

Drug agency reports nasal products recall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration yesterday announced the recall of more than 2.7 million bottles of Contac Nasal Mist and Sine-Off Once-A-Day Sinus Spray which it said may be contaminated with bacteria.

The recall is being conducted by a division of the manufacturer, Smith Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia. The products were distributed nationwide.

Involved are 604,224 bottles of the Contac product in half-ounce units, and an estimated 2.14 million of the Sine-Off product, in both one-half and one ounce packages.

The FDA said the products were distributed nationwide and Puerto Rico.

The FDA said an ingredient in the medicine designed to inhibit the formation of bacteria apparently failed, with the result that an organism called pseudomonas cepacia grew. While no injuries have been reported, it said persons with chronic problems who use the products repeatedly could be exposed to a hazard.

The agency also announced the recall of three acne preparations which it said contain a chemical deemed unsafe for use on the skin. The chemical, methoxyethanol, is primarily used as a solvent in varnishes, enamels and woodstains.

The FDA said the chemical could cause nerve and blood disorders if absorbed through the skin with repeated applications. The FDA requested the recall which is continuing. No injuries have been reported.

The products are: — Dermastat Lotion, manufactured by Derma Laboratories Inc., Garland, Texas, and distributed in Michigan, Illinois, New Jersey, Ohio, Missouri, Oklahoma, Florida, Indiana, Washington, Alabama, Texas, Louisiana, Hawaii, California, Canada and the Philippines. About 600 of the 16-ounce bottles and 10 one-gallon bottles are involved.

— AHC No. 3 BP Gel Medication, AHC Benzoyl Peroxide Gel 10 percent plain; AHC Sulfur Resorcinol, topical acne cream in one, three and eight-ounce containers; and Benzoyl Peroxide 20 percent HP with Sulfur 10 percent. More than 23,000 units are involved, distributed nationwide as well as in Mexico and Puerto Rico.
