

Rip tries a new Engle: Collegian prognosticator

The Nittany Lions play a football team tomorrow at Syracuse that has not won this year, but they're also picking on a guy that isn't afraid to play a little left-handed golf.

Penn State takes on Ben Schwartzwalder's Orange men at "cold" Archbold stadium tomorrow and former Lion coach Rip Engle likes Joe Paterno's chances.

Engle is this week's Collegian "Big Ten" seer and, unlike his former prognosticators, he used a little inside information and picked two mid ups.

"Neither Texas nor Arkansas are up to their usual level, but I received a letter from (Arkansas coach) Frank Broyles recently and he said he's using all freshmen and sophomores," Engle said. "I'm going to take Arkansas in an upset." Engle also decided on George Welsh's Navy over the favored Air Force Falcons.

As a former Lion coach, it's no surprise he took Penn State, although that choice won't exactly be called an upset. The presence of Schwartzwalder, however, gave cause for slight pause.

"Ben's a fine coach, a real tough guy," Engle said. "He plays it tough and he's a competitive person. He'll go out and play golf left-handed with you for instance."

During his 24 years as coach of the Orange, Schwartzwalder has produced one national champion, his '59 squad that beat Penn State 20-18 at Beaver Stadium.

"I guess we were fortunate to be near him that year, but we were alive in the last quarter," Engle said. As it turned out, we were the only team to come within three touchdowns of that team. That was the game that made me give up on all polls. We lost by two points so we dropped out of the top ten while they went from about fifth to second."

While Engle ran the Lions, his teams were 8-8 against the Orange. Six of those eight losses came in the unfriendly confines of Archbold. "It's a cold field there," Engle explained. "The game is always hard played. Usually the teams are even in personnel, except when Schwartzwalder comes up with a Floyd Little or a Jimmy Brown or a Larry Csonka.

"This game developed into one of the real tough games of the year. It became the biggest game in Eastern football.

"Ben is like most good coaches. If he has fine players, he's giving you a hard time."

—Rick Starr

	Penn State at Syracuse	Pitt at Boston College	Navy at Air Force	Okla. State at Missouri	Colorado at Oklahoma	Tennessee at Alabama	Auburn at Georgia Tech	Texas at Arkansas	Houston at Miami	Wisconsin at Michigan
Ray McAllister last week: 8-2; overall: 38-10-2, .780	Penn State 38-7	Boston College	Air Force	Missouri	Oklahoma	Tennessee	Auburn	Texas	Miami	Michigan
Mark Simenson last week: 6-4; overall: 37-11-2, .780	Penn State 42-3	Pitt	Air Force	Missouri	Oklahoma	Alabama	Auburn	Texas	Houston	Michigan
Rick Starr last week: 7-3; overall: 35-13-2, .720	Penn State 36-10	Pitt	Air Force	Missouri	Oklahoma	Alabama	Auburn	Texas	Houston	Michigan
Dunkel's Football Index last week: 7-3; overall: 38-10-2, .780	Penn State 37-7	Boston College	Air Force	Missouri	Oklahoma	Alabama	Auburn	Texas	Miami	Michigan
Associated Press last week: 8-2; overall: 38-10-2, .780	Penn State 38-7	Boston College	Air Force	Okla. State	Oklahoma	Alabama	Georgia Tech	Arkansas	Miami	Michigan
Rip Engle last week: Rep. Galen Drabik's 9-1; guests overall: 38-10-2, .780	Penn State	Boston College	Navy	Missouri	Oklahoma	Alabama	Auburn	Arkansas	Houston	Michigan

New York 'tugs' A's noose again

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think," observed Yogi Berra, "I've got the best relief pitcher in baseball."

The manager of the New York Mets was talking about Tug McGraw, who saved 25 games during the regular season and choked off a couple of Oakland threats last night, preserving the Mets' 2-0 victory in the pivotal fifth game of the 1973 World Series.

"I think he proved it tonight," Berra added.

McGraw weaved his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning and left two more A's runners stranded in the eighth.

"My control was a little off," McGraw said. "But I kicked myself in the backside and I was all right from then on."

McGraw may have been all right, but the A's were not. They managed only three hits all night and may have wished they hadn't passed up batting practice before the game.

That gave them eight hits and one run in the last two games against the Mets. The limited Oakland offense reminded the daily Collegian sports

The Daily Collegian Friday, October 19, 1973-7

Berra of something else.

