Spirited fun at Anchor Splash

Greeks swim in sorority philanthropy to benefit the blind

By JENNY CLOUSE Daily Collegian Staff Writer They were all there: the bearded "lady" in a maroon bikini with a garter belt. And the hefty - man clad in a pink negligee sporting a motorcycle helmet upon his head. And the voluptuous man donning falsies beneath his black slinky nightie. Even a mermaid hoisted upon the shoulders of two burly beachgoers. These were just some of the outrageous costumes displayed during the Bathing Beauty parade in the McCov Natatorium vesterday ifternoon as the 13th annual Delta Gamma Forty-three fraternities and sororities took part in the event, the proceeds of which will benefit the Delta Gamma sorority national philanthropy, Sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind, said Joy Manzinger, chairwoman of the Anchor Splash. Some of the proceeds will go toward a fund established by the Delta Gamma chapter at the

"We're trying to develop a scholarship fund, which we call the Golden Anchor Award, which will enable a blind student to attend Penn State," The teams were judged in four swimming events: a medley relay, a doggie paddle race, a freestyle relay and a surprise race, which was a dive for pennies. The events were separated into men's and women's divisions. In addition, the teams received points both for the bathing beauty contest and for spirit, Manzinger said. In the fraternity division, the medley relay was won by Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. everybody's having a good time, especially when we're raising money for such a good cause." Beta Theta Pi's Eric Haaijer said, "There's a lot of energy in the greek system — it's nice to see that they (fraternities and sororities) are all pulling together to raise money for charity. It's a good interfraternal thing to do."

Although the amount of money raised has not yet been determined, the total amount should equal or better last year's total. Manzinger said 'We raised about the same amount that we did last year — maybe more," she said. "There was a
