

Icers lower their style, then lose to W. Chester

By JON SARACENO
Daily Collegian Sports Writer

If you thought hard hitting, aggressive play and dirty hockey tactics were peculiar to the Philadelphia Flyers, you didn't see Sunday night's game at the Pavilion. If you did venture out to watch the game what you did see was West Chester outmuscle the hockey club, 4-3, in a Mid-Atlantic Conference game.

"It was a typical West Chester style of hockey," Lion forward Tom Horgas said. "They came out hitting, using their sticks and elbows. They accomplished what they wanted to do."

Teammate Dennis Herr agreed. "They came at us hitting away, so we lowered our style of play and played like they did," he said.

West Chester coach Tony Leiper said the win was important for his squad. "It was the biggest win of the season by far for us. We played three times better than anytime this season," he said.

Lion coach Clayton John, however, was not as pleased with his team's performance.

"We played two very poor periods of hockey. We played like we can in the last period."

West Chester jumped out to a 1-0 lead on a first period goal by Mike Darmiento, whose slapshot ticked off the glove of goaltender Bill Richardson. Darmiento added two more goals in the second and third periods for the hat trick.

The Lions went into the third period losing 3-0, but suddenly awakened when leading scorer Tom Horgas put in a rebound shot.

Less than two minutes later Horgas connected again to cut the margin to 3-2. The Lions pressured goaltender Memmi with a barrage of shots, but couldn't score again until West Chester had upped the margin to 4-2. With only 25 seconds left in the contest, Horgas fired the puck past Memmi for his third goal.

PUCK POINTS: Horgas was chosen Star of the Game for his hat trick. West Chester leftwinger Bob Landrum showed a lack of class when he spit on a Lion player as the teams lined up for the post-game handshakes.

Hieb 'flu' away, but swimmers win easily

The men's swimming team, competing without the help of backstrokeer Bill Hieb, posted a 68-45 win over Edinboro Saturday.

Hieb's absence forced coach Lou MacNeill to shuffle his line-up a little for the contest. "The absence of Bill Hieb, who is out with the flu, let us experiment with the line-up," backstrokeer Steve Rode said. "We didn't take him with us to rest him for the Bucknell meet."

"Initially, we were (experimenting with the line-up), but they came out and scared us right away so we had to go back to our normal line-up," freshman Mike Snyder said. "We didn't know much about Edinboro, we only had results from their meets in early December."

"They came out and surprised us — at least they surprised me. They were stronger than I expected."

They did not, however, surprise Snyder enough to stop him from setting a pool record of 1:57.29 in the 200 Butterfly.

"They put all of their good people in the medley relay in an attempt to win the meet early," Rode said, explaining Edinboro's early lead. "They didn't want to rely on their last relay."

"But our divers really gave us momentum — they finished one-two on the low board and really got us going."

Before the meet, MacNeill had said that the Lions should be able to win this one, but they weren't too worried about it. Edinboro, like this Wednesday's match-up with Maryland and Saturday's meeting with Temple, will be used as a warm-up for next Wednesday's meet with Bucknell.

"We would like to beat Bucknell," Rode said. "It's a Wednesday night game and the emphasis should be on having a big crowd. This should be a big, close meet like Villanova — it should be exciting."

Rifle: Close call but a win

The co-ed rifle team had a close call Saturday afternoon, but when the smoke cleared it had won a squeaker over Canisius College.

When the final gun went off, and the points were tabulated, the score read: Penn State 2,691, and Canisius 2,681. The difference of ten points meant one missed shot by the Griffins.

Two freshmen marksman led the way for the Lions, as Glenn Dubis took individual team scoring honors with 561 points, and teammate Jack Rusenko hit the targets for 553. Fred Ebert added 546 points for the Lions.

Griffin sharpshooter Becky Sherman took individual match scoring honors with 567 points.

Canisius (1-2) came into the competition with only three defeats in the last two years, and as New York's Collegiate Rifle League champions.

Penn State upped its record to 4-2 and will host West Valley next Saturday afternoon in White Building.

Fencers find Jersey more lovable

Although Philadelphians sometimes call their town "The City of Brotherly Love," the men's fencing team, after first-hand experience, would probably prefer to bestow that title on Wayne, N.J.

The Lions found themselves fencing in both those towns this weekend, bouncing back from a 17-10 loss at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia on Saturday with a Sunday afternoon whipping of William Paterson, 20-7, in friendly Wayne.

A poor start killed any Lion hopes of upsetting the powerful Quakers (3-0) and sizzling performances by the sabre team (9-0) and the foil squad (7-2) fueled the rout Sunday.

Bowlers enjoy winning weekend

The Penn State bowlers had more trouble with the icy roads than they did with their opposition this weekend.

The men's team beat Penn State's Capitol Campus 16-10 on Saturday. Maryland's bowlers fell to the keen rolling of the Lion keglers on Sunday with the Lion men winning 18½-7½ and the Lady Lions on top 16-10.

The men's victory on Saturday was paced by Ted Long's 188 average and 753 series. The Lions won all four games from their Harrisburg counterparts while averaging 178 as a team. Long rolled the high game of 225.

Long continued with his hot bowling against Maryland, posting a team high 827 series and 245 high game.

Terry Wenz was undefeated in three games and averaged 206 for the Lions in their defeat of the Terrapins.

Long and Rich Shank had the best individual marks for the keglers. Both were 6-2 for the weekend. Long averaged 188 and 206 against Capitol Campus and Maryland and Shank posted averages of 180 and 198.

Tina Clark and Valerie Bright were the individual leaders for the women. Clark had an 833 series against Maryland and led the team with a 208 average and a 320 high game. Bright was 4-0 and averaged 177 for the day.

The Lions host the American College Union-Region 1 tournament this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Rec Hall Lanes.

Strategy good for Fales, bad for Mills

Two Lady Lion runners participated in the Millrose Games in New York City on Friday and came out of it with two very different experiences.

Freshman Penny Fales ran the half-mile, finishing fourth with a time of 2:12.7. Fales had been plagued by numerous mistakes two weeks ago at the CYO Invitational, her first race of the year. This time she was able to avoid those mistakes and concentrate on improving her racing strategy.

On the other hand, sophomore Kathy Mills made many of those same mistakes as she ran the mile for the first time this year. However, she did still qualify for the AAU Nationals in February by running the race in 4:30.1 for a seventh-place finish.

"Kathy made all the mistakes Penny made at the CYO meet," coach Chris Brooks said. "She ran along side Francie Lareau (Pacific Coast AAU Club) for the first four laps. She should have either gotten ahead of her or behind her. Running wide was only a waste of time and energy."

Brooks did not expect Mills to keep pace with either Lareau or Connecticut's Jan Merrill, the winner of the race.

"She just doesn't have the basic speed to match them in the mile," Brooks said. "But the race was good for her. She learned a lot of lessons that she needed to learn. Otherwise she would have been hurt when she tried to qualify for the two-mile race at Nationals.

Brooks saw a lot of improvement in Fales' running.

"Penny ran a much smarter race," the coach said. "She made a couple of minor mistakes, but she learned a lot as far as racing tactics are concerned. The next time she can work more on improving her time."

The rest of the team was to have traveled to Ohio State on Saturday for an AAU qualifying meet, but that meet was cancelled.

ROOM... AND BOARDS

In 1863, Penn State's first students were greeted by comfortable rooms in Old Main. However, their meals, they were told, would be "out back"...in the carpenters' sheds. Alas, in 1863 there was no alternative, as The Tavern's doors were not to open for another 85 years.
