

IN EDITION

Eggnapping is no yolk

Sometimes people can carry the motherly image just a bit too far.

Linda Sartorius (12th-French and English) was given a Health Education 46 project to baby sit an egg to demonstrate maternal instincts in females.

Sartorius took her newfound son, Eggbert, home and before she could have him 48 hours, two kidnapers, complete with masks and gloves, came into Sartorius' room, tied her up in the closet, and kidnapped poor Eggbert.

"The kidnapers left a ransom note on my door," Sartorius said. "asking for $10,000 in unmarked pennies."

Illustration by Jill Rogers

To prove their point, the kidnapers sent Sartorius a cooked egg from the dining hall and said that would be her son if the ransom was not paid.

"The hardest part is the emotional drain, knowing that I'm an unfit mother (for Eggy)" the distraught Sartorius sobbed on the phone.

All this time, Sartorius was supposed to be taking care of little Eggbert for a grade in her class. After showing her professor the notes and explaining the situation, Sartorius reportedly has a chance to get an "A" for the project.

If that isn't egg in the kidnapper's faces, I don't know what is.

B-ball boy: 'a Harter warming story'

Even though the men's basketball season has been over for a while, that doesn't mean that coach Dick Harter and crew aren't on the trail of the big prospects who can handle the pressures of playing ball at Penn State.

According to the Associated Press, Jay Fortner may just be in that class. Nature's usual even-handedness somehow bypassed Fortner, but that didn't stop him from going out for Pee Wee basketball.

You see, Fortner has about the most adverse conditions someone his age can encounter. He is the only boy on the team.

"I have no other choice," the sandy-haired 11-year-old said.

There are simply a lot more girls than boys in Jay's school. In grades four, five and six, Jay is the only boy. That means he's outnumbered 10 to one.

Of course, Fortner's coach had nothing but praise for his gutsy approach to the game.

"There's one thing you can say about Jay," said Curt Rostad, who coaches boys' and girls' high school basketball. "He's the best boy on the team."

Fourth-grader Bobbi Fortner, Jay's cousin and the team's center, says simply: "We accept him."

Now if the Lions could only get him to sign a letter of intent . . .

Quote of the Week

"I asked the Lord if I should give away my watch, and He said, 'No, I went through too much trouble to get it for you.'"

Jed Smock preaching outside Willard Building on Tuesday

TLO infiltrates PSU hierarchy

Many people complain that it is impossible to survive here at Penn State. Well, students at Tamarack House decided it was high time to stop complaining and start acting.

Last week, the house formally announced the existence of the Tamarack Liberation Organization, or TLO for short.

According to a press release, the TLO was established in 1977 by a group of Tamarackians who decided they needed a way to "protect themselves from the encroachment of the administration."

After long struggles with the University, the group realized it was easier to control the administration than to fight it.

Native Tamarackians were then used to install a puppet government. Soon Tamarackians were elected to the offices of president of USG and Academic Assembly, West Halls senator, president of West Halls Council.

"We feel society would prosper under TLO control," Dave Hake (12th-history) said. "The student government thinks it runs the University."

The press release also goes on to say that "Nothing happens at Penn State without (our) approval."

And you thought we had only had to worry about the CIA.

Grenade explodes student creamed

Violence at Penn State has gone too far.

The latest victim of a surge of violence — Randy Rohrer, (6th-computer science) was viciously attacked by a "doorbomb" while trying to enter his room last week.

"I opened the door and was showered by shaving cream," Rohrer said.

It seems that a band of terrorists has rigged a shaving cream grenade set to go off when Rohrer entered the room.

But the violence did not stop there.

"When I reached into my lower drawer to get some paper towels to wipe myself off, another can started spraying at me," Rohrer continued.

No organization has claimed responsibility for the bombing, but sources close to Rohrer say the terrorists may be known by the victim.

A hearty Happy Valley goodbye

This time of year, there is a certain group of people that show where the term Happy Valley came about. They are the seniors.

Among the happiest of that group are the seniors who can finally say goodbye to all the joyous times they have had leaving the Collegian office at 3 a.m. only to get up for first period.

