

Super defense Steels it

Franco Harris, (32) snapped the Viking defense and the Super Bowl rushing record

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers won the first National Football League championship of their 42-year history yesterday with a 16-6 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl.

Franco Harris scored one touchdown himself and smashed through the Minnesota defense to set up the Steelers' other touchdown, which was scored on a pass from quarterback Terry Bradshaw to Larry Brown. "I'm gratified for the players, coach Chuck Noll, his staff and all the people in our organization," the silver-haired Rooney said in the tumult of the Steeler dressing room. "It is a great day for me personally and a great day for the city of Pittsburgh." "It's fantastic," said Greene. "Never in my wildest dreams did I think I would get this big a charge out of winning it." The Vikings' only score was provided by the defense on a blocked punt recovered in the end zone by Terry Brown.

Joe Green and his front four teammates, L.C. Greenwood, Ernie Holmes and Dwight White, put the game's first points on the scoreboard with a safety and shut off the rushing game the Vikings felt they had to establish. Meanwhile, it was Harris and runningmate Rocky Bleier who chewed up the yards along the grounds and led the Steelers to their first championship in 42 NFL seasons.

Harris set a Super Bowl record by gaining 158 yards on 34 carries and was named the game's Most Valuable Player. He gained 61 yards in the first half—50 more than the entire Viking rushing game managed in that half.

Every time the Vikings seemed to be finally moving, that stubborn Steeler defense forced a break and halted the drive.

The frustration was completed for Minnesota—the first team to lose three Super Bowls—when quarterback Terry Bradshaw produced the clinching touchdown on a pass to Larry Brown with only 3½ minutes left.

Pittsburgh kicked off to open the second half and Coach Chuck Noll, who stressed 11 weeks that gimmicks don't win football games, tried one and turned it into a major break for the Steelers.

Gerela squib kicked and Bill Brown grabbed it for a moment and then fumbled. Marv Kellum recovered the loose ball for Pittsburgh at the Viking 30.

That was all Harris needed. The big third-year man from Penn State burst off the left side for 24 yards and two plays later swept around left end for nine yards and the touchdown. Gerela finally got one between the uprights for a 9-0 count.

Newcomers pin loss on 'Cats

By MIKE RODMAN
Collegian Sports Writer
"The history of this team has been that it's the type where one or two guys will rise up and give us a good performance and lead us to a win," said wrestling coach Bill Koll after his Lion team had disposed of Kentucky 21-19 Saturday.

The man with the big cigar wasn't referring to John Fritz or Jerry Villecco or even Brad Benson, he was talking about Doug Weaver and John Reed.

Now, Doug Weaver and John Reed aren't exactly the kind of names that surface in a conversation while waiting in line to get your daily slop at the dining hall.

However, due to big wins by those two, the Lions were able to chalk up their third win against two setbacks.

Weaver destroyed Jim Montaine in the 150-lb. division, 15-2, while Reed, subbing for the mono-ridden Villecco at 167, pinned Joe Murray in a quick 1:42.

The former match came at a time when the team score was tied and things were looking bleak for the Lions due to a supposed weak line-up in the upper weights. The latter made the score 21-11 and put the Wildcats in the position of needing two pins in the last two weight classes to win.

Needless to say, they didn't get them, but they did come close.

The meet started out on an odd note, as the 190 pounders initiated things. Kentucky's Brian Willson had to fly home quickly due to personal reasons. He got to go home sooner than he had bargained for as Jerry White pinned him at 4:51.

After that things got down to normal, as Wayne Packer (118) got the best of Garrett Headley, 9-5. After many 'He's getting there's' by Koll, Packer is there—with a 6-1-1 record as proof.

The next match (126) was pretty strange for Penn State fans. John Fritz didn't win. As a matter of fact, he was handled fairly well by Olympian Jim Carr, 7-3.

Koll claimed afterward, "this was the poorest match of John's career. He was making poor judgements and was wrestling stupidly. He didn't shoot enough, and when he did shoot, it was with his head down."

