

Undefeated stickgals shear Rams

Both the goals the field hockey team scored in its 2-0 win over West Chester yesterday at Lady Lion Field brought the entire Lady Lion squad onto the field, leaping in the air, hugging and jumping on the scores.

And at one point in the game, Penn State coach Gillian Rattray was shouting instructions and encouragement to the team, and when she finished, the last thing she said was, "Oh, I'm excited."

She had every reason to be. It was that kind of a game. The Lady Lions had attached a lot of importance to this game — their last of the regular season — and things couldn't have turned out better.

Winning the last game of the season (15-8) has been since West Chester is in the Lady Lions' region and Penn State has already beaten every other contending team, assurance of the No. 1 seed at this week's Eastern Association for Inter-collegiate Athletics for Women Middle Atlantic tournament.

The shoutout was what left everyone particularly happy. It was the 12th in 17 games this season for Penn State and goalie Jeannie Fissinger, and helped establish a school record — least number of goals (four) given up in a season.

But none of it came easily. The Rams, now 2-4 on the year, did everything but play like you'd expect a 2-team to play. They dominated most of the first half, coming right off the opening bully and moving into the Penn State end.

One by one, the Rams played aggressively, giving Fissinger her most challenging game of the season. The Rams took eight shots on goal in the period, and Fissinger saved five.

Ditto for the second half. The Rams backed off, but still came at Fissinger with nine more shots. And she made eight more saves.

"The name of the game is Fissinger," West Chester coach Sue Lubking said, shaking her head. "But scoring's been our big problem this year. Most of our games have been one-goal losses."

"We play almost every game like this that," she said. "I can just move in the center pass to Tuccini, who drove it in the cage."

"The hand stop on the first one was perfect," Rattray said. "We had been practicing them before the game, and the first two we did well, but this one, which is unusual, was by Jeannie. We felt good about them."

"On the second one, Sharon was just in the right position, and it was beautiful." Stauffer got another assist on the second goal. In the second half, she made a centering pass to Tuccini, who drove it in the cage.

The Lady Lions scraped for their lives and came away with two beautiful scores, one in each half. The one in the first half came on a sharp penalty corner, when Sharon Timucu put the ball to the wing.

White is still looking for a better match against the Lady Panthers. "We're losing games, not necessarily getting beat. But I think we can correct it."

"I was unhappy with the whole evening," he said. "We're not playing with much confidence. I don't think we're playing to our potential. That's definitely room for improvement."

Rose noted that the Lady Lions easily could have been beaten in three games. Penn State came from behind more than once in stretching their mark to five games.

"We didn't play well and there's no excuse for it," White said. "I don't know what happened. We're both such high caliber volleyball teams and neither of us played it like it was supposed to."

Lady spikers serve up victory to Pitt

You could say the women's volleyball team served the Pittsburgh Lady Panthers their victory night on a silver platter.

The Lady Lions missed 21 serves in five games and lost their sixth match in the season 11-15, 11-16, 14-16 and 14-17.

"We missed 21 serves — that's horrible," Penn State coach Russell Rose said. "You can't miss that many serves and beat even a high school team."

Although Rose said his team's serving difficulties were a major factor in its defeat, he said he was not satisfied with its play in general.

"I was unhappy with the whole evening," he said. "We're not playing with much confidence. I don't think we're playing to our potential. That's definitely room for improvement."

The loss was Penn State's fourth in five games to Pittsburgh this year. Take away those four losses and the Lady Lions would have a 25-2 record, a mark which would easily be the best in the region.

Nonetheless, Penn State still has one of the region's best winning percentages. In comparison, Pittsburgh, the defending regional champion, has a 34-10 mark (.722), compared to Penn State's 25-3 mark (.806).

"I still think we can win the regional championships," Rose said. "I feel we have it all taken."

"We're just not hitting the simple things — we're not going back to the basics. We're losing games, not necessarily getting beat. But I think we can correct it."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Matt Bahr Bieler caught a 4-yard touchdown pass from Harry Bradshaw as Pittsburgh Steelers held on to a 27-20 National Football League victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

It was Philadelphia's fifth straight triumph and gave the Eagles an 8-1 record, the best mark in the league.

Seattle was ahead 21-17 with 3:20 gone in the final quarter when Donnirio's 9-yard touchdown burst.

But the Eagles won 14 yards in 15 plays for their game-winning touchdown.

The final play of the drive was a 15-yard pass from Jaworski to tight end Kropf to the Seattle 5 on a third-and-eight situation.
