U.S. FOREIGN AID to developing nations came under attack last night as about 10 faculty members and graduate students discussed the Triage concept which proposes to offer help only to countries who will eventually become self-sufficient. Elena Alvarez (graduate-agriculture economy) said the United States has already caused an adverse effect on developing nations and cited her own country, Peru, as an example. J. P. Mittal (graduate-agriculture economics) and Seewoonundun Bunjun (graduate-economics) agreed that India's problem partly stemmed from handouts from the United States. Mark Shaw, associate professor in agriculture economy, said that in some cases, India was ahead of the United States. India showed interest in family planning 10 years before the United States was, he said.

Warrants issued in Knight case

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Warrants have been issued for three Philadelphia men in the slaying of millionaire newspaper heir John S. Knight III, police announced last night.

Golden said the three men would be charged with murder. He said the FBI was in the process of obtaining federal warrants.

The suspects were identified as Salvatore Soli, about 38, Steven Maleno, 25, and Issiah "Felix" Melendez, 20.

Golden said each suspect would be charged with murder, robbery, attempted murder, aggravated assault and criminal conspiracy.

The identities of the suspects were based on

"information obtained during the course of the investigation," Golden said.

Police had said there was no evidence of forcible entry, leading investigators to believe Knight knew the killers.

N.H., Mass. primaries open Presidential campaign on

By UPI
The 1976 presidential campaign officially opened yesterday as four candidates entered New Hampshire's Feb. 24 primary, and the Massachusetts secretary of state selected 23 names for his state's primary ballot March 2.

Former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, and an unknown Oklahoma lawyer named Rick Loewenburz filed as Democrats, and former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California filed his challenge of Republican President Ford in the first day of filing in Concord, N.H.

In other political developments, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., renewed demands that presidential candidates stop calling for an end to school busing until they can come up with an alternative acceptable to the courts.

Carter became the first official candidate in New Hampshire when his son, Chip, filed required petitions bearing 500 names from each of the state's two congressional districts.

He was followed within minutes by Harris and by Loewenburz, who said the big issue is the "deadly resignation" among people who feel they have lost control of government.

Two hours later Reagan's petitions were filed, and his New Hampshire manager, former Gov. Hugh Gregg, said it would be a major victory if Reagan gets 40 per cent of the vote against Ford.

Ford and several other candidates are expected to file before the deadline Dec. 26.

Democrats Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Ralph Nader and Republicans John Connally and Nelson Rockefeller were among the 23 names on the primary list unveiled by Massachusetts Secretary of State Paul Guzzi. Those named may ask to be withdrawn by Jan. 9.

A candidate must prove he has raised $5,000 in each of 20 states in contributions of $250 or less. Wallace says he has qualified in 38 states, nearly twice the number needed, but the check records since August show that he has met the qualification in only the 10 Southern states.

In a Senate speech,

McGovern said neither President Ford nor any other presidential candidate should imply he can "stop the buses" — unless he has an alternative which the courts would accept as constitutional. Nor should he promise a constitutional amendment that cannot get a two-thirds majority in Congress, McGovern said.
