

Officials to discuss Loop fares

By LORRAINE CAPRA
Daily Collegian Staff Writer

Undergraduate Student Government Senate members will meet with Campus Loop officials to discuss this summer's 15-cent Loop fare increase.

The Campus Loop ad hoc committee will suggest to Ralph Zilly, vice president for business and Richard Crowley, assistant vice president for business, to make the fare free at night, senate President Mark Berg said.

"Zilly and Crowley have to check with their lawyers because they might have to go back to the PUC to change the fare," Berg said. "They don't like to ask the PUC to reverse the fee they already set up."

The Loop would not lose money by making the fare free at night because the revenues at night are low, he said.

Centre Halls senator Allison David said she wants to suggest that no fare be charged after 6 or 7 p.m. when it gets dark.

Zilly and Crowley, however, want the free fare to start later in the evening so that they do not lose money, David said.

"If they lower the fare the whole night, the administration would look on the Loop favorably because they are taking an obvious step to curtail the rape problem," she said. "What's worth more — a life or money?"

The ad hoc committee will also suggest reducing the price of Loop term passes. The price increased from $10 to $25 this year when the per-trip fare increased from 10 cents to 15 cents.

Berg said he thinks Zilly and Crowley will agree to that suggestion.

"They pretty much agree that $25 is a ridiculous price," he said.

By lowering the term-pass price, the Loop could gain money because most people do not have passes now, he said.

Loop officials will not judge this term's ridership statistics until the end of Spring Term when they can account for all weather conditions, Berg said.

"They don't see a need for lowering the fare now because they fully expect to get a capacity ridership in the winter when it snows," he said.

Last month the ad hoc committee surveyed students on ridership. More than half the students who answered the survey said they had ridden the Loop less frequently this term.

"But (Zilly and Crowley) are convinced that we can't know for sure how students think with our surveys, and they very well could be right," Berg said.

David said that in their concern for money, Loop officials have forgotten that the Loop is a student service.

"They forget about the poor student at East Halls who has to walk to Willard Building," she said.

As long as students continue to ride the Loop, Zilly and Crowley do not think they are hurting the students financially, Berg said.

Berg also said that another reason Loop officials do not want to lower the fare is because fare money will soon be used to replace the buses.

"We're going to keep pushing, but we're faced with the what's best for the students," he said. "If deficits keep getting higher, we will probably lose the Loop altogether."

"If getting the fare back to 15 cents means that we will lose the Loop in three years instead of in 10 years, then maybe lowering the fare isn't the best thing in the long run," he said.

Local United Way supports many agencies

By KIM MARSHHAUSEN
Daily Collegian Staff Writer

"Thanks to you, it works for all of us. The United Way."

Many of you have probably heard this slogan. But what does it mean? What exactly is the United Way?

The United Way is an organization comprised mostly of volunteers who raise money in the community for a broad range of agencies and human services. The group's local chapter, the Centre County United Way, supports 27 area agencies from the funds it raises.

According to Robert J. Scannell, chairman of the Centre County United Way 1979 fund-raising campaign, the University is the largest single employer in the area and has the biggest list of potential donors. It is therefore a critical area that makes or breaks the drive, he said.

The University became involved with the United Way approximately 10 years ago when the Board of Trustees decided that the University could cooperate with one state-wide charity drive per year, Scannell said.

The University itself does not contribute as an institution, but provides a mailing service through which literature can be sent to University employees. The employees receive information concerning the United Way and a donation card. The card can be returned with or without a specified contribution.

The national United Way operates more as a supportive structure, Scannell said, providing assistance and advice for its many chapters throughout the nation. Basically, the organization is divided into counties, with some areas having statewide drives, and others being dominated by a particular city. The specific dates of the fund-raising drives vary slightly across the country.

The Centre County United Way's fund-raising drive began in mid-September and will last until Thanksgiving, Scannell said. However, he said the ending date is flexible, depending on whether or not the group's goal is reached. The county's goal for 1979, which has yet to be reached, is $350,000.

Any service agency is entitled to come before the group's allocations committee, which then determines what organizations will be helped. The yearly goal is determined by the total amount of need of the combined agencies, Scannell said. Each United Way chapter is then responsible for the money it collects and presenting the money to the local agencies it represents.

Locally, the Centre County United Way represents various agencies, from a rape/abuse crisis center to a nursing home auxiliary. Contained in the 27 organizations that the chapter helps is something for everyone, including, students.

However, a question that often arises, Scannell said, is whether a student's charitable obligation is to State College or to their home towns, which is why students are solicited, although anyone may contribute.

Scannell also said that some of the agencies that need help the most, but do not receive a lot of attention, are organizations that help the aged and the mentally retarded.

"A lot of those agencies, without something like the United Way, wouldn't survive," Scannell said.

But, "Thanks to you, it works. For all of us."

The Daily Collegian Thursday, Nov. 8, 1979

Thursday Night Special

Bar-B-Q Spare Ribs

Topped with our special tasty sauce & served with house salad, vegetable du jour & potato

3.75

Beautifully served from 5-10 p.m.
210 W. College

A Second Chance to DO IT

See classified page for details.

