HARRISBURG (AP) — to pay licensing board Thousands of budding members to administer pharmacists. accountants. beauticians and barbers won't be able to start their new careers right away because of budget cuts in the State Department, an official said yesterday.

Their careers will be delayed at least three months. said Edward Robinson, commissioner of professional and occupational affairs.

examinations.

"Thousands of people who spent years preparing for various occupations and who invested money won't be able to practice or get accredited," Robinson said in a telephone interview.

Commonwealth Secretary C. Tucker has suspended virtually all meetings by the various licensing boards. Overtime throughout the department has been eliminated and a job freeze is in effect.

Tests scheduled for this spring have been postponed to at least July for 500 pharmacy school graduates, 3,500 beauticians, 2,300 candidates for certified public ac-countant, 200 barbers and 50 future funeral directors, Robinson said.

In addition, the boards will be unable to hear consumer complaints about licensed practitioners.

"There's going to be a tremendous backup of all kinds of malpractice, malfeasance misfeasance," Robinson said. Already, the boards have a

He called on Tucker to cut general administrative overhead, which he said consumes 15 per cent of the

Piper makes 100,000th plane but the best estimate is that

- Piper Aircraft, which claims it has produced 10 per cent of all airplanes ever made, will pass a milestone today when it dedicates its 100,000th

About 1,200 employes at the Piper plant will join a number of guests to christen the twin-engine Chevenne turbo-prop.

Also displayed during the half-hour ceremony will be the first Piper Cub, built in 1937 and the latest, a Super Cub which was the company's 99,999th plane. "No one knows for sure, about one million planes have been built since the industry began," J. Lynn Helms, Piper president, said. He said the total includes military aircraft. In recent years, Helms said, there has been "a general upturn" in the number of planes built by Piper. He estimated more thân 3,000 a year are built at three company plants, including the main plant here and the other two in Florida.

The plane to christened today will be named the "Heritage 76."

It is painted red, white and blue in honor of the nation's Bicentennial and will be flown and displayed around the country.

One of the plane's first stops will be the Hanover Air Show next month in West Germany.

On Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed to review a $36 million judgment — the largest ever awarded under federal securities laws arising from a bitter 1969 battle for control of Piper.

The judgment was to Chris-Craft Industries, the loser in the fight, and Corp., a conglomerate which acquired control of Piper. The judgment was also against the First Boston Corp., which underwrote the Bangor move, and three officers of Piper, Howard Piper, Thomas F. Piper and William T. Piper

All three men are sons of William Piper Sr., who died in 1970. Known as the "Henry Ford of aviation," he and his sons reportedly opposed the attempt by Chris-Craft to take over his firm.

Ford vetoes millions in day care funds

Ford vetoed a bill yesterday that would month. grant states $125 million to meet new

Ford urged Congress to pass, instead, an administration program under which states would establish and enforce their own day care staffing standards and set up the social service programs they think best.

In a veto message to Congress, Ford said the measure "would perpetuate rigid federal child day care standards for all the states and localities in the nation, with the cost to be paid by the federal taxpayer."

The House passed the bill 317 to 72 and

WASHINGTON (AP) - President the Senate approved it 59 to 30 last

The standards require a minimum federal standards for staffing day care number of adult workers to care for children between the ages of 6 weeks and 6 years at child day care centers.

> Originally a 1974 social service law required that standards be met by last October. As that date drew near, backers of the suspension said it became clear requirements could not be met in many states.

> The bill, as passed by Congress, postponed the requirements until July 1, this year. In his veto message, Ford urged Congress to extend the deadline until October. He said this would give Congress time to enact a bill he proposed for Federal Assistance for Community Services under which states could make their own rules.

Ford said the bill would deny the states flexibility in setting standards and would make day care more costly to the American taxpayer.

He said it would require the expenditure of $125 million over the next six months and could lead to a cost of $250 million more each year thereafter.

Ford also was critical of federal matching rate proposals for day care costs included in the bill he vetoed, saying they would further complicate the problems states have in administration of social service programs. The veto was Ford's forty-seventh since he took office.
