

House approves fuel bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only minutes before the 337 to 76 vote, word reached the House floor that the Arab oil producing states had announced a five per cent monthly cut in exports to the United States until Israel withdraws from Arab territory. Both supporters and opponents of the legislation agreed it "would not provide one additional barrel of oil," only ensure that all sections of the country share the burden of fuel shortages equally.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., would require allocation of crude oil and all refined petroleum products, including home heating oil and gasoline. The administration's fuel oil program, scheduled to take effect Nov. 1, would allocate home heating oil, kerosene, jet fuel, diesel fuel and certain other distillates, but does not include crude oil or gasoline.

The House bill also would allow service stations automatically to pass any rise in the wholesale price of fuel on to the consumer — something they are prohibited from doing under Phase 4 regulations.

The bill would direct the President to give top priority to such essential services as hospitals, utilities, mass transit, food production and mail delivery in drawing up the distribution plans.

Dept. outlet for labor problems

By GLENDA GEPHART
Collegian Staff Writer

Aiding student workers experiencing employer and union problems is the purpose of a new Undergraduate Student Government department which will hold its first meeting tonight.

The USG Department of Labor, one of the campaign promises of Mark Jinks and Frank Muraca, was established last spring through the efforts of the USG Senate and the Labor Action Coalition.

Department Director Larry Mishel, who also was involved with LAC last year, said, "The USG Department of Labor will be a resource place for people who want to organize (into Unions)."

Mishel compared another plan for the department to a function of the Organization of Town Independent Students. He said OTIS helps students with landlord problems and his group will try to help students with employer difficulties. This might include violations of the minimum wage law and cases of an employer refusing to pay an employee, Mishel said. When administering help the department probably will tell students "collective action is the best defense" and encourage them to unionize if they are not already union members, Mishel said.

"The Department of Labor is looking for people who want to unionize," he said, adding it is in contact with various local and national unions and has access to legal advice when needed.

Mishel said the department plans to publish a leaflet explaining union effectiveness and laws concerning unionization process. He said he hopes a labor education program also can be started with the cooperation of the University's Department of Labor Studies.

There are now seven members in the USG department, and several other students have expressed interest, Mishel said. Tonight's 7:30 p.m. meeting in 312 Boucke is open to all concerned. The group will organize task forces and activities for the coming year, Mishel said.
