

Pennant races coming down to the wire

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

As the days dwindle down to a precious few, baseball's September season is building a pennant race climax that probably won't be decided until the final weekend of the regular season.

Going into yesterday's games, Los Angeles held a three-game lead over Atlanta and 4½ over San Francisco in the National League West, in a race that the three teams can decide head to head.

Of the Dodgers' final 10 games, six are against the Giants — three this weekend in Los Angeles and three in San Francisco next weekend when the season ends. Los Angeles also plays two games at home against the Braves.

Atlanta finishes its home schedule this weekend against San Diego and then spends the final week of the season on a California road trip with two games in San Francisco and two more in Los Angeles. The Braves finish the season in San Diego and will be watching the scoreboard to see how the Dodgers and Giants are making out in that final three-game series in San Francisco.

After their weekend in Los Angeles, the Giants return home to finish out the schedule against the Braves, Houston Astros and the Dodgers.

Interested spectators to that three-way tug of war in the West will be the St. Louis Cardinals, who've opened a 5½-game spread in the National League East. The Cards, with a magic number of six to clinch their division, have scouts watching all three West contenders, preparing detailed reports for Manager Whitey Herzog and his staff.

Herzog's old team, the Kansas City Royals, dropped three games back of California in the American League West race when the Angels completed a three-game sweep of the Royals. In the process, Kansas City lost second baseman Frank White.

Kansas City has lost six in a row to slip from two games in front to three behind. "We've got to win our last 10 games," said Hower.

After this weekend in Oakland, the Royals return home for the season's final seven games — the first three against the Angels, the final four against Oakland.

In the AL East, Milwaukee holds a 2½-game lead over Baltimore and the Brewers and Orioles will settle things between themselves.

Lady booters tally win

The women's soccer club captured its first victory of the season yesterday, outscoring Lancaster 3-2.

Shawn Ladda scored the first goal for the Lady Lions on a direct kick. But soon after, the Lancaster team netted one, ending the half at 1-1.

Within the first minute of the second half, Lisa Cooper scored on a pass from Amy Breckenridge and the Lady Lions began taking control of the game.

Lancaster was only able to score once more before Elvira Falsetta tomorrow afternoon at Jeffrey Field.
