Since the beginning of the season, the men's cross country team has been running an uphill race, facing increasingly more difficult competition as the weeks have gone along. Today, the Lions face their steepest incline to date, going up against the likes of Providence, Bucknell, Richmond and Villanova at the 73rd annual IC4A championships in New York.

not appear to have fallen off the side of the mountain.

"We know we have a good team," senior All-American Alan Scharsu said after the second-place showing. "We just have to prove it to everybody else." "We can't sit back and look at the past," junior Jeff Adkins said. "We just want another meet to show what we can do." And now "another meet" has arrived. But the IC4As can't be