Jim Earl lost to Kurt Mock 7-4 in a 134-lb. freshman battle before Denny Sciabica lost to Tim Moussetis by a similar score at 142. Moussetis exhibited some guts when he held on to the win after having his ribs taped shortly after the start of the third period.

After Weaver's win, Dave Becker was held to a draw by Scott Crowell at 4-4. Becker was up 4-1 with a big time advantage in the third period but Crowell scored three and rode Becker for the rest of the period to get the draw.

Reed then pinned Murray, setting up the last two matches.

The first was Joe Carr (Jim's brother) against Dan Brenneman.

The match was exciting as everyone knew that if Carr didn't pin it would be Penn State's meet. It got so exciting, in fact, that Carr's brother was forced to sit himself in the stands so he wouldn't be tempted to run onto the floor.

The massive and extremely strong Carr couldn't do it, but managed to win 10-4 at any rate.

Pat Donley pinned Penn State's Rich Boehmer at 2:54 in an anticlimactic heavyweight match. Brad Benson still isn't ready for wrestling after his performance in the Cotton Bowl.

If you are trying to add up the team score and find that Kentucky comes up one point short, it's because the ref deducted a team point because one of the Kentuckians had the top of his uniform off his shoulders and dangling at his waist.

Penn State will wrestle two matches this Saturday at Rec Hall. The Lions will tangle with West Chester at 2 p.m. and with North Carolina at 8 p.m.

Randy Meister (55) was frustrated by constant two-on-one pressure

Meister bottled up as cagers fall below .500

During the past eleven years West Virginia has won only two basketball games in Rec Hall. "All I ever heard was you can't win at Penn State," Mountaineer coach Joey Gardner said after this year's game. "So I always asked 'why not?'"

Gardner answered his own question by shutting off Penn State for a close but sure 63-59 win before a Lion home crowd of more than 6,000.

"You better believe I'm happy with the defense," Gardner continued. "I thought we played an intelligent ball game and I thought (West Virginia center) Warren Baker played an outstanding defensive game."

Baker, a 6-7 junior who held 6-9 Lion center Randy Meister to 9 points, also helped the Mountaineers offensively by losing in 17 points. But it was his constant, physical defensive pressure that may have hurt Penn State most.

"I wanted to do it, but it just wasn't coming to me,"

Meister said. "Once in a while you get a game where you're tired and run down, and I was expending a lot of energy to get open, and that didn't help matters any."

"I think we had some good opportunities and we ran our game plan well," Lion coach John Bach said. "We wanted to get them out of the 80's, and we succeeded well in that respect. But I can't say I'm encouraged. We're still looking for balance."

"Preston was put in for defense, his experience, and he'll get some buckets," Bach said. "Jim Ouderkerk and Kevin Burke (who were replaced) have been pressing lately."

Despite the fact that Meister pulled down 16 rebounds, Bach said, "We had to fight for our lives on the boards. And we gave Baker a little too much latitude."

The loss drops Penn State below .500 for the season with a 4-5 mark. The Lions have an away game with Virginia coming up Wednesday night. Gardner, in his first year as a head coach, has West Virginia at 7-3 on the season.

TIPS FOR BUDGETING YOUR MONEY

- 1) Begin by keeping a record of expenses for about 2 weeks, noting all expenses including rent, food, clothing, etc.
- 2) Set up a budget allowing enough money for each expenditure you recorded. Plan into your budget allowances for treats to reward yourself with.
- 3) Carrying money with you can become a problem, especially with people who tend to spend spontaneously — avoid this whenever possible!
- 4) The main goal of managing is establishing an ability to predict your expenditures in a majority of areas and allowing yourself to obtain the things you want with the limited resources that are available.

For further information on budgeting, contact Kathie Brenneman at the OTIS office or call 865-8002.

If you do run into any consumer or housing problems, stop by the OTIS office at 20 HUB or call 865-6851.
