Beaver controversy paralleled

Displacement for interest housing similar to Porter last year

By STELLA TSAI
Daily Collegian Staff Writer
The controversy over the conversion of two floors in Beaver Hall to interest housing is reminiscent of a similar situation last Spring Term in Porter Hall.
The fifth and sixth floors of Porter were converted into the Engineering and Applied Sciences interest house this year, which forced the occupants to seek reassignment elsewhere for Fall Term 1981.
"It still kind of upsets me a lot and I see the same thing unfolding," said Mark Bianchi (5th-electrical engineering), a former Porter resident, in regard to the interest houses that will be located in Beaver starting Fall Term 1982.
Bill Marshall (8th-finance), last year's house president for fifth and sixth floors Beaver next fall. She said she is considering moving Porter residents who were displaced last year back to Porter.
But Riley said, "We aren't too pleased since we got kicked out for no reason. Nobody liked the first move and I doubt if they would like to make another."
In the spring, residents of fifth and sixth floors Porter were told of the possibility of an interest house on their floor at 11 p.m. one night, and by noon the next day they were informed the decision was final, Riley said.
Some floor members found available rooms on the fifth and sixth floors in Shunk Hall on their own, Riley said, because the displaced Porter residents were not offered reassignment together.
Bianchi said, "We had a lottery to determine who could live in the area."
Also, the Porter residents were told of their mandatory relocation late in the year, so apartment hunting was difficult, Marshall said.
"They weren't really considerate toward us," he said.
During a hearing with Peterson concerning the reassignment, Riley said that he and other students presented a plan that outlined several suggestions for future interest housing.

Solidarity petition may be presented to Walesa

By SCOTT G. OTT
Daily Collegian Staff Writer
A petition supporting the Polish workers' movement may be presented to Solidarity leader Lech Walesa if he makes a planned visit to the United States in March, the chairman of the University chapter of College Republicans said.
Suzanne Harbols said although the petition, which is signed by about 5,000 students and area citizens, is a symbolic gesture, it should give hope to the workers.
"The average worker doesn't know how successful the Solidarity movement has been in terms of worldwide support, because the Polish press has been controlled and censored," Harbols said.
Harbols and about 25 other students are winding down a three-month "Poland Let Be Free" campaign which took them from classrooms to banquets in search of signatures.
Ralph Reed, national projects director of the College Republicans National Committee, said efforts made by the Penn State chapter are part of a nationwide campaign. More than 100 chapters of the organization have collected about 200,000 signatures.

The campaign began on Sept. 1 — the one-year anniversary of the signing of the Gdansk Agreement between the Communist government of Poland and Solidarity, Reed said. The agreement allows the formation of workers' unions.
"The movement is something college students can identify with, and it's very important to demonstrate support for the cause," he said.
"The nation would explode in anger if anything was done by the Soviet Union or any other country to stop Solidarity, and the Polish people are living under a 24-hour threat," Reed added.
Reed said members of the Polish Workers Task Force, based in the United States, made contact with workers in Poland, who said they were pleased with the petition effort.
Loyous Mazewski, president of the Polish National Alliance in the United States, has contacted Walesa by telephone, and the Solidarity leader is "aware of the petition and pleased," Reed said.
Although Walesa could not make a scheduled visit to Washington on Nov. 16 because of labor tension in Poland, the College Republican National Committee still conducted 27 candlelight marches around the country, Reed said. The largest gathering involved more than 1,000 students at George Washington University in Washington, D.C.
Because the Penn State chapter of the College Republicans has collected more signatures than any other college chapter, Harbols may be part of a delegation that will present the petitions to Walesa during his scheduled appearance at the Polish National Alliance banquet to be held in Chicago in March, she said.
"Although we haven't been granted it yet, there is a chance that we might also get a White House reception with the President," she said.
Gov. Dick Thornburgh recently presented a proclamation commending the Pennsylvania branches of the Republican College Council's and the College Republican National Committee's efforts in support of the Polish workers.
"I urge all students on campuses throughout Pennsylvania to join with the College Republicans in hoping that the voice of reason and human equality will reach the ears of the persons in authority in all countries where freedoms are repressed," Thornburgh said.