From the editorial side, the Collegian is losing reporters Don Kushto, Erin Mahoney, Joe Grace, Sue Klinedienst and Vicki Fong; weatherman Paul Dorian, sportswriters Rich Scarcella, Bob Grove and former sports editor Denise Bachman; photographers Bill Kroen and Carol Zepp; and former editors Doug Bell (managing), Betsy Overly (photo), Della Hoke (graphics) and Jan Corwin (pizza); and copy editors Paddy Patton, Lisa Morano and Diane Kuklar.

From the business department, we are saying goodbye to Mary Basilone, Lee Johnson, and Marc A. Brownstein — the person who designed all the Weekly Collegian advertisements.

Lastly, We would like to say thank you and goodbye to our In Edition predecessor, Andy Linker.

Written and compiled by Dean Longo with Chuck Hall

MAKE IT VANISH

SHIP YOUR EXTRA PACKAGES HOME COLLECT VIA STATE COLLEGE CENTRE CAB AND TRAILWAYS CALL EARLY 234-7133

WE WILL PICK-UP AT YOUR DORM OR APARTMENT BUILDING AND SHIP IT ANYWHERE IN THE U.S. BY TRAILWAYS PACKAGE EXPRESS

Penn State Broadcasting Association's

VIDEO '81

An anthology of television productions from the Department of Speech Communications featuring the work of: Dave Anderson, Dave Barker, Paula Beal, Debbie Bogen, Elaine Brensinger, Barry Carney, Regina Dorsey, Judy Dresher, Dave Garman, Rob Grossman, Dan Huff, Barbara Keyburn, Kim Marschhauser, Dan Martens, Rick Miller, Rich Mitchell, Ken Nurse, J. B. Peterson, John Rosky and Joyce Smith.

Monday, May 18
3rd and 5th periods

309 Sparks

R-038

The best news under the sun.

Great news for every student who plans on returning in the fall.

Now you can subscribe to The Weekly Collegian for the summer, for a mere $4.

You'll read about everything that happens at Penn State while you're on vacation. That only

$4

means you'll be on top of all changes in the university community by the time you come back in the Fall.

Just cut this special summer subscription coupon now and bring it to us no later than May 18. Then we'll bring you the hottest news from Penn State every week.

the Collegian

Bringing people closer to Penn State. Once a weekly.

$4 SUMMER ONLY $4

Please enclose $4 for the summer only. _____ name

Make checks payable to: Collegian Inc. _____ address

Mall to: 126 Carnegie Building University Park, PA 16801 _____ city _____ state _____ zip

Concept by M.A.B.

THE BOYS FROM GEORGIA ARE BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND AT

RECORD REVOLUTION

THE ALLMAN BROTHERS DOUBLE L.P. PACKAGES "EAT A PEACH" AND "FILLMORE EAST" ARE BARGAIN-PRICED AT $6.99. "THE ALLMAN BROTHERS" AND "BROTHERS AND SISTERS" ARE NOW $3.99. OTHER POLYGRAM-DISTRIBUTED POPULAR RELEASES ALSO SPECIALLY PRICED AT $3.99 INCLUDE: ROD STEWART "GASOLINE ALLEY" AND "EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY"; THE MOODY BLUES "IN SEARCH OF THE LOST CHORD", "GO NOW", "ON THE THRESHOLD OF A DREAM" AND "TO OUR CHILDREN'S CHILDREN'S CHILDREN"; "THE CHUCK MANGIONE QUARTET" AND "MANGIONE ALIVE"; GRAHAM PARKER "HOWLING WIND"; ATLANTA RHYTHM SECTION "ROCK'N' ROLL ALTERNATIVE"; 10 CC "GREATEST HITS"; GEORGE BENSON "BLUE BENSON"; DAVIE BOWIE "STARTING POINT"; PAT TRAVERS "PUTTING IT STRAIGHT"; GENESIS "IN THE BEGINNING"; "ROY BUCHANAN"; RICHIE HAVENS "MIXED BAG"; ERIC BURDON AND THE ANIMALS "GREATEST HITS" PLUS MANY MORE. CHECK IT OUT FOR YOURSELF

$3.99

$3.99

$3.99

$3.99

DON'T MISS YOUR CHANCE TO GET THOSE ALBUMS YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED TO ADD TO YOUR COLLECTION, BECAUSE NOW THE PRICE IS RIGHT AT

RECORD REVOLUTION

318 E. COLLEGE AVE., BELOW CAMPUS CASINO, IN DOWNTOWN STATE COLLEGE