Underworld boss gives up after mistaken release

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Carmine Galante, the reputed New York underworld boss released from prison last week in an apparent misunderstanding, surrendered to authorities yesterday.

Galante appeared in U.S. District Court and was jailed pending his transfer today to the Metropolitan Correctional Center in New York City, U.S. Attorney Richard Blumenthal said.

New York federal prosecutor Peter Sudler had urged Galante's lawyer to surrender his 70-year-old client to federal authorities in Manhattan to await a new parole hearing.

Blumenthal said Judge T. F. Gilroy Daly refused to set bail for Galante, but ordered a new parole revocation hearing be held for him before March 22.

Galante's 1974 parole on a narcotics conviction was revoked in October 1977 when he was found to have associated with known criminals.