Wrestlers begin road trip, drop decision to Michigan

By LEE DEORIO
Daily Collegian Sports Writer
The beginning of a long road trip is often the most important part of the journey. It is there that momentum and confidence is either gained or lost in front of hostile crowds.
Penn State's wrestling team opened a grueling road trip last night in Ann Arbor, Mich., on the wrong foot with a narrow 19-17 loss to Michigan (1-2).
It was an important meet for the Nittany Lions (1-1) because they will not wrestle in the friendly confines of Rec Hall until Jan. 30, long after even the most persistent New Year's hangovers have disappeared.
The Nittany Lions took a 17-13 lead into the final match between heavyweights Jim Sleeper of Penn State and Michigan's Eric Klasson. All Sleeper had to do was stay within eight points of Klasson and the Nittany Lions would have come out winners in their first dual road meet of the season.
Instead, Sleeper was disqualified for stalling with only 17 seconds left in the match and trailing 7-0.
"Eric (Klasson) took the action to Sleeper throughout the entire match and he definitely made him look bad," Michigan head coach Dale Bahr said.
"I think the referee made a legitimate call in throwing Sleeper out of the match."
Penn State took control of the match early by winning three out of the meet's first four matches.
Michigan's Joe McFarland defeated the Nittany Lion's

Carl DeStefanis 4-1 for his second victory over the Penn State sophomore in less than a week at 118 pounds. McFarland pinned DeStefanis in the semi-finals of the Penn State Invitational last weekend.
However, the Nittany Lions came back with victories by Scott Lynch (128), Billy Marino (134) and Gary Kaschak (142) to grab a 10-3 lead.
Michigan gained a key victory when John Beljan upset Eric Childs 5-4 at 150 pounds. Childs had shut out Beljan 4-0 in the semi-finals of the Penn State Invitational.
The two teams then split the next four matches. Michigan's Nemir Nadir defeated Eric Erugal 19-11 at 155 pounds and the Wolverine's Pat McKay edged Joel Johnson 3-2 at 190 pounds.
Sandwiched between those two Michigan victories were a pair of decisions for the Nittany Lions.
At 167 pounds, John Hanrahan defeated Scott Rechsteiner 4-1 and Bob Harr crushed Kevin Hill 10-2 at 177 pounds.
That left the outcome of the meet in the hands of Klasson and Sleeper with the Wolverines squeaking out the win.
The meet became even more significant when you consider that Clarion, who along with Penn State are members of the Eastern Wrestling League, handed Michigan 23-13 earlier in the season. And before the Nittany Lions return home from this demanding road trip, they will pay a visit to the Golden Eagles' home floor.
Penn State will return to the arena to compete in the Mat Town USA Tournament Saturday and Sunday at Lock Haven.

Erving paces Sixers' win over Nuggets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving scored 27 points and Darryl Dawkins added 19 in three periods as the Philadelphia 76ers blew away the Denver Nuggets 127-109 in a National Basketball Association game last night.
Neither Erving nor Dawkins played the final quarter after the 76ers tallied 46 points, an NBA high for a period, in the third quarter.
Philadelphia boosted its record to 16-3 and stayed on top in the Atlantic Division while handing Denver, 6-11, its seventh straight loss. The Nuggets have never won in Philadelphia, losing all nine games here since entering the league in 1976.
Kiki Vandeweghe was high for Denver with 24 points, followed by Dan Issel, 21, and Alex English, 10. Bobby Jones scored 17 points for the 76ers, who had six players in double figures.
The 76ers hit 15 of 21 field goals to lead after the first quarter 35-30. Issel and English each had 12 to pace Denver.
The Nuggets closed to within one point at 55-54 when Glen Gonzalez scored a layup with 2:22 left in the half. That was the closest the Nuggets ever got.

