

This harmonica player proves the scheduled groups weren't the only musicians on the HUB lawn for Movin' On.

Movin' On students mellow with the music

By TIM KONSKI

Rainy days may have washed away this year's Gentle Thursday, but this weekend the weather cooperated with Movin' On as hundreds of University students broke from classes, studying and exams.

With frisbees flying and bands playing, many students agreed it was a weekend of relaxation and fun they would always remember. Steve Osborn, Association of Residence Hall Students president, said, "This is a good opportunity for people to have a good time over the weekend.

"ARHS, because of its size, can house the facilities and provide the manpower to hold something like this. In a sense, no one else is gonna do it if we don't," he said.

Osborn said the event was also intended to raise money for the Association for Barrier-Free Living, Environment and Design. Contributions of $340 were received as of Saturday and, Osborn said, he expected the event to raise about $650 by its conclusion.

"We're able to provide money for charity because people are easy to give a handful of change. I guess it's the atmosphere," he said.

Jeff Glazier, Movin' On coordinator, said ARHS usually contracts local bands because the exposure helps them get future bookings.

He said, "I booked bands for three years now and the closer you get to the event the more new bands you find. We try to find new and local bands because they'll probably be around next year and because the publicity helps them."

Osborn said, "This exposure is good for the bands. We can afford to book a couple big bands, but most bands play for very little or nothing because they sometimes get bookings as a result."

Several students at the event agreed Movin' On was a welcome haven from library studying and classroom boredom.

Tina Zarzecki (12th-nutrition) said, "This is a good way to see old friends and party one last time before graduation. I always run into people I haven't seen for a while and that makes it a special day."

An exchange student from Germany, Angelika Ries (graduate-vocational education), said, "The bands were good — especially those that were jazz oriented. We don't have anything like this in Cologne."

Sharon Alexander (7th-health planning and administration) said, "This is like another Gentle Thursday, almost with the groups playing all day. It's one of the nicest things Penn State has to offer in the spring."

Karen Leventhal (7th-advertising) said, "This is a great place for everyone to hang out and relax. I like to listen to the music, have fun with my friends and get my mind off school."
