PITTSBURGH (AP) - Leo Foster drove in three runs with a single and double and Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits as the New York Mets defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4 yesterday.

The Mets, who had scored four early runs, scored their winning runs in the seventh on a walk to John Milner, a single by Joe Torre, a double by Jerry Grote and a two-run double by Foster.

The victory gave Lolich a 7-10 record for the season.

Lolich was in trouble in the fifth when he gave up three hits and a run with two out. In the seventh he gave up a leadoff homer to Richie Zisk, his 14th. In the eighth he issued his first walk of the game, to Frank Taveras, who went to third on Rennie Stennett's single and scored on Al Oliver's sacrifice fly. Stennett came home one out later on Zisk's single.

The Mets chased starter Jim Rooker with four runs in the first inning.

Pepe Mangual led off with a single and Mike Vail followed with a triple into the right field corner. Vail came home on John Milner's groundout.

Joe Torre then singled and Jerry Grote doubled to center. Roy Staiger was walked to load the bases, and Torre scored on Leo Foster's single.

That brought on Bob Moose in relief, with the bases still loaded. Moose walked Bud Harrelson, forcing in Grote.

Lolich, after giving up a lead-off single to Frank Taveras, set down 14 straight batters before Bill Robinson tripled off the center field wall with two out in the fifth.

Duffy Dyer followed with a double to left, scoring Robinson, and Tommy Helms, batting for Moose, singled to left. Taveras ended that threat by flying out to right field with Dyer on third.

Eagles will field Bradshaw kicks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you had a rare wine, would you use it to flavor beef stew? If you had a $350 suit, would you clean it at a laundromat? If you had Terry Bradshaw, at starting quarterback, would you put him in to punt?

If you're Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Chuck Noll, yes. "I guess it's dangerous for the starting quarterback to be punting. But who else is going to do it if Bobby Walden wouldn't be able to do it," said Bradshaw as he prepared his arm, and leg, for tonight's preseason game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

With a roster limit at 43, and maybe lower, one of the first rookies the Steelers cut was punter Barry Burton. Last year, % Noll toyed with the idea of having Bradshaw as a back-up punter to save a roster spot, but Bradshaw talked him out of it.

"I talked Chuck out of doing it the rest of the year," Bradshaw said, remembering his stint as punter in an exhibition game against Baltimore.

"I was so scared. They didn't get near me. I got the ball up so fast our guys weren't even downfield."

After that, Bradshaw talked Noll out of another such ex-

" 'Please don't make me punt,' I told him. I told him I'd rather return 'em than punt 'em.'

Bradshaw has bad memories of punting in 1970, his rookie year. It was in Philadelphia, he punted three times, averaged 17 vards and the Steelers lost 30-20. On the third punt, someone got through the line, blocked the punt for an Eagle touchdown, and left Bradshaw's leg a mess.

"One guy plowed into me and split the leg right open," said Bradshaw, pointing to a nasty scar. "He must have had a cleat missing or something." For his part, Noll is not convinced the risk is any greater for Bradshaw in the backfield than it is in the slot. 'I think there's more danger when his back is to the rush and he's throwing downfield," said Noll.

"Terry's kind of a perfectionist, you know. He doesn't want to look bad in any phase." That kind of reverse psychology has apparently worked.

Bradshaw is now talking in positive terms about overcoming his fear of punting.

"Shoot, it's like gettin' sacked. It's a mental block. It is scary but I've got to prove to myself that I can actually take the snap and punt the football," says Bradshaw.

"We place no special importance on anybody," he adds. 'Shoot, I could get hurt handin' off.

"I know some guy might be comin' in there thinkin, 'Well, here's our chance to finish Bradshaw for the whole season.' But it's something I gotta do.'

Marcis snares first 500 miler

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Dave Marcis, jousting with Buddy Baker the final 80 miles, sped away to victory in the eighth annual Talladega 500 Grand National stock car race as Baker ran out of gas with less than three laps remaining.

The balding Marcis, a Wisconsin native who won the pole position with a speed of 190.651 miles per hour, averaged 157.547 m.p.h. in his Dodge for his first career superspeedway victory. It was the first time a pole pack most of the distance.

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The winning and losing coaches were in complete agreement about the decisive factor in Ohio's 11-7 win over Pennsylvania in the Big 33 football classic.

"It was our defense," aid Ohio coach Don Hertler of North Canton Hoover after the Saturday night victory. "We were stunting and keeping pressure on their quarterbacks. Defense was the name of our game.

yards rushing and passing, its lowest total since this game was instituted in 1958.

"I was disappointed we didn't pick up Ohio's penetration," said coach

"We knew they would deal and stunt a lot against our Wing-T offense. We wanted to get outside and couldn't.' Even with its limited amount Pennsylvania appeared a winner until Ohio marched 72 yards late in the game. Pennsylvania had the ball at the Ohio 20 but fumbled on a third-and-one option play. Defensive Ritcher of Medina forced the fumble, then fell on the loose ball. Jeff Houseman of North

Canton completed two clutch passes on the drive which was capped by Ernie

Washington's seven-yard scoring run.~ Pennsylvania had taken a 7-0 lead late in the first period when Jim Villani of Bethlehem Liberty passed 16 yards to Mike Guman of Bethlehem Catholic. Ohio cut the margin to 7-3 in the second quarter on a 40-yard field goal by Mike Hubach of Cleveland.

The much-regarded Matt Suhey of State College was limited to seven yards.