"I think," he added, "we've got the best pitching staff in baseball. They got us here."

"Here" is one victory away from baseball's world championship. "We haven't won it yet," said Berra. "We still have to get that one more."

It shouldn't be that tough for the Mets. They have two chances to get that one more and a split of the last two games would accomplish their aim. A split is 500 baseball and that's the neighborhood the Mets have lived in most of this season.

The victory gave the Mets a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven Series, which moves back to Oakland for Game 6 tomorrow at 4 p.m., EDT. A seventh game, if needed, would be played Sunday.

Left-hander Jerry Koosman, pitching on a chilly, windy night that turned Shea Stadium into a virtual ice box, had the A's shut out through six innings and was leading 2-0 when he ran into trouble.

Gene Tenace opened the Oakland seventh with a walk and, after Jesus Alou popped out, Ray Fosse bounced a double past Mets' third baseman Wayne Garrett.

That finished Koosman. McGraw, who had pitched 10 innings in the first three games of the Series, rode in from the bullpen again.

His first problem was pinch-hitter Deron Johnson, who ran the count to 3-2 and then walked, loading the bases.

more on World Series in "PS"

Cleon Jones scores as Ray Fosse awaits throw

Syracuse's dying What became of legend?

"All I can say is our kids are trying and they're doing the best they can," Ben Schwartzwalder mused. "Maybe the coaching isn't good enough."

"But whining and crying doesn't do any good. The Penn State game will be a great challenge to us. Hopefully we can perk up a little and have a good showing. We'd better."

Indeed, Syracuse, which has come up with its worst start in Schwartzwalder's 25-year reign as coach could well be in for the most humiliating afternoon of a very humiliating season. It seems somewhat optimistic for Schwartzwalder to refer to the game only as a "great challenge."

Odds-makers, in fact, have installed Penn State (5-0) as anything from a four- to a five-and-a-half touchdown favorite for the 1:30 p.m. game at Syracuse's Archbold Stadium.

The faithful at Syracuse undoubtedly have dwindled since the national championship years of 1959. Even Larry Kimball, sports information director for the Orange, has bluntly said that Syracuse football is all but dead, particularly now that its record is 0-5.

"When you talk about Syracuse football," Kimball said at one of those weekly football luncheons not long ago, "you're talking about a legend that no longer exists."

Certainly the days of Syracuse running backs such as Jim Brown, Ernie Davis, Jim Nance, Floyd Little and Larry Csonka are gone. Instead, those names of Jim Donoghue and Bob Mitch, Syracuse's two leading rushers. Both are quarterbacks, ironically enough, though Donoghue also doubles as a running back.

Syracuse has rushed for only 609 yards this season a figure which becomes even more unimpressive when compared with the 604 Penn State tailback John Cappelletti alone has ground out.

Additionally, the Orange have scored only 43 points in five outings this season, never tallying more than 14. Penn State has scored 159 in its five games.

Syracuse has given up 187 points this year, Penn State only 26. Forty-one of Syracuse's points were coughed up in a tremendous upset to Bowling Green in the season opener, 38 in a blanking at the hands of Maryland two weeks ago.