Flyers put Pens on ice

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ken Linseman and Bobby Clarke scored first-period goals and Bill Barber added two goals in the third period as the Philadelphia Flyers ran their winning streak to five games with a 4-1 NHL victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins last night.
Linseman scored shorthanded at 11:55 of the first period, intercepting a pass by Pittsburgh defenseman Randy Carlyle and backhanding his own rebound past goalie Michel Dion.
Four minutes later, Clarke fouled off a check from Carlyle and sent the puck past Dion at the corner of the net.
Paul Gardner scored for Pittsburgh at 2:08 of the third period, slipping the puck by goalie Pete Peeters for his 15th of the year.
Linseman scored shorthanded as the Flyers successfully killed off 4:05 in penalty time assessed to winger Paul Holmgren. Holmgren was given a major and two game misconducts at 7:57 of the first period after an altercation with Penguins defenseman Paul Baxter.
Holmgren punched Baxter three times while Baxter was stretched out on the ice, then took a swing at referee Andy Van Hellemond after the fight.

Virginia downs Duke; Louisville survives scare

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Freshman Jimmy Miller and sophomore Othell Wilson, with a little help from All-American Ralph Sampson, keyed a late Virginia surge as the fifth-ranked Cavaliers overcame Duke's Blue Devils 92-83 in college basketball last night.
The conquest enabled Virginia to remain unbeaten at 6-0 and dropped Duke to 1-3. It was the Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.
Miller and Wilson combined for 17 straight Cavalier points late in the game as Virginia overcame an eight-point deficit to beat Duke for the fifth straight time.
Sampson, Wilson and Miller teamed up to rally the Cavaliers and spoiled the Blue Devils' upset bid.
Virginia still trailed by six points, 71-65, with 7:13 remaining when the Cavaliers made their move. Sampson, Wilson and Miller teamed up to rally the Cavaliers and spoiled the Blue Devils' upset bid.

