

Israeli prime minister selects coalition cabinet

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister-designate Menahem Begin completed his government coalition yesterday, signing agreements with two religious parties to give his right-wing Likud bloc a three-seat edge in parliament. Begin also announced he will visit Washington next month for talks with President Carter.

The 63-year-old Begin will present his coalition cabinet to parliament today, officially shifting power to his Likud alliance after almost three decades of Labor party leadership.

The visit to Washington is expected to provide the first major test of the new government's relations with its major foreign ally. Begin, leader of the parliamentary opposition since Israel's founding 29 years ago, is a virtual unknown to American politicians.

Carter has urged Israel to return almost all occupied Arab territory in exchange for peace with the Arabs, a policy supported in principle by the outgoing Labor government.

Begin's aides asserted yesterday that Carter would find common ground with the one-time underground leader. They did not elaborate.

Begin's visit will precede another planned tour of Middle East capitals by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who has been sounding out Arabs and Israelis on the possibility of reconvening peace talks in Geneva, suspended since 1973.

Begin's Likud Unity bloc controls 45 seats in the Knesset, or parliament.

The agreements signed yesterday bring the 12 seats of the National Religious party and four seats of the Agudat Religious party religious faction into a Likud-led coalition. Two other members who have pledged support to Begin would give his government 63 of the 120 seats in parliament for a three-seat majority.

In return for support from the religious parties, Begin has promised a series of policy changes extending greater religious control over Israeli life.

One concession likely to anger Reform and Conservative Jewish groups in the United States would define the Halacha, or orthodox Jewish law, as the only basis for conversion to Judaism that would be recognized in Israel.

In effect this would bar Jews converted under Reform or Conservative rules from being accepted as Israeli citizens under the Law of Return, which gives all Jews the right to citizenship in Israel.

Spaniards fearful of U.S. bases

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The opposition Socialist Workers Party, a close second to Premier Adolfo Suarez's centrist bloc in last week's election, demanded yesterday that the new parliament urgently take up the question of U.S. military bases in Spain.

It charged that the treaty covering the Rota atomic submarine base and the airfields at Torrejon, Seville and Zaragoza had converted Spain into a "satellite of the United States" and was exposing it to the dangers of nuclear attack.

El Socialista, the official organ of the Socialists, said the treaty was concluded by the late dictator Francisco Franco without asking the Spanish people, causing serious damage to Spanish interest.

"The new democratic parliament, working for the recovery of our sovereignty, must give priority to the U.S. military presence in Spain," El Socialista said.

Although the party platform adopted last December asked for liquidation of the bases, El Socialista only asked for parliamentary debate on the treaty.

But with crucial problems such as the ailing economy and minority rights for Basques and Catalonians facing the new parliament, it was believed unlikely that it would take up the bases problem in the near future.

Suarez, meanwhile, met with King Juan Carlos to discuss his ideas for forming Spain's first democratic government in nearly 40 years.

According to almost complete results, Suarez' middle of the road forces won 166 of the 350 seats in the congress of deputies — 10 short of an absolute majority. The Socialist Workers Party finished second with 118 seats, and the rest were scattered among Communists, the right-wing popular Alliance and Basque and Catalonian nationalists.

where, oh where, is Calder Square?

Well, Calder Square is nestled away between Beaver and College Avenues, on Calder Way — in the new heart of town.

If you're driving along either College or Beaver Avenues, just take a left onto McAllister Street. A block later and you're there — at Calder Square.

Back on College Avenue, just look for an attractive grey stone church and a modern bank with a mechanical teller named "Rosy".

McAllister Street is between them and the Square is one block behind them.

So, now that you know, you can Turn Back To the Good Times... Turn Back To Calder Square.
