The Penn State Diner, "a State College tradition," closed Friday evening — permanently. The diner's owner, William D. Henning, has filed for bankruptcy with the Federal Bankruptcy Court in Harrisburg. For University students and area residents, that late-night grilled sticky stop-over is now a delicacy of the past.

Fire causes evacuation of apartments

Saturday night to a 20-unit apartment house at 126 E. Nittany Ave. and forced the evacuation of all its residents, an Alpha Fire Company spokesman said. Public Information OfficerDavidHamilton, said the cause of the fire is under investigation.

The fire started in the basement and created heavy smoke which went through the entire building, Hamilton said. Fire damage was limited to the lownstairs storage area. All residents will be able to return to their apartments, he said. Alpha Fire Company was one of the companies at the fire. Hamilton said they stayed there for two and one-half hours, using 56 men and seven pieces of the building, Hamilton said. "The life threat was pretty critical compared to most structure fires, he said." However, there were no reports of residents or fire fighters sustaining
