Psychic Eagles to speak tomorrow

Psychic Gil Eagles will speak tomorrow at 8 p.m., in Eisenhower Auditorium, sponsored by Colloquy, the Intrafraternity Council and the Undergraduate Student Government. Eagles is an ESP practitioner and hypnotist who came to the United States 19 years ago from his native East Africa. For about 15 years, Eagles has been a serious exponent of hypno-therapy for medical and psychiatric applications. Eagles' demonstration should be fun and educational, Colloquy President Ken Botkrecht said.

Joe Markovich, IFC Homecoming chairman, said Eagles' show will be a good activity for Homecoming week.

Eagles has performed many psychic stunts, including driving a motorcycle while blindfolded to the edge of a cliff. Eagles has also pedaled a bicycle blindfolded across the George Washington bridge in New York City.

Eagles discovered his clairvoyant powers at age thirteen while in Africa. He speaks fluent Swahili and was able to practice his psychic ability with the natives.

Eagles, who considers himself to be an "entertaining psychic," has demonstrated his mental powers on four continents.

Eagles' demonstration is open to the public free of charge.

Local woman sees boy in alley Police report indecent exposure

A boy exposed himself to a State College woman Tuesday as she was walking east on Beaver Avenue, the State College Police Department said.

Charlene Moretti, 2105 Sparks St., told police the incident occurred near 600 W. Beaver Ave. Moretti said she heard a whistle, turned around and saw the boy expose himself while standing in an alley.

Police said the boy was about 16 or 17 years old, of medium height and build and wearing a blue hooded sweatshirt and jeans.

Wayne Baumgardner, stack supervisor at Pattee, told University police Tuesday two books, a calculator and knapsack belonging to Duci Gruong, 234 S. Allen St., were stolen. The value of the items is unknown, police said.

A two-seat coach valued at $150 was stolen from the lobby of Nittany 35, E.E. Cartwright, assistant housekeeping supervisor, told University police Tuesday.

Two plants were taken from 306 Visual Arts Building, secretary Holly Ping, told University police Tuesday. The plants were valued at $75, police said.

State College police reported glue was placed in the locks of three front doors at Mid-State Bank, 234 E. College Ave., Tuesday night. An estimate of the damage is unknown, police said.

Clair Knecht, housing supervisor for Redifer Hall, told University Police Services Tuesday a chair, valued at $96, was taken from the Stephens Hall lounge.

USG surveys to provide opinion

By LORRAINE CAPRA
Daily Collegian Staff Writer

The biggest problem the Undergraduate Student Government is discovering what students think about certain issues, USG President Hal Shaffer said recently.

So "to find out what the student body thinks, we have hired a statistical researcher to conduct ongoing surveys," he said.

The researcher will work independently of USG to prevent biased surveys, he said.

"We will give her (the researcher) the information and let her take it from there," USG Vice President Vicki Sandoe said.

"The surveys give us that little extra advantage of facts that other active students don't have," Shaffer said.

Before the surveys the only way USG could determine student opinions was to study the computer print-out sheets they get from Shields Building at the beginning of the term, he said.

Shaffer said student advisory boards can implement students' opinions.

"We have to set up mechanisms to get a lot more students into advisory boards," he said.

For the past year and a half, USG has been forming an advisory board for the campus book store, Sandoe said.

"We've been having bi-weekly meetings and have great cooperation on the students' part," she said. "By the end of the term we'll be set up and rolling to start the board."

She said problems can arise on advisory boards because seniors graduate and only one or two members are left on the board.

"With the book store we picked so many freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors so we wouldn't have everyone graduating every year," Sandoe said.

USG is also trying to get USG Senate members on the Retenour Health Center advisory board, Shaffer said.

"I have talked to Dr. Richard Grubb, the new senior vice president for administration, who is responsible for Retenour, and he wants to have student input into Retenour," Shaffer said.

The Senate became interested in the board when members asked to see information from Retenour's complaint box, Sandoe said. They were told only advisory board members could see the complaints because they were confidential and should not be given to people ignorant of Retenour's practices, she said.

"But a lot of the senators who would be on the board are pre-med majors and know what's going on," she said.

Sandoe also said she has reorganized the women's services department of USG. The department didn't do anything last year because it had no director, she said.

"It's totally revitalized and I'm pleased with the turnout of people who said they would work on it," she said.

The department will feature women speakers, provide information on the escort service and rape prevention, form a link to the State College chapter of the National Organization of Women and distribute a newsletter, she said.

USG also plans to offer a student trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., over spring break and is waiting for University approval, Shaffer said.

"It will be for eight days and seven nights and includes hotels, cars and food," he said.

USG can charter a plane for 4,500 people, he said.

"It will cost $269 per person, but we also might be sending bus loads, which would be a little cheaper," he said.

"Blomberg and La Salle have been doing it and they've had a lot of success," Sandoe said.

USG investigating pollution, asbestos

By LORRAINE CAPRA
Daily Collegian Staff Writer

An Undergraduate Student Government environmental committee will release a report on two carcinogenic chemicals in Spring Creek, USG Vice President Vicki Sandoe said.

Although he could not say when the committee will release the report, Shaffer said he obtained the information about the chemicals, Kepone and Mirex, from the Department of Environmental Resources in Harrisburg.

The chemicals will not decompose for a thousand years, he said.

"We want to give students a lot of environmental information," USG Vice President Vicki Sandoe said. "Our committee will be working on various environmental problems throughout the year."

Another environmental issue the committee is working on is the asbestos ceiling problem in Hamilton and Thompson Halls. "If the University fixed the problem in White Building, I see no reason why they can't fix it in West Halls — especially since people are living there," Shaffer said.

USG also plans to talk to Robert J. Scannell, dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, about opening the Rec Hall weight room, Shaffer said.

He said Scannell gets the ad hoc committee's report, he will start implementing their proposals," she said.
