

Marquette falls, Friars cooked

By The Associated Press

Marquette and Providence ran into a couple of high-pressure zones in Chicago over the weekend.

No, not the weather — the basketball kind. As the Midwest has been crippled by a towering snowstorm, so were Marquette and Providence brought to their knees by a pair of stern defenses Saturday night — the second-ranked Warriors losing to Loyola of Chicago 68-64 and No. 10 Providence dropping a 78-68 decision to No. 19 DePaul.

"They got the job done, what else can I say?" said Marquette Coach Hank Raymond.

"They executed well down the stretch, especially making the key free throws." Loyola Coach Jerry Lyne attributed one of the school's most significant victories to his team's defense, its domination of the boards and its ability to keep Marquette out of its game plan.

"Butch Lee wasn't even a factor in the game," said Lyne. "When other people tried to keep him out he got inside, but he didn't get inside tonight."

Andre Wakefield was the star of the game for Loyola, scoring 25 points, as Marquette suffered only its second defeat in 17 games.

DePaul similarly snowed Providence as Joe Ponsetto and Dave Corzine each scored 18 points while Ponsetto also contributed 10 rebounds.

Bob Misevicius, who scored all 18 of his points in the second half as Providence battled back from a 39-32 halftime deficit, sank two free throws to tie the score at 64 with 1:22 left. But Ponsetto hit a layup to put DePaul ahead for good, at 66-64.

Two other Top Twenty teams suffered upsets Saturday when No. 10 Syracuse was defeated by Rutgers 77-73 and No. 13 Indiana State dropped a 72-64 decision to Creighton.

Elsewhere, No. 3 North Carolina crushed Clemson 98-64; No. 4 Arkansas defeated Texas Tech 54-49; No. 6 UCLA trimmed Southern Cal 83-71; No. 7 Michigan State whipped Ohio State 70-60 and No. 8 Kansas walloped Colorado 85-56.

Also, No. 11 Duke beat East Carolina 105-82; No. 14 New Mexico outscored Utah 113-89; No. 15 Texas edged SMU 85-80; 16th-ranked Georgetown crushed New England College 80-30; No. 18 Virginia defeated North Carolina State 81-73 in overtime and No. 20 Illinois State overcame Southern Illinois-Edwardsville 80-73.

Top-ranked Kentucky's game with Tennessee and 12th-ranked Louisville's contest with Nevada-Las Vegas were postponed by bad weather.

Classy lady cagers dominate the Knights

By BARBARA KLEIN

Daily Collegian Sports Writer
It was just a matter of class and the women's basketball team happened to have an abundance of it.

And it was all on display Saturday as the Lady Lions defeated the visiting Rutgers team, 78-62.

The Lady Lions dominated the game from the beginning, stalling Rutgers' offense completely for the first four minutes. Finally, the Scarlet Knights were able to break through Penn State's defense for a total of 28 points during the first half.

During that same half the Lady Lions were able to walk through Rutgers' defense for 41 points.

"We played our regular, basic man-to-man defense, denying them the ball," Penn State assistant coach Maura McHugh said.

Whatever technique the Lady Lions were using appeared to work, but it was not entirely consistent.

"We got a little stale," Penn State center Mag Strittmatter said. "It's hard to keep up with the momentum the entire game. We had lapses when we were not playing good defense or offense."

But the problems annoying Penn State didn't compare with the problems plaguing Rutgers. Even when the Lady Lions entered a lapse, the Scarlet Knights could not take advantage of the opportunity.

Despite her efforts, Rutgers' All-American candidate Denise Kenney was also unable to help. She was kept to only eight points, posing no offensive threat.

The Lady Lions had no trouble keeping the pressure on Rutgers. Jen Bednarek continued sinking her 20-footers, this time for a total of 24 points. Betty McGuire also aided in the scoring with 14 points.

"Betty played an excellent game," McHugh said. "She is consistent and she doesn't lose her cool."

However, the Scarlet Knights seemed to be losing their patience. As the game progressed the action got more and more heated.

"There were a lot of things going on underneath that you don't like to see," Strittmatter said. "But once it starts, one team just goes right back to the other."

The tension was evident, but the Lady Lions managed to preserve their lead.

Connors finds the service good in Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, proving you need more than a big serve and an austere training program to win pro tennis titles, stroked through Roscoe Tanner Sunday to win the $225,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis championship, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

The 25-year-old Connors of Los Angeles earned the $35,000 first prize with a week's work that included victories over Cliff Drysdale, Adriano Panatta, Buster Mottram, Raul Ramirez and Brian Gottfried.

It was the second time in the last three years Connors has won the pro tour's Philadelphia event.

Tanner, of Palm Springs, Calif., came here after a six-week conditioning program under former Davis Cup captain Dennis Ralston which Tanner said made him stronger and more disciplined.