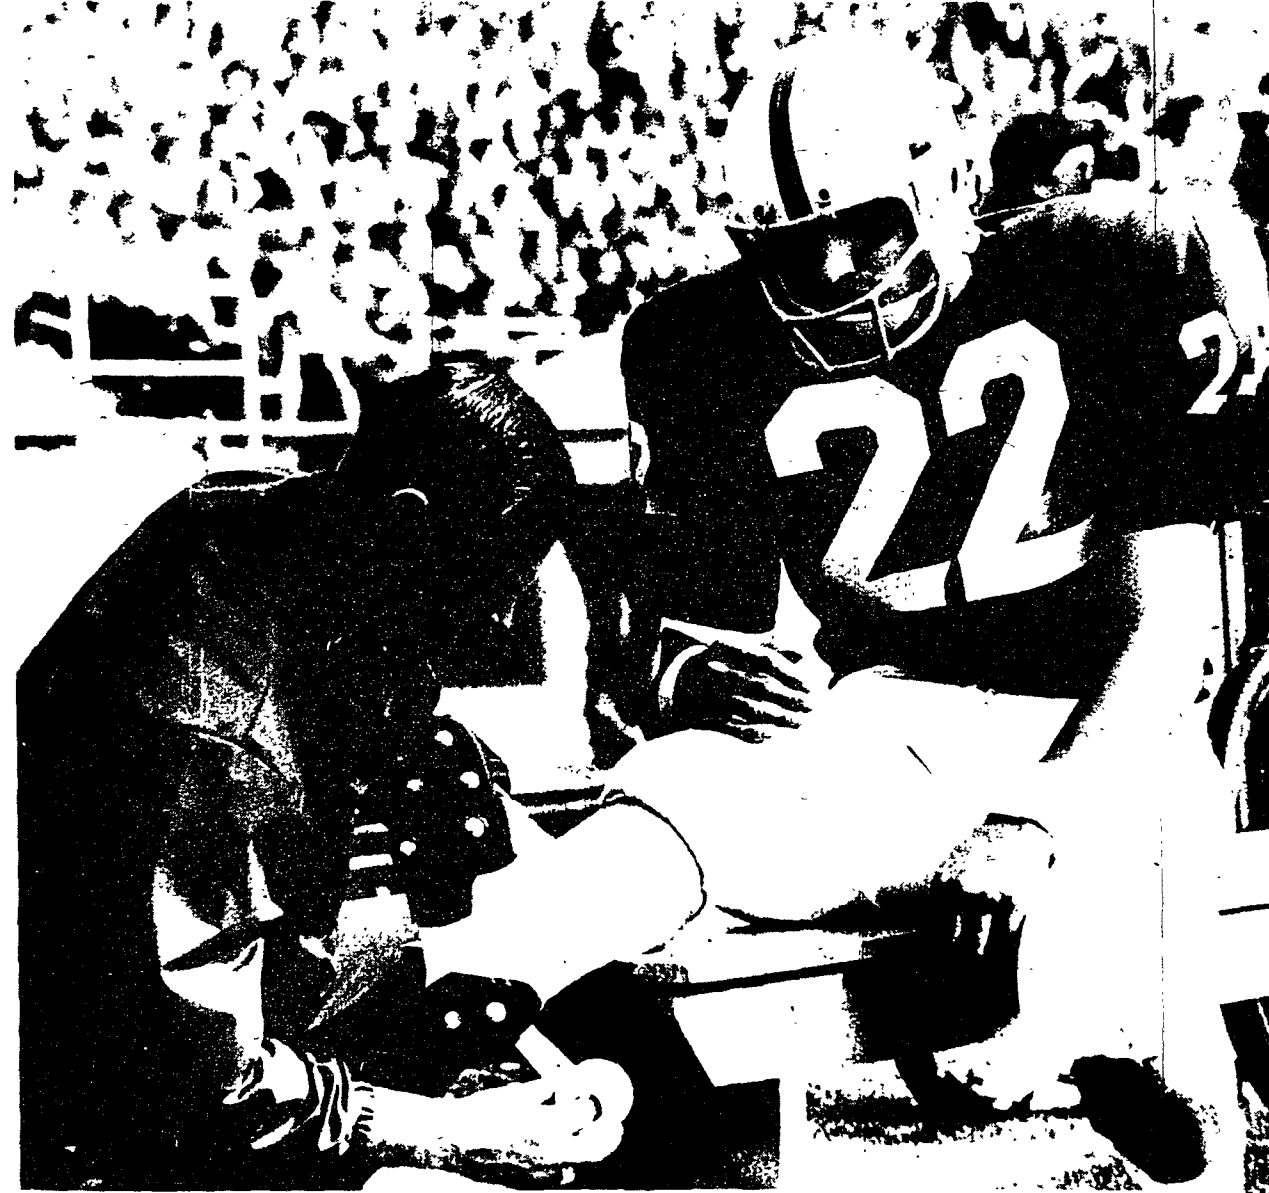

The Orange last week lost 23-14 to Navy, the only common opponent. Penn State decked the Midshipmen 39-0.

Nonetheless, Joe Paterno, perhaps with memories of tougher Syracuse teams and a 24-7 loss three years ago, isn't taking anything for granted.

"You know that Syracuse is going to do everything it can to give Ben a win in his last game against Penn State," the Lion coach said. "We know they'll be ready for us. They always are."

Unfortunately for Schwartzwalder, who needs to win all six remaining games to avoid his third losing season in 25 at Syracuse, the Orange look incapable of doing enough to give Ben a win. Whining and crying may not do any good. But it may be the only thing Syracuse can do.