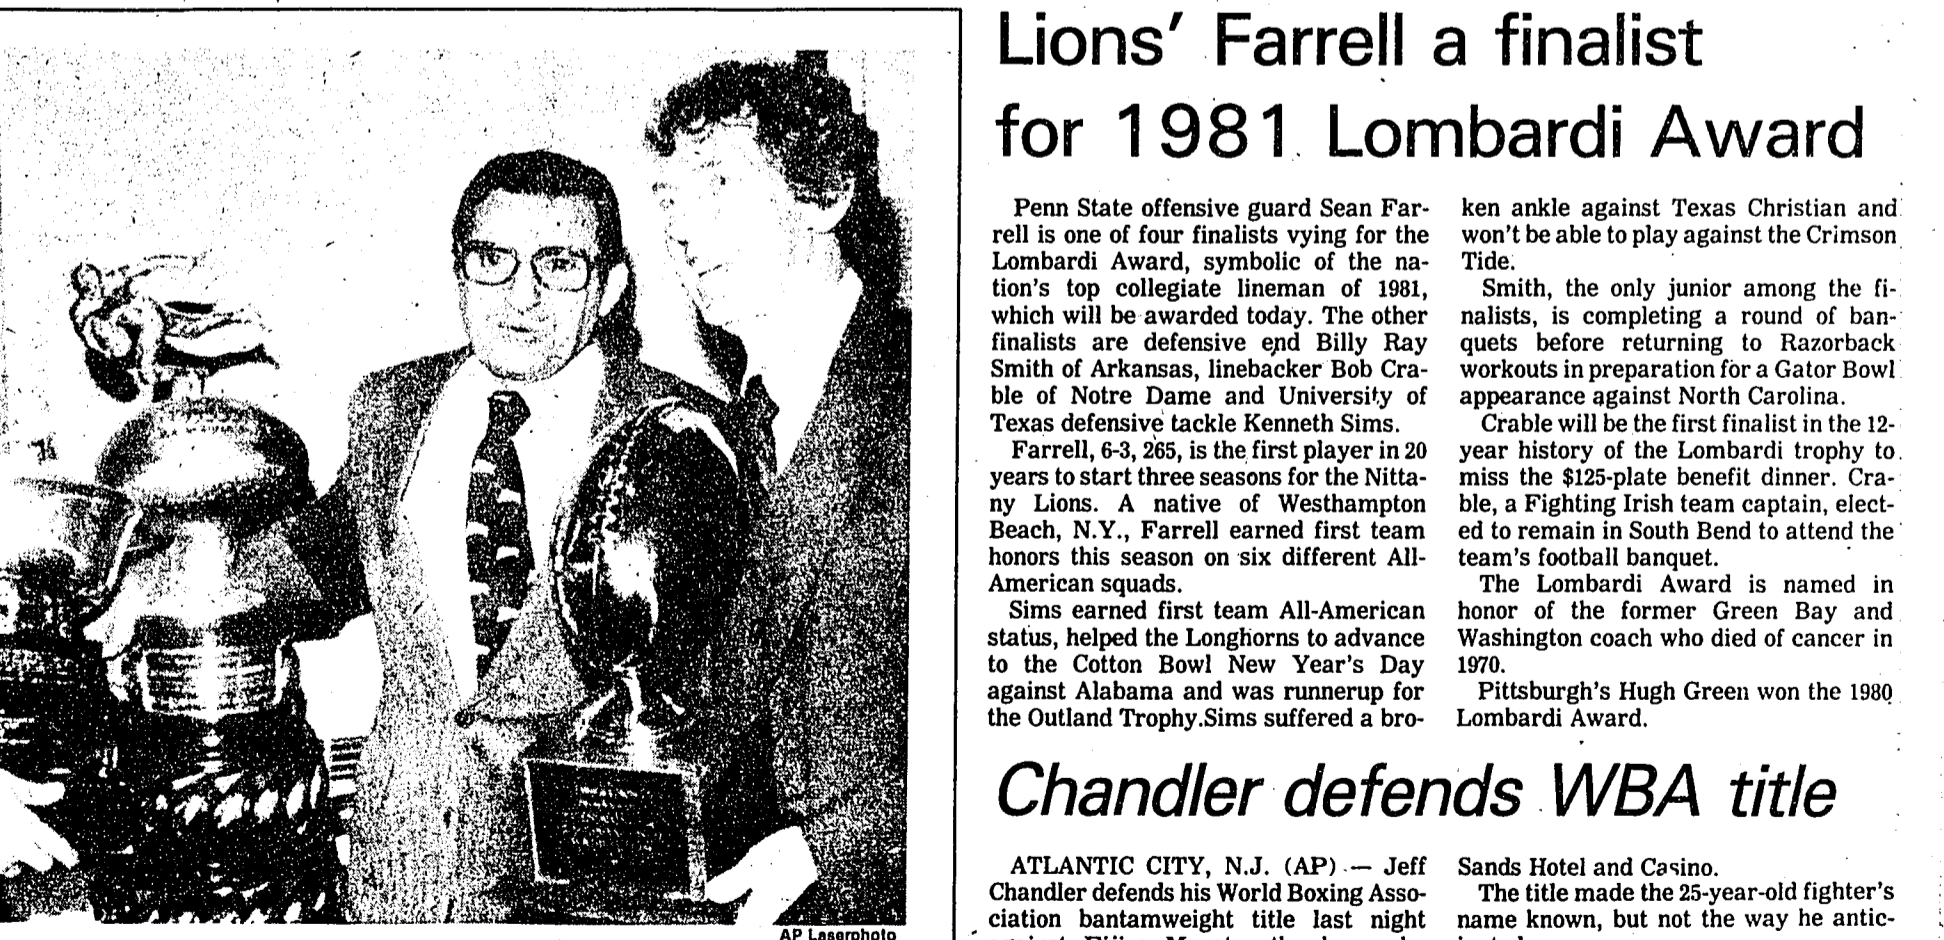

West Lafayette, Ind. (AP) — Wiley Brown rebounded a missed Louisville free-throw attempt and with four seconds remaining, went back up with a short jump shot that lifted the third-ranked Cardinals to a 73-71 college basketball victory over Purdue last night.
The Cardinals, raising their record to 3-0 for the season, rallied from a five-point deficit.
Louisville was led by reserve Poncho Wright, who had 12 of his 16 points in the first half. Jerry Evans added 15 and Smith wound up with 14.
Syracuse 74, St. Bonaventure 67.
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Syracuse University Orangemen, with forward Leo Rautins scoring a career-high 25 points, pulled away in the final minutes to defeat St. Bonaventure 74-67 last night in non-conference basketball.
The victory avenged a 74-71 upset last year and improved Syracuse to 4-1 on this season. St. Bonaventure lost its first game in four starts.
The Bonnies' guard Mark Jones poured in 20 points — 12 of them in the first half.
Eric Sanfillipo scored 17 points for Syracuse and Ron Payton contributed 14. Andy Moore came off the bench to score 13 points for the Bonnies.

Wildcats sink Lion swimmers quite handily

After a "miracle" weekend in which the men's swimming team finished fourth in the Penn State Relays, the Nittany Lions suffered a major setback yesterday by losing to Villanova, 71-42.
According to distance ace Rick Kennedy, the team went into the meet overconfident from the big weekend.
"We definitely had a letdown from last weekend," Kennedy said. "We were unemotional going in there. It was a real slap in the face because this was a meet we could have won."
"They took the first event and we tied up the meet by winning the second event. Everything fell apart after that."
Kennedy, along with diver Mike Cecatiello, were the only two Nittany Lions to take first places in the meet.
Kennedy won the 100-yard freestyle, the event in which he holds the Penn State record, and was closely followed by Nittany Lion Mike Murray.
Cecatiello captured the overall one-meter dive competition. Second in the one-meter dive was Cecatiello's roommate, Dale Dmitrak. The two divers have alternated victories in the diving competition this year.
For captain Andy Cosgarea, the strength of the Wildcats might have been a surprise.