Stram shocked by his firing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former New Orleans Saints Coach Hank Stram, still shaken by his unexpected firing, cleaned out his plush office Sunday to make way for a sixth coach for the 11-year-old National Football League team.

The Saints' management said it probably would act within 10 days to hire someone new to pursue the elusive — and unattained — goal of a winning season.

Stram was fired after coaching the Saints for two seasons. Until then, Stram's job generally was considered safe, even after 1977's frustrating 3-11 season.

Last season for Havlicek

BOSTON (AP) — John Havlicek, the most durable basketball player in the history of the professional game, announced Sunday that he will retire from the Boston Celtics at the end of the current National Basketball Association season.

"Everything a player could accomplish, I've done," said the forward-guard, who will be 38 in April.

"The decision to retire was totally his," said Celtics president and general manager Red Auerbach at a midday news conference — the topic of which Auerbach called "the worst kept secret since World War II."

The Celtics had called the news conference two days earlier and word of Havlicek's retirement leaked out over the weekend.

Newcomer Haas strokes win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Front-running Jay Haas, controlled and composed beyond his meager 24 years, led the would-be challengers destroy themselves and rode a round of 2-under par 70 into his first pro golf tour victory Sunday in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Gene Littler, a 47-year-old veteran and hometown favorite, and big Andy Bean both fell victim to their own mistakes. And that enabled the slender Haas to take the title with a 3-stroke margin on a 278 total, 10 shots under par on Torrey Pines' South course, stretching 7,047 yards along the sun-splashed California coast.

The victory was worth much more than the $40,000 first place check collected by Haas.

Fencegals: Strongest ever

Coach Beth Cramer's wish came true Saturday: To start off on the right foot.

The women fencers, however, not only started the meet right, but also the entire season; they returned to Happy Valley with two in the win column, demolishing Montclair State, 15-1, in the opener, and then sneaking by Pennsylvania, 10-6.

"This is probably the strongest team Penn State has had in a while," Cramer said. "We are very strong and should have a good year."

Sophomore Judy Smith started in the first position and won all her matches against Montclair, as did Wendy Pashedag and Carol Jursik.

Donna Grischbowski won the two matches she fenced before being substituted for by Ellie Barnicle, who went 1-1.

"The team really surprised me; they were extremely strong," Cramer said.

It wasn't all fun and games, though, for the Lady Lions. Against the Quakers they encountered some officiating problems.

"The directing was really weak," Cramer said. "It cost us at least two of the bouts."

"I was pleased with the team. They did a good job by not getting upset."

Pashedag, Jursik, and Smith each compiled a 3-1 record against Penn. Smith was downed in her first bout, while Pashedag suffered her only defeat in the last match. Barnicle was 0-2 and Grischbowski finished 1-1.

The University Task Force on Student Representation will be holding Public Hearings:

February 1 - HUB, Main Lounge (7:00-10:00 P.M.)
February 2 - Findlay Lounge (7:00 - 10:00 P.M.)
February 6 - Pollock Union Building (7:00 - 10:00 P.M.)

The purpose of the Public Hearings is to provide further student input into the recommendations of the University Task Force on Student Representation. Included in the recommendations are the following:

1. A model that would reflect a student association designation rather than a student government designation. The name of the association shall be the Pennsylvania State University Student Association.
2. The development of a Central Council that will serve as the exclusive group for consultation with the University administration for major policies and decisions that affect all students and would be recognized as the "student body appropriately organized." Its composition would include both University Park students elected at-large and student officers of the departments to be established as part of the Student Association.
3. An Association President who will be popularly elected.
4. The establishment of a Standing Committee of the Central Council responsible for the allocation of University funds.
5. The establishment of an Appropriations Committee formed by the Central Council for the allocation of Association generated funds to its Departments and Bureaus.
6. The establishment of three courts of original jurisdiction:
 - a. Traffic Court
 - b. Disciplinary Board - for those cases which involve the violation of a University regulation as it appears in the most recent edition of the Student Handbook, which is not applied exclusively to student organizations, Departments or Bureaus.
 - c. Supreme Court - for cases involving the following:
 - 1) violations of a University regulation as it appears in the most recent edition of the Student Handbook which pertains exclusively to student organizations, Bureaus or Departments.
 - 2) grievances brought against a registered organization, Department or Bureau.
 - 3) reviewing the constitutionality of legislation passed by the Central Council.
 - 4) interpretation of the Constitution of the Student Association.
 - 5) adjudication of appeals from the Standing Committee on Organization Registration.
 Where there is a jurisdiction question, the Director of the Office of Conduct Standards will determine the appropriate court of jurisdiction to adjudicate the case.

Available at the hearings will be a draft of the Student Association Constitution.
