

Senate move may give ERA bill a reprieve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate defeated a so-called "killer" amendment yesterday, virtually assuring that Congress will give states an additional three years and three months to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

Rejected by the surprising margin of 54-44 was an amendment by Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who wanted to give states which already have ratified the ERA an opportunity to reverse themselves.

This cleared the way for the Senate to give final congressional approval Friday to a House-passed bill extending the ratification deadline to June 30, 1982 — a big legislative victory for the women's rights movement and for President Carter.

Otherwise, ERA would have been doomed. Only 35 of the constitutionally mandated 38 states have accepted it to date, and there was no chance for an additional three to ratify before the initial seven-year period expires next March.

The amendment, in its entirety, says: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be abridged or denied by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Both sides considered the Garn amendment crucial, and both Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale lobbied hard against it.

Special presidential assistant Sarah Weddington said Carter made telephone calls to five senators and Mondale to three others.

Garn issued a statement later saying he had gone into the vote with "firm commitments" from 53 senators and "the only flaw in our strategy, it seems, was the inability to predict that six senators would renege on their commitments." He mentioned no names.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's floor manager, said, "If the Senate had not voted as it did today, not only would the ERA extension have been gutted to the point of death, but it would have effectively killed any chance for final ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment by the necessary 38 states."

Bayh said if the Garn amendment had passed, he probably would have withdrawn the measure as being "totally unacceptable" to the House.

Garn, summing up his argument prior to the vote, denounced those who called his proposal "a killer amendment."

He said it was a "truly devastating admission by proponents of ERA ... They're saying 'We can't trust the legislatures of the 38 states that have already ratified it.'"

ARHS members vague on OTIS reimbursement

Members of the Association of Residence Hall Students and the Organization for Town Independent Students still are uncertain whether ARHS was ever reimbursed for OTIS's share of the costs for their summer Arts Festival Party which cost $608.12.

Mike Leeper, vice president of OTIS, said he paid ARHS $212.50 in cash out of his own money. An ARHS member denied that ARHS ever received any money from Leeper.

Steve Matt, vice president of ARHS, said the facts concerning this incident should be uncovered within a week. ARHS members plan to examine their books to find out what really went on. Presently they have no information to divulge, he said.

Glenn Meyer, president of OTIS, said the summer Arts Festival party has become a yearly tradition. This year it was held in Leeper's apartment.
