

FACTS OF LIFE ON BUYING BACK TEXTBOOKS

It's that time again to make the decisions on what books to keep and which books to sell.

We urge you to keep some of your books for future reference, again there are many you will want to sell. We have prepared this guide to aid you in evaluating your books:

GENERALLY, TEXTBOOKS FALL INTO 3 BROAD CATEGORIES

TOP VALUE

Current editions textbooks that will be used in the Winter starting Dec. 4, 1975. Books must be in good resalable condition. Books in this category are purchased at 50% of the current new price, regardless whether you bought them new or used.

WHOLESALE VALUE

Books not being used Winter term or no longer used here at all, plus books with which we are currently overstocked. Prices for these current editions range from 20 to 50% of new price. These books are repurchased for resale to our other stores throughout the U.S., hence the lower price.

OOPS! - MAYBE NO VALUE

Old editions mostly paperbacks, workbooks, etc. these books have little or no resale value in the country and our price to you (if any) is adjusted accordingly. Check our price and then see if you wish to keep these for your library.

Please no phone calls about book prices - we must see the book to properly evaluate it!!

These then are the facts of life about selling your books.

Remember: New titles are always being published and others revised. The books you are using today are probably less than three years old, so reason dictates they are worth more today than after next term.
