

Golden Cab begins sales talks

State College is looking into the possibility of adding taxi service to its transportation fleet, Municipal Manager Carl B. Fairbanks said. Fairbanks said preliminary negotiations are underway with the owner of Golden Cab Co., who made an offer to sell through attorney John R. Miller Jr. Miller said no limit has been set on how much time State College has to reply.

Governments has appointed a subcommittee to investigate the feasibility of the purchase, Fairbanks said. The subcommittee includes Fairbanks, COG Transportation Committee Chairman Ernest L. Bergman, COG Secretary Thomas S. Kurtz and Centre Area Transportation Authority Chairman Thomas J. Collins Jr.

"We are questioning the philosophy of it right now," Fairbanks said. "If we decide it is philosophically right, we'll move on to the next level." The subcommittee is discussing how large a system is needed, what the degree of county involvement will be, and the financial implications involved, Fairbanks said.

State College wants tax money

By JAN CORWIN Daily Collegian Staff Writer Anyone who worked in State College during 1978 must file a tax return with the municipality, according to Michael S. Groff, municipal tax administrator.

Groff said students are not exempt from filing a return, but can do so in a number of ways.

If the student considers himself a resident of State College, he must file a return with the municipality, and his total income for the year will be taxed at 1 percent. Groff said that residents of Ferguson Township, which includes Park Forest Apartments, are taxed at 1.2 percent.

Students may also pay the tax at their area of residence, Groff said. By showing the municipality a copy of the return, the student will be exempt from paying the State College tax, or will receive a refund if taxes were withheld. If a student received a return from State College and plans to file at home, he must notify the tax office, Groff said.

A student who does not file a return at home can file as a non-resident of the municipality, Groff said. Proof of non-residence, such as a driver's license, is needed to "show an active tie" to the student's place of residence, he said. Non-residents are taxed at one-half of 1 percent and if 1 percent of the student's income was withheld, he can file for a refund of the remaining .5 percent.

Groff said most student employees have taxes withheld from their income. The amount withheld varies with employers, but usually ranges from 0 percent to 1 percent, he said. A W-2 form indicating how much local tax has been withheld must be submitted with the tax return, and Groff said employees should have received the W-2 forms from their employers by the end of January.

Scholarships and fellowships received by students are considered non-taxable income, Groff said, but graduate student stipends are taxable and cannot be deducted.

About 12,000 tax returns were mailed to workers in State College, Groff said, and are due April 15. Anyone who did not receive a return by mail can pick one up at the municipal tax office at 128 S. Fraser St. An instruction brochure is included and should answer most questions, Groff said, but anyone with further questions is encouraged to contact the office at 237-1411.

Computer targeted at vets' needs

The Veteran's Administration will use a computer data system to speed payments for veterans in college.

An automated catalog system, TARGET, is designed to file complete information on veterans for "instantaneous recall" according to Thomas M. Lastowka, Assistant to the Director at the Veteran's Administration Center in Philadelphia regional office for University Park.

"It is a quantum leap in technology," he said.

The old system was designed for the amount of work done in the 1950s, Lastowka said, and was not capable of handling the work load after the Vietnam War.

A pilot study was done in Philadelphia, he said, and went exceedingly well.

The program will speed the process of determining how much and what kind of compensation the veteran will receive, according to a VA spokesman in Washington D.C.

Number of course hours, types of courses taken, whether by correspondence or for a degree, dependencies and other factors determine how much money will be awarded, he said.

Although the TARGET system is a great benefit, monthly veterans supplements are not nearly enough, according to University Coordinator of Veterans Affairs Jack Swords. For a veteran of more than 18 months enlisted during the Vietnam War, the monthly allotment is $311, $370 if he is married and $26 for each dependent child.

Swords said it is tough to live on what is allotted. "Financially, they (the veterans) are in a bind," and should be given more money.

"I think it would be fair to get the same allocation as in World War II," Swords said.