"They were the strongest they have been in the four years I have been here," he said.

Lions' Farrell a finalist for 1981 Lombardi Award

Penn State offensive guard Sean Farrell is one of four finalists vying for the Lombardi Award, symbolic of the nation's top collegiate lineman of 1981, which will be awarded today. The other finalists are defensive end Billy Ray Smith of Arkansas, linebacker Bob Crable of Notre Dame and University of Texas defensive tackle Kenneth Sims.
Farrell, 6-3, 285, is the first player in 20 years to start three seasons for the Nittany Lions. A native of Westhampton Beach, N.Y., Farrell earned first team honors this season on six different All-American squads.
Sims earned first team All-American status, helped the Longhorns to advance to the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day against Alabama and was runner-up for the Outland Trophy. Sims suffered a broken ankle against Texas Christian and won't be able to play against the Crimson Tide.
Smith, the only junior among the finalists, is completing a round of banquets before returning to Razorback workouts in preparation for a Gator Bowl appearance against North Carolina.
Crable will be the first finalist in the 12-year history of the Lombardi trophy to miss the $125-plate benefit dinner. Crable, a Fighting Irish team captain, elected to remain in South Bend to attend the team's football banquet.
The Lombardi Award is named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died of cancer in 1970.
Pittsburgh's Hugh Green won the 1980 Lombardi Award.

The title made the 25-year-old fighter's name known, but not the way he anticipated.
"I'm trying to be a better boxer and keep this title," Chandler said. "Being a champion, there's this place to go and that places to go, endorsing shirts for people and going to banquets. Life has really taken off. There hasn't been too much rest for me. And I wouldn't change it for anything."

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Jeff Chandler defends his World Boxing Association bantamweight title last night against Eijiro Murata. The boxer he fought to a draw eight months ago.
Chandler, 25-0-2, says retaining the title is crucial if he is to fulfill his aspirations that have eluded him since taking the crown from Julian Solis in Miami a year ago.
"We still have more ground to cover," Chandler said between workouts at the