—Ray McAllister

John Cappelletti has time for tape and almost as many yards as Syracuse

Pirates pick up Brett from Phillies for Cash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The pitching-poor Pittsburgh Pirates strengthened their staff yesterday with the acquisition of Ken Brett from the Philadelphia Phillies in exchange for second baseman Dave Cash.

The 24-year-old Brett was 13-9 for the Phillies last year, compiling a 3.49 earned run average. Cash, 25, considered one of the best fielding second basemen in the National League, batted .271 with two home runs and 31 runs batted in.

"The Pirates need pitching," Pirates' Manager Danny Murtaugh said after the first major deal of the winter trading market was announced. "We have a number of questionable arms and need protection."

Paul Owens, director of player personnel for the Phillies, said his team needed more offensive punch and indicated he had other irons in the fire that would bring him a pitching replacement for Brett.

In addition to winning 13 games for the Phillies, Brett set a major league record for a pitcher by hitting home runs in four consecutive starts. An excellent hitting pitcher, he averaged .253 in with four homers and 16 RBI.

The 5-foot-11 Cash divided the second place job last season with Rennie Stennett.

DUNKEL'S FOOTBALL INDEX Second half seriousness begins

By DICK DUNKEL
1973 Dunkel Sports Research Service

The college football season has reached the halfway mark and the race for No. 1 now takes on second-half seriousness.

No less than 14 teams rate 100.0 or better on the Dunkel Index. And it appears that there are still as many teams in the running for No. 1 as there were when the season started.

The team that finally reigns atop the Index, of course, won't be there because of someone's vote. As always it will be the team that does the best job of outscoring the highest quality of opposition.

Current leaders can beef up their claims to superiority this week by bettering these Index point-pars that they have set for themselves by their performances:

Oklahoma 19 over Colorado
Alabama 8 over Tennessee
UCLA 23 over Wash. St

Ohio State 24 over Indiana
Missouri 10 over Okla. St
Nebraska 8 over Kansas
So. Calif 20 over Oregon
Penn State 37 over Syracuse
Michigan 19 over Wisconsin

Ratings are adjusted after each game and will drop when a team fails to perform up to par.

Higher rating teams have won in 77.0 percent of the 978 games covered to date. Here's this week's schedule with rating differences:

Higher Rating Team	Diff.	Opposing Team	Higher Rating Team	Diff.	Opposing Team
Miss. State	83.2	(11) Louisville	71.9	Utah	69.3
Missouri	107.9	(18) Okla. St.	97.7	Utah St.	79.5
Nebraska	101.7	(8) Kansas	99.4	Va. Tech.	79.4
N. Mexico	72.1	(23) Tex. A&M	48.7	W. Michigan	73.4
N. Illinois	63.9	(10) Ball State	63.8	Wm. & Mary	74.0
N. Tex. St.	67.8	(16) Drake	52.2	Davidson	40.2
Notre Dame	106.9	(34) Army	67.1	Wyoming	69.9
Ohio State	109.3	(21) Indiana	84.4	Yale	55.4
Oklahoma	119.6	(19) Colorado	99.6
Oregon St.	100.5	(1) California	79.6
Penn. State	105.8	(37) Syracuse	69.4
Purdue	87.4	(11) N. Western	71.8
So. Calif.	107.7	(16) W. Virginia	77.8
S. Carolina	83.4	(27) Pacific	66.0
Texas Tech.	99.7	(20) Oregon	87.5
Texas A&M	86.0	(17) Ohio U.	69.0
Tulane	72.5	(4) Rice	80.4
Tulsa	51.1	(5) Texas Tech.	77.8
U.C.L.A.	110.9	(23) Wash. St.	88.3

MAJOR GAMES		SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20		SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20
Lehigh	68.8	(9) Penn.	63.0	Albany	52.2
Long Beach	59.9	(5) Fresno	51.2	Albany	52.2
Miami, Fla.	99.2	(2) Houston	97.6	Albany	52.2

OTHER EASTERN		OTHER EASTERN
Trenton	19.6	(14) St. Peter's	3.8

NATIONAL AND SECTIONAL LEADERS
NATIONAL	118.6 Oklahoma
EAST	115.5 Penn State
MIDWEST	118.6 Oklahoma
SOUTH	111.5 Alabama
SOUTHWEST	103.5 Arizona
FAR WEST	110.9 U.C.L.A.