

Guerrilla attacks rock Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Outlawed Marxist guerrillas flouted Argentina's new state of siege yesterday killing an army officer, burning military vehicles and raiding a busy commuter railroad station.

The attacks were apparently a refusal of terrorists to accept the broad powers assumed Wednesday by President Isabel Peron to end what the government called an "inhuman and criminal terrorist plan against the entire nation."

Maj. Nestor Horacio Lopez, a military high school instructor, was machine-gunned to death and a military guard seriously wounded in a guerrilla ambush as Lopez was getting into his car.

Police sources said at least 18 army buses parked in a factory lot 20 miles north of here were virtually destroyed by bombs and fire. They attributed the raid to the outlawed People's Revolutionary Army (ERP). Police said an ERP group also took control of suburban Avellaneda railway station at gunpoint briefly to hand out revolutionary propaganda and spray-paint walls with anti-government slogans.

Then federal police announced that bomb disposal experts exploded a charge planted in front of a primary school Wednesday night. No one was injured. The building was heavily damaged.

Interior Minister Alberto Rocamora said the state of siege was imposed because of anonymous threats that school children and teachers would be killed and their classrooms bombed. "It was the drop of water that caused the glass to overflow," he said.

Thousands of nervous parents held their children home for the second day. No one claimed responsibility for the threats.

Bombings, kidnappings, assassinations, police raids, ambushes on military installations and other acts of terrorism by left- and right-wing opponents of the government began increasing in September when more than 150 explosions rocked Buenos Aires over one week-end.

At least 137 people have died since Mrs. Peron succeeded President Juan D. Peron on his death July 1.

University Theatre play opens 'Sky:' Conflict in a family

By C.J. Arnold
Collegian Staff Writer

University Theatre's production of Lemon Sky must be hailed as a tremendous work, intimately portraying a family that literally tears itself to pieces.

Author Lanford Wilson is able to capture the audience and hold their attention throughout.

"Lemon Sky" is a tense and exciting drama about a father continuously berates the boy, Alan, until in a final confrontation he destroys his entire family.

Ralph Alfred displays great self assurance in his role as Alan. Alan is a young, naive and fresh character full of great expectations for his visit to his father's California home.

Alan's stepmother is superbly portrayed by Irene O'Brien. She is an example of one of the "good guys in Little Orphan Annie." She is a sweet loving mother who tries to make the best of everything.

Mia Dillon and Kathleen McGrath are especially effective as two orphans living with the family.

Jerry, 12, and Jack, 11, are expertly played by two youngsters. Alan Finney as Jerry and Larry Avey as Jack automatically win Alan's heart.

Alan tells the audience that all is happy, though not for long. Soon Doug begins to challenge Alan on trivial subjects. Always worried about his own male virility, he questions Alan about his

In a final effort to completely destroy Alan, he accuses his son of being homosexual.

Thoroughly crushed, Alan decides he must leave.

Heartbroken by the bitter realities of life Alan realizes that his promised land of eternal sunshine and fresh oranges is nothing more than sad memories.

Kissinger drops visit to Turkey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A planned visit by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to Turkey was called off yesterday under the weight of Turkish politics and a noisy anti-Kissinger demonstration. But his Middle East diplomacy whirled on with visits to Syria and Israel.

The cancellation of Kissinger's planned visit to Turkey today was triggered by a Turkish political dispute over Cyprus policy. It was announced in Ankara by Turkey's caretaker premier, Bulent Ecevit, as 2,000 students demonstrated at the city's Middle East Technical University with signs reading, "Kissinger murderer."

A senior U.S. official said Syrian President Hafez Assad had eased his resistance to negotiations between Israel and Egypt during more than three hours of talks with Kissinger in Damascus, but apparently did not flash a clear green light for the negotiations to begin.

Kissinger then flew from Damascus to Jerusalem where he assured Israel "there is no change in American policy on any of the issues" involved in his quest for Middle East peace.

and son who try to rediscover one another.

All they discover is the bitter truth that too many years and too great a distance has developed between them. They no longer understand each other's needs.

The plot, narrated by Alan centers around the father's selfish demands. He con-

Indian festival planned

The Indian "victory of goodness" will be celebrated Sunday night on the ground floor of Kern.

Sponsored by the Penn State Friends of India, the celebration is being held in conjunction with the Indian festival named Deepawali.

According to Beebak Perti, president of the club, the festival will begin with a small religious ceremony. Afterwards Indian food will be served, Perti said.

The festival starts at 6 p.m. At 8 p.m. an Indian movie will be shown. Admission for the whole event is $1.
