

Kissinger tours Mideast

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began a lightning five-nation tour of the Middle East last night to assess prospects for "a just and lasting peace in the Middle East" in the wake of the recent Arab summit conference in Rabat.

Kissinger flew here after a whirlwind tour of Rome during which he met with Pope Paul VI and made a speech to the U.N. World Food conference proposing an international organization to coordinate food distribution to the world's hungry.

"I'm on a second visit to Cairo to see President Anwar Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi to discuss conclusions in the light of the Rabat summit and to see how further progress can be made towards a just and lasting peace in the Middle East," Kissinger said in a Cairo airport statement. "The United States stands ready as it has for the past year to be helpful to the parties concerned in making rapid progress towards peace."

Kissinger went into an almost immediate first session of talks with Fahmi prior to his first scheduled meeting with Sadat at 10:30 p.m.

Kissinger will meet Fahmi again this morning and will then go to Sadat's home in suburban Giza before lunch.

Kissinger is scheduled to fly to Saudi Arabia this afternoon and then on to Jordan the same night. He will complete his tour tomorrow with a visit to Syria and Israel.

He is then to fly to Turkey for talks aimed at promoting peace between Greeks and Turks over Cyprus.

Kissinger began the day with a 90-minute meeting with Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios to discuss the latest hopes for a Cyprus peace settlement. Kissinger announced earlier he would fly to Turkey on Friday for talks about Cyprus.

Fighting in the island republic this summer between Greek Cypriot and Turkish invasion troops nearly plunged Greece and Turkey into war and the quarrel is far from settled.

Shortly before making a major speech to the United Nations World Food Conference, in which he proposed a world organization to coordinate food distribution to the world's hungry, Kissinger had a private talk with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

Kissinger also met in private audience with Pope Paul to discuss the status of Jerusalem, shrine of three religions, in any eventual Middle East settlement.

In the past year, the Vatican has made special overtures to Moslem nations to present a joint front against any efforts by Israel to retain absolute control over the Holy Places in Jerusalem.

Fraternity, sororities begin charity drive

Pi Kappa Phi fraternity will collect money and canned goods today and Thursday in its fifth annual Thanksgiving Turkey Drive.

Members of Kappa Delta, Delta Delta Delta and Chi Omega sororities also will collect money at various campus and State College locations from second to sixth period, according to Pi Kappa Phi President Scott Edelman.

Edelman said canned goods would be collected at night.

Both canned goods and money will be distributed to needy State College area families by the Trinity Lutheran Church, he said.

Last year more than $1,000 was collected. Edelman said this year's goal is $1,500.
