Getting down to earth

On opposite page: At left, Sue Mason, (4th — French) sits surrounded by balloons at the Orientation table at the fair on the HUB lawn. At right, Nanci Foster guides "Marshmallow" through trots and prances on the fair area. The exhibition was sponsored by the Penn State Equestrian team.

Above: Pat Coyle, a member of the Penn State Sport Parachute Club, signals thumbs up before free-falling to earth from 8,000 feet. The demonstration kicked off Dimensions, the activities fair coordinated by the Undergraduate Student Government Department of Communications. Parachutists, at right, landed at the intramural fields near East Halls.
