming Committee voted unanimously to end the tradition and honored five outstanding women for their contributions to the University instead of a single Homecoming Queen.

But this year's committee is planning to restore the practice of selecting a single queen.

In a letter to UUB, Robotti said AWS will take "formal action" if a compromise is not reached. She called the competition "the most blatant example of how a woman should not be looked at."

The letter was followed by a meeting between Robotti, Donna Smith, co-chairperson of the Homecoming Committee, and Rich Schroeder, chairperson of the Homecoming Queen contest. According to Robotti, neither the letter nor the meeting brought satisfactory results.

Schroeder said Robotti is wrong in trying to eliminate the contest. He said he has discussed the contest with a number of students, professors, and University staff workers who agreed that the AWS view of the contest is "garbage."

Schroeder said he does not know what steps Robotti intends to take but commented, "I'm always prepared for her."

Smith said she and Sally Aurand, the other Homecoming Committee chairperson, will back whatever stand Schroeder takes.

UUB President Sue Michon had no comment on the issue. Robotti said although she does not want to create a fight between organizations, she wants to "handle the issue at an intelligent and sensible level." This, she said, was impossible at the meeting with Schroeder and Smith, which she called "very unproductive."

Robotti also said she tried to take action without publicity before work on the contest began but her efforts were not appreciated.

She said the Homecoming Queen contest "is just traveling a road to self-ridicule."

-JC

Add period to end today

Wednesday is the deadline for adding courses and October 1 is the deadline for dropping courses.

Dr. Colin M. Kraay will speak on "Timoleon and Corinthian Coins in the West" 2:20 p.m. Wednesday in 230 Arts Building. He will speak on "Greek coinage and History" 8 p.m. Thursday in Kern Auditorium.

Auditions for "Fat Fell

Down" will be held 5:50 p.m. Wednesday in the men's dressing room in the basement of Theatre Arts.

Philip Dettra will present a piano recital 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Music Recital Hall.

The Penn State Amateur Radio Club will present the film "Ham's Wide World" 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the HUB Assembly Room.

The Press Association will meet 7 p.m. Wednesday in 205 Engineering D.

The Biology Society will meet 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in 2 South Frear.

Collegian notes

The German Interest House will sponsor both English and German films 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in Warnock.

AP NewScope

U.N. admits Germanys

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United Nations yesterday admitted East and West Germany in what the General Assembly president described as a new era for the world body.

The entry of the two Germanys was the major order of business the opening day of the General Assembly's 28th annual session.

"The restrictive stage of the organization is over," declared newly elected assembly President Leopoldo Benites of Ecuador, and "the stage of true universality" is beginning.

With the entry of the two Germanys and the Bahamas, U.N. membership climbed to 135. There were 51 founding members in 1945.

The entry of the Germanys leaves four divided countries still outside the United Nations—the Koreans and the Vietnams.

South Korea has proposed separate North and South membership, but the North wants a single membership. The Vietnams are not close to anything beyond observer status.

Shapp asks deadline delay

HARRISBURG — Gov. Shapp yesterday called for a delay of federal clean air deadlines to give communities where plants are closing more time to attract new industry.

Shapp told a news conference yesterday the delay would help areas like Johnstown, where Bethlehem Steel Corp. will lay off some 4,500 workers while it converts to a new steel making process.

"One of the reasons they're moving at this time is so they can meet environmental standards," Shapp said.

The State Department of Environmental Resources said the current deadline for primary air emission standards is 1975. Shapp's proposal would have Congress delay implementation until 1977.

The governor said, however, he opposed relaxing the emissions standards as proposed by President Nixon. The President said the move would ease an expected shortage of home heating oil this winter.

CSW asks credit changes

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Commission on the Status of Women has filed 20 recommendations to end what it called widespread discrimination in the credit industry.

Many banks, lending institutions, credit bureaus and retail creditors discriminate on the basis of sex and marital status when granting credit, according to the report submitted yesterday to Gov. Shapp.

The report is based on a year-long study, including interviews and public hearings. The Commission was formed by Shapp in February 1972.

Arline Lotman, the commission's executive director, said the recommendations cover both governmental and private action to ensure that women have equal access to all forms of credit.

The commission recommends legislation requiring that credit decisions be made regardless of sex or marital status.

Liquor sales reform proposed

HARRISBURG — Gov. Shapp yesterday dismissed a House liquor probe as "much ado about nothing," but said the committee could provide valuable impetus for turning the state store system over to private enterprise.

He released a 135-page report by Philadelphia accountants which recommends the stores be auctioned off to private interests. He told newsmen he hopes for legislative action on the proposal next year.

"I hope the legislature will enact far-reaching reform," Shapp said. "There may be some compromises, but I can't tell you what they'll be."

The news conference came a day after the governor's unprecedented appearance before the House Liquor Control Committee, which is probing charges of political pressure in state regulation of the liquor industry.

The Artists Series presents THE NATIONAL BALLET

"Spectacular...The dancing was splendid."

N. Y. Times

"The Stage was literally spilling over with talent."

Phila. Evening Bulletin

Saturday, September 22nd at 8:30 p.m. in Rec Hall
 Students/Children: $1.50
 Non-Students: $2.50

STUDENT SALE begins Tuesday, Sept. 18th at 9:00 a.m. at the HUB Booth

NON-STUDENT tickets will go on sale Sept. 19th at 9:00 a.m. at the HUB.

Rec Hall Season Subscriptions on sale through Sept. 21st $5.00

MICKEY ROONEY JOE E. BROWN JAMES CAGNEY OLIVIA DEHAVILLAND DICK POWELL

Shakespeare's

A Midsummer Night's Dream

TONIGHT

Wed. Sept. 19 8 & 10 p.m. at Kern Commonsplace Theater Only 50¢

ANNOUNCING WITH PLEASURE FIESTA DAYS AT A TASTE OF MEXICO

with a get acquainted Mexican combo plan

A a tacoburger a bean burrito a tacodog	B a bean taco a beef taco a chili dog	C Spanish rice refried beans a hotdog	D a meat burrito chili
---	---	---	-------------------------------------

60¢

40¢

35¢

70¢

2A's and 1C
2B's and 2C's
4C's

2C's and 1D
1D, 1B and 1C

1A, 1B, 1C
1B and 3C's
1D and 2D's

Consider the Possibilities!

116 S. Heister St.

238-5624