The new interns are something else as well. One is studying so much for other degrees he must steal barbituates. Another is persistently trying to solve his Rubik's cube. Still another could pass for Herve Villechaise's twin brother. And two others just might be made for one another

Such are the silly matters we are presented in "Young Doctors in Love," a comedy that took its own sweet time getting to State College. It premieres here this week, only after being released nationwide for nearly two months. Was it worth the wait? Hard to

Garry Marshall, the film's director, must have thought this would be a wonderful idea for a comedy. Do a takeoff of the daily network soaps, get a couple of gag writers to saturate the film with a lot of crazy jokes (or topical ones) and to broaden the appeal, cast ters in the film. Come to think of it. that's not a bad marketing plan,

The finished product is a screwy amalgam of romance, politics, slapstick and a lot of topical gags, among them the first "E.T." joke. The humor is occasionally offensive and sometimes forced, but the jokes fly with relative consistency. ter of this tale. On the other side of this coin, one of the new kids (Michael McKean) is a shimmering prospect of physicianhood. His cocksure, tactless demeanor, though, offends just about everybody - especially a particularly stunning young lass (Sean Young) just as determined as he to make it in medicine. Of course, these two will be swooning over each other in virtually no

Music industry back in groove with fall releases

A long list of anticipated fall releases by "big name" acts should boost the music industry in the coming months. After a boring summer of mediocre material, some new and exciting tunes would be a welcome change for the record companies who have been troubled by vanishing profits, and to us listeners who have been troubled with apathy.

Columbia Records launched it all a few weeks ago with the release of High Adventure, the latest

> Michael Jackson's Thriller lp will be his followup to Off The Wall, which spawned four Top Ten hits. Along with Jackson on the Epic label will be a greatest hits collection by Dan Fogelberg and a double live set by Ozzy Osbourne, all scheduled for October. Epic is "hoping" for Boston's follow-up to the platinum Don't Look Back, and also expects new Garland Jeffries and Adam Ant material. Two members of Genesis head Atlantic's fall list Mike Rutherford is expected to release his solo album this month, and Phil Collins' follow-up to Midler, Firefall, Poco, Orleans, Gary Numan, Henry Paul Band and Robert Palmer. A & M's big fall release will be Supertramp's studio lp, Famous Last Words, the first of such in nearly three years, following its Breakfast in America album and its live Paris set. The new album will feature vocals by Ann and Nancy Wilson of Heart. Also on October's agenda will be new Joan Armatrading, Chuck Mangione, and The Police's Sting, who has been working with the soundtrack to the upcoming film "Brimstone." RCA expects to have new albums by Hall & Oates, Diana Ross and Jefferson Starship out this Vangelis' To The Unknown Man are also due out

Signals, the new Rush album that contains the hit "New World Man." made its debut last week. Other

Polygram label acts due this fall are Kiss, the Pat Travers Band, Def Leppard and Mac Davis. Kim Carnes' Voyeur was just released on EMI-America while Arista is priming Gino Vannelli's Twisted Heart and some new Barry Manilow. Olivia Newton-John's Greatest Hits Vol. II, which ncludes the single "Heart Attack," was released he end of last week on MCA, the company to be responsible for some new Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers. Also in the making is new Commodores on Motown and new Pat Benatar on Chrysa-

All in all, a lot of new albums by big name acts and a lot of expectations by the record companies for a thrust out of the current sales depression. With a list like the above, the fall should at least