VOLUNTEER

Le Bistro

Highball Night every Thursday open 4:30 pm til closing Experience it! 210 W. College "The Friendly Cafe"

Whatever you hear about, Midnight Cowboy is true!

winner of 3 Academy Awards directed by John Schlesinger starring Dustin Hoffman and Faye Dunaway

7pm & 9pm 112 Cents

FRIDAY & MONDAY NOV 9 and 11 11:00-11:00

Attention!! Classes start in February To prepare for Spring MCAT, LSAT, DAT, GRE, SAT

Winter LSAT and GMAT classes start Dec. 9th

For info contact: Eleanor Coburn 444 East College Ave 238-1423

Stanley H. Kaplan Educational Center

TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Veteran's Day SALES

West Bend's Hot Pot Heat and Server

12.97

Regular $16.95

Convenient little energy saver for your dorm. Heats water, soup and canned food easily and quickly. Prepares 2 to 6 hot dogs in only 5 minutes. Hot Dog rack is included.

State College-First Floor

Danks DEPARTMENT STORES

Ladies soft, and warm Velour Tops

25% off

Save on popular styles for winter... V-necks and turtle-necks. Choose from a large variety of colors in sizes S-M-L.

State College-Third Floor Nittany Mall Bellefonte

Save 1/3 on a great selection of Men's Knit Tops

9.99

Regular $15

Easy care and comfortable 100% acrylic tops in solid colors and stripes. Choose from an assortment of collar styles.

State College-Second Floor Nittany Mall

Save $5.00 on Men's Wool-Blend Sportshirts

14.99

Regular $20

Warm, wonderful plaids of 85% wool and 15% nylon. Easy to care for, just machine wash and dry.

State College-Second Floor Nittany Mall

Save $13 on Juniors Wool-Blend Pants by Levi.

19.99

Regular $33

Big savings on great fitting styles by this famous maker, Levi! Durable, easy care pants with the warmth of wool.

State College-Second Floor Nittany Mall Bellefonte

Use your Danks Charge, MasterCharge, or Visa... and remember, we Wrap all your Gifts... FREE!

Downtown State College Nittany Mall Bellefonte

State College: Monday, Friday 10:00am to 9:00pm, Saturday 10:00am to 5:00pm, other days to 5:30pm; Nittany Mall: 10:00am to 9:00pm; Bellefonte: Tuesday, Friday 10:00am to 9:00pm, Wednesday to 1:00pm, other days to 5:00pm.

Prelaw student receives annual scholarship award

Paul D. Shitko (10th-prelaw) has been awarded the Jess McMannes Scholarship.

The $300 scholarship honors Jess McMannes, the late associate director of student aid at the University. The scholarship is awarded annually to outstanding students with superior academic records.

Mare Techner, (10th-Latin American studies and journalism) received the 14th annual John Henry Frizzell Award of $350.

The award is presented by the Pennsylvania Lambda Educational Foundation of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, and honors Frizzell, a former University chaplain and head of the department of speech at Penn State.

Techner was selected by a committee of the Foundation and of the College of the Liberal Arts on the basis of his scholarship, activities and need.

namesake

Dr. Harry Prystowsky has been named to a newly-created seat on University President John W. Oswald's Administrative Policy Council.

Prystowsky is provost of the University's Milton S. Hershberg Medical Center and dean of its College of Medicine, positions he has held since 1973. Previously, he was professor and chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Florida College of Medicine.

Nelson C. Simonson, (13th-German and business administration), has been awarded the Rotary Foundation Scholarship for 1980-81.

The award, presented by the Rotary District of Eastern Pennsylvania, will allow Simonson to attend the Regensburg University in West Germany, where he will be a graduate student in political science and international relations.

The scholarship is designed to promote international understanding and covers the cost of tuition, travel, and room and board.

Paul Axt, professor of mathematics, has been named director of the University Scholars Program, according to Robert E. Dunham, vice president for Undergraduate Studies.

The program is designed to provide special opportunities for superior students. Axt will consult with colleges and campuses, and work with Dunham to define the program and develop plans for its implementation.

Axt served as head of the mathematics department from 1971-75. He has been at the University since 1963.

Antonio C. Lasaga, assistant professor of geochemistry, will receive the 1979 F.W. Clarke Medal of the Geochemical Society at the society's annual meeting in San Diego this month.

The award recognizes a scientist for an outstanding paper in geochemistry or cosmo-chemistry, published within five years of the completion of his formal studies.

Lasaga was selected for a chapter in the book, "Energetics of Geological Processes," published in 1977. His co-authors were H.D. Holland, a faculty member at Harvard University, and S.M. Richardson, then a Harvard graduate student.

—compiled by Jan Corwin

CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE

PENN STATE BASKETBALL

Next Saturday... After Temple Football Game!

Nov. 17 - Athletics in Action 8:10 pm Rec Hall

Penn State Students admitted with I.D. Card

CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE CLIP AND SAVE

CLUB

Simply the lightest, purest, finest cigarette papers money can buy.

Sole Importers: Higley Imports Inc., 155 Ave. of the Americas, New York, NY 10013

FOUR STAR EDITION EXTRA-EXTRA

From the Press Box

Hear "Whetstone Run" Tonight

The grass is always bluer every Friday night at THE PRESS BOX. From 9:30-12:30 this evening WHETSTONE RUN will entertain you at State College's newest Restaurant and Pub.

PRESS BOX

The PRESS BOX is located on 129 S. Pugh Street in downtown State College, across from the parking garage.

12.086%

Guaranteed 26-Week Maturity

For example, if you buy a CCB 6-Month Savings Certificate tomorrow, we will pay you this annual rate, subject to change at renewal.

Right now, nobody but nobody, has a money market certificate that pays you more.

Not a savings bank, not a savings and loan, not another commercial bank, not anybody. Period.

$10,000 minimum deposit. Insured up to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

central counties bank

Member FDIC

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal and compounding of interest is prohibited during the term of this time deposit category.

Smart people read Collegian ads. Right?