Daily Collegian Sports Writer Most collegiate athletic teams would be ecstatic if they finished a season with four straight wins to compile a 17-8 season record. But to the softball team, it was nothing more than just another season. Especially after the Lady Lions were unable to attain the goal they had set at the beginning of the year receiving an invitation for Eastern regionals. The Lady Lions never got the chance at the playoffs after placing sixth in their division.

"I guess that overall I am disappointed with the regular season," co-captain Jan Carlson said. "The overall record is pretty good, but it was disappointing "The team played some tough competition at the beginning of the year (West Chester and Eastern

Penn State coach Pat McTarsney, who resigned yesterday because of the amount of time coaching and teaching took up, also was slightly disappointed with

"I have mixed emotions about this season," Mc-Tarsney said. "I am very pleased with the team in terms of its athletic ability and attitude and their work on the game. I was also especially pleased with the

"But the team was not consistent enough on the field. We lost some games that we should not have and as a result we didn't get into the postseason playoffs." McTarsney said at the beginning of the year that the team had more talent than any previous Penn State softball team in the combination of hitters, pitchers > unable to play consistently. "It's very hard to find an exact reason for the inonsistency," McTarsney said. "I think that the biggest problem this season in the fielding was the lack of concentration which resulted because of some mental errors. The team made errors where they should not have and dropped balls that they should not and fielders. But during the season, the team was

"Some instances the players looked up from the ball before they had full possession which resulted in errors. Other times the errors were caused by imcomplete follow throughs. Some of the errors could be lamed on inexperience."

But the season didn't travel any farther downhill after the Lady Lions got past their first three losses. "I think the high point of the season was when we beat Temple," shortstop Deb Malone said, "Another time was when we played good close games against Rutgers and just barely lost. But winning the final games was a nice way to finish off the season.' McTarsney said the team played its best games of

0. 4-3, and the third-game victory over Ohio State, 5-1. The freshmen crop of center fielder Mary Ann Cremo, pitcher Brenda Frey, right fielder Tammy Viehdorfer and second baseman Brenda Stauffer played a big part in the season while showing a lot of poise and consistency the entire season.

'I thought we had an excellent group of freshmen his season," McTarsney said. "Brenda hit weh all season and led the team in home runs. Mary Ann and Tammy were just beginning to hit well at the beginning of the season, but were very steady on defense. Brenda got stronger as the season went on. They are going to be strong next year.

"There were several games in which the team was down by several runs. But the team never had the time to feel like they were defeated. Against Edinboro, the team was down by three runs and still was able to come

Pitcher Rayne Yori said the team was able to come back in difficult situations because the players helped out whenever another player got in a bind. The softball team already is looking forward to next year. And they are already making plans on 'not nissing Eastern regionals at the end of next season. 'I think that we are going to do very well next year, Stauffer said. "Everyone who I have talked to is anxious for next year. We are going to make it at least to regionals if not win the regional championship." 🎏
