5,000 protest in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired shots into the air yesterday and dispersed some 5,000 black student demonstrators in another outbreak of protests in the African township of Soweto.

Police said the students, chanting political slogans and singing freedom songs, fled in a cloud of teargas at a crossroads in the Soweto district of Jabavu. No casualties were reported. The marchers apparently were heading for the New Canada railway junction on the outskirts of the township, where police stopped an attempted march on Johannesburg by 20,000 blacks Wednesday. Three blacks were killed in that clash.

Later yesterday, calm returned to the troubled township of more than one million blacks, about eight miles south of Johannesburg. But there were reports that more demonstrations were planned today.

The reporter also said there were plans to try to disrupt all transport leaving Soweto and thereby stop the more than 200,000 black workers who commute to Johannesburg daily.

Bandits storm hotel; 5 dead, 1 kidnaped

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A gang of heavily armed desert bandits stormed a tourist hotel on the Kenyan-Ethiopian border, killing five persons and taking a Frenchman hostage, Kenyan officials said yesterday.

All of the victims were French school teachers in Ethiopia on their way to Kenya for a vacation. The embassy said four other French nationals in the hotel, including the child of the slain woman, "divided into a car and raced for the Kenyan border."

Student sent to homeland

The 20-year-old engineering student who fired two shots from a .22 caliber rifle in Zeno's bar last week has been returned to his homeland, Algeria.

In the Wednesday confrontation, police gunfire dispersed 2,000 blacks who were trying to leave Soweto and march on police headquarters at John Vorster Square in Johannesburg.

More than 20 persons were wounded during the early morning raid Wednesday in Moyale, located a half mile inside Ethiopia, the officials said.

"When they arrived they found their car riddled with bullet holes," the embassy said.

Ghaman A. Hafidi was flown from Philipsburg to Algeria, via Pittsburgh, New York and Geneva, Switzerland, Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault in a Centre County Court hearing.

Police identified the woman involved in the June 20 incident as Pamela Kruszewski. She has been charged with theft and criminal conspiracy, and her case has been bound over to Centre County Court. Police said the rifle used by Hafidi in last Wednesday's shooting had been legally owned by Kruszewski.

"They ransacked the hotel, firing machine guns and lobbing grenades," one official said. "They then fought it out with Ethiopian troops before retreating, apparently with a Frenchman."

The survivors were flown by Kenyan Air Force to Nairobi, where the most seriously injured, Jean Michel Cavaille, underwent surgery to remove a bullet lodged in her rib cage.

Hafidi had originally been charged with attempted murder for the shootings, which resulted last Wednesday night after he had argued with another customer, left the bar and returned with the .22 rifle. No injuries resulted from the shooting.

Police said the rifle used by Hafidi in last Wednesday's shooting had been legally owned by Kruszewski.

"The dead woman was identified as Elizabeth Burst. The French Embassy said it was feared the kidnaped Frenchman, identified as Alain Galaup, also may have been killed.

The border area and surrounding desert and bush country is notorious for Somali bandits, or shifta. It is the scene of continuous cattle raids and attacks.

But the attempted murder charge was dropped in a plea bargain between Hafidi's lawyer, David Grine, and Centre County Assistant District Attorney Robert Mix. The aggravated assault charge was suspended pending Hafidi's return to Algeria.

Hafidi's Penn State education had been sponsored by SONACOME, an Algerian national society for mechanical construction, and by Calcusearch, an American agency that acts as an intermediary between SONA-
