

ARHS MOVIE TIMETABLE

centre cinema

Blazing Saddles
from the people who gave you "The Pink Panther"
Thurs Simmons 7:30 & 9:30
Fri & Sat 105 Forum
7:30, 9:30, 11:30
Sun 7:30 & 9:30 $1.00

Rob Premiere

It's a better movie than 'Blazing Saddles' or 'Young Frankenstein'. —Rolling Stone

Monty Python and the Holy Grail
PG-13 FROM CINEMA 5
Thurs - Sun $1.00
PUB Rec Room
7:30, 9:15 & 11

Cinema East presents

"JOE"

Thurs, Sat & Sun $1.00
FUB Rec Room 7:30 & 9:30

NORTH HALLS

Andy Warhol's Dracula
A FILM BY PAUL MORRISSEY

Thurs - Sun $1.00
7:30 & 9:45 108 Forum

WARING CINEMA

Peter Sellers & David Niven

The Pink Panther

Thurs & Sun 6:30 & 9:30
Fri & Sat 6:30, 9:00, 11:30
Waring Lounge $1.00

ARHS & The Jazz Club Present

A Cartoon Festival

featuring
The Pink Panther
Roadrunner
and
Bugs Bunny

Fri - Sun $1.00
7:30 & 9:30 111 Forum

COMING NEXT WEEK

EAST — TOMMY NORTH — DEATH RACE 2000
WEST — MARX BROS in ROOM SERVICE
* a MEE production for ARHS *

Snipers upset election

Lebanese congress meets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Presidential candidates campaigned among rival Christian and Moslem militia leaders yesterday as snipers threatened the newly called parliamentary session to elect a president.

Scattered sniping in Beirut kept areas of the capital deserted but for the first time since Lebanon's twenty-seventh truce was declared Friday, no new casualties were reported to add to the toll of nearly 16,500 dead and 34,000 wounded over 11 months.

With a truce holding and the site for a parliament meeting fixed, House Speaker Kamel Assad called deputies to session Saturday. They are expected to draft laws clearing the way for the resignation of President Suleiman Franjeh and the election of his successor.

A force of 500 Lebanese army and internal security troops formed a "security belt" around the parliament's meeting site, the Esselly villa near the central security offices. The villa lies in the "green line" zone separating Christian eastern Beirut from the Moslem western sector of the divided capital.

Assad set no date for elections but parliament would have only two days after that — until noon Monday — to elect Franjeh's successor before the current 10-day truce expires.

Accepting the truce on Friday, Moslem leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt threatened that his forces would renew the war if Franjeh had not resigned and a successor acceptable to the leftists was not elected within that time.

After a meeting of leftist parties, Jumblatt issued the first conciliatory statement since laying down his terms for the truce and declared his "satisfaction" at developments.

Jumblatt, stressing the need for parliament to meet and amend the constitution for the election of a new president, said the way would then be open to "tackle the problem at its roots" on the basis of the leftists' proposed reform program.

"In this connection we will be ready to welcome any Arab initiative — including the Syrian initiative — that is aimed at providing assistance in surmounting the ordeal," Jumblatt said.

Asked by reporters if the leftists would prolong the truce after the April 12 deadline, Jumblatt said "we will examine the situation after Saturday's parliamentary meeting."

But while parliament was scheduled to meet, it was by no means certain that it would.

Shooting erupted in the vicinity of Esselly villa

shortly after Assad announced that parliament would meet there.

"There are still parties that do not want a settlement and it would take only one sniper on Saturday for things to go boom," a government source said.

Among the other problems facing the parliament was the still unresolved issue of who would succeed Franjeh.

Several candidates are in the running, including National Bloc leader Raymond Edde, Central Bank Governor Elias Sarkis, and lawyer Michel El Khoury.

Jumblatt is known to back Edde while Syria and the Christians favor Sarkis. El Khoury's name has been mentioned along with that of deputy Pierre Helou as a possible compromise between the two front-runners.

Another problem was Franjeh himself. He has been reported to have agreed to the heavy pressure to resign on him from all quarters, but publicly he has announced no decision yet.

Another problem was getting workmen to risk sniper fire to get in and ready the villa, which has been unused for years, for the meeting.

British ship bombarded

LONDON (UPI) — Motor torpedo boats flying Syrian flags attacked the British container ship Cheshire Venture Monday off the Lebanese coast, British officials said yesterday.

The officials said reports reaching London indicated the Cheshire Venture, 1,592 tons, was hit seven times above the waterline. There were no casualties among its crew.

The British Ambassador in Damascus, David Roberts, has been asked to make the strongest representations to the Syrian authorities, the officials said.

The Cheshire Venture is on its way to Limassol, Cyprus, for repairs.

Chinese warn against violence

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Chinese Communist Party newspaper, warning against new outbreaks of violence in China's current power struggle, yesterday called on security forces to "track down" troublemakers and "deal resolute blows at them."

The People's Daily editorial appeared a day after angry mobs went on a rampage in Peking's huge Tien An Men (Gate of Heavenly Peace) Square, reacting to a showdown battle between Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Vice Chairman Teng Hsiao-ping.

No force was used Monday against the rioters, who set fire to at least three vehicles and a building. But several hundred of the tens of thousands of people in the square during the daylong disturbances were arrested.

The mob was protesting the removal of wreaths honoring Chou En-lai on the Martyrs Monument on Monday, a day Chinese annually pay respects to their ancestors' tombs.

Diplomatic sources said top level meetings were believed to have been held in the Chinese capital yesterday to determine how to deal with any new disorders.

The editorial, broadcast by Peking Radio, did not mention Monday's incidents. It called for strict control of the campaign against Teng, the first vice premier who had been expected to succeed the late Chou when he died last January.

The editorial said the struggle, "initiated and led by our great leader Chairman Mao himself," was "victoriously" developing throughout the country. But it also said there was bound to be "rabid resistance and trouble-making" by many elements, including party factions.

"It is imperative," the editorial added, for security forces to deal severely with troublemakers, to "track them down sternly and deal resolute blows at them."

Indicating a high level concern that the situation could develop into chaos similar to that of the Cultural Revolution 10 years ago, the editorial said, "we should keep a watchful eye at all times on the new trends of class struggle."

The current power struggle became evident in February when wall posters began appearing on university campuses attacking Teng as a "capitalist-roader" deviating from Mao's policy line. Teng had made a dramatic comeback on China's political stage during Chou's illness after being purged during the Cultural Revolution.

JAZZ WEEK '76

APRIL 4-10
EVENTS

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7th

VIDEOTAPE

"Montreaux Jazz Festival"
Noon Kern Lobby

JAZZ FILMS (FREE)

Noon HUB Assembly Room

JAZZ STEREO

10 am-4 pm
Paul Robeson Cultural Ctr.

COMMONSPACE THEATRE

"St. Louis Blues"
7:30 & 9:30 pm FREE 112 Kern

JAZZ COFFEEHOUSE

8:00 pm 301 HUB